LIFE ON THE BALL IS A HARD ONE

O. P. R. Engineer's Experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They Brought Back His Strength When He Could Neither Rest Nor.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 6.—(Special).— Mr. Ben Rafferty, the well known G. P. R. engheer, whose home is at 175 Maple street, is one Winnipeg man who swears by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Long hours on the engine and the mental strain broke down my constitution," Mr. Rafferty says. "My back gave out entirely. Terrible, sharp, cutting pains followed one another, till I felt I was being sliced away piecesses! I would come in tired to death from a run. My sole dueire would be to get rest and sleep, and they were the very things I could not get. Finally I had to lay off work.

work.
"Then I started to take Dodd's Bidney Pills, and the first night after, using them I slept soundly. In three days I threw away the belt I have worm for years, Dodd's Kidney Pills cured use,"

DEVOTION OF SLAVES TO THIER MASTERS

The devotion of slaves to their masthere in time of war, is no new thing moder the sun. The fact that their masters are in arms has always, no doubt, borne its part in the phemomenon. But it does not wholly account for the absolute devotion of the megroes. It is to the eternal eredit at one of the whites and of the negroes that, during these four years of war, when the white men of the south were absent in the feld, they could entrust the r homes, their wives, their children, all they possessed, to the guardianship and care of their slaves, with absolute confidence in their fidelity. And this trust was never violated. They were their faithful guardiens, their sympathizing friends, and their shrewd advisors, guarding . their property, enduring necessary denial with chearfulmens, and identifying themselves with their masters' fortunes with the dewetion, not of slaves, but of clans-

The devotion of the body servants Still devotion of the body servants to their masters in the field is too well known almost to need mention, and what is said of them in this paper is owing gather to the feeling that the statement of the fact is a stebt due to the class from which these came than to thinking it necessary to emighten the reader.

When the southern men went into the field there was always a contest among the negroes as to who should accompany them. Usually, the choice of the young men would be for some of the younger men among the servants, while the choice of the family would be for some of the older and more staid members of the household, who would be prudent, and thus likely to take better care of their masters. And thus there was much heartbursing among the younger megroes, who were almost as eager the field there was always a contest or megroes, who were almost as eager for adventure as their masters.— From The Old-time Negro, by Thomas Nedson Page, in the November Scrib-

HOBO'S TOAST.

Some toast the home and friendship's bond,

Bad some of family trees are fond, They're not fer me—my way I beat,
and trample ties beneath my feet.
—"Teasts and Tributes."

The best way to shape the careers of some young men is with a stout chals.

"CANADIAN" RUBBERS

The maximum of looks and wea

DAYS OF AULD LANG SYNE

Interesting Events of Ye Olden Times Cathered from The Planet's Issues of Half a Century Ago

**** Continued from Page 9

the corner of King and Fourth Sts., Mr. James Wickham has erected an addition to the building that was at addition to the building that was at one time the residence of Thomas M. Taylor, Esq., which the former now occupies as a cabinet shop and ware room. In Chatham North, which is rapidly improving in every respect, Mr. M. D. Wood, an active, intelligent and enterprising American, has purchased the site and foundation of Slagg's brick brewery, which was destroyed some time ago. dation of Slagg's brick brewery, which was destroyed some time ago by fire. The spot now has assumed a new aspect, Mr. Wood having had it splendidly rebuilt and vastly improved internally and externally. On Monday he will commence brewing operations, his brewer being a most experienced man from the largest brewery in Detroit.

A QUESTION OF SPEED.

The judge, lawyers, and everybody lse were badgering an Irishman bout the speed of a cart. about the speed of a cart.
"Was it going fast?" queried the judge.

"Yis, it were," answered the wit-

"How fast ?"

"Oh, purty fasht, yer honer."
"Well, how Tasht?"
"Purty fasht."
"Was it as fast as a man can

"Aw, yis," said the Irishman, glad that the basis for an analogy was thus supplied to him. "As fasht as two min kin run." — Birmingham, England, Post.

NO DIFFERENCE.

No distinction is made as to the kind of Piles that Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cures.

The names Internal, External, Bleeding, Blind, Itching, Suppurating, etc., are simply names of the different stages through which every will pass if it continues long enough.

Piles are caused by congestion or stagnation of blood in the lower bowel, and it takes an internal remedy to remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tab-

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally.

It is a permanent cure and no case of Piles has ever been found it failed to cure. Money back if it does, A guarantee with every package. Price $1.00 at any druggist's, or The Wilson-Frye Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

WISHING.

Do you wish the world were better Let me tell you what to do; Set a watch upon your actions, Keep them always straight and true. true.

Rid your mind of selfish motives,

Let your thought be clean a high;

You can make a little Eden

Of the sphere you occupy.

Do you wish the world were wiser? Well, suppose you make a start, By accumulating wisdom In the scrapbook of your heart!

Do not waste one page on folly;
Live to learn and learn to live,
If you want to give men knowledge,
You must get it ere you give. Do you wish the world were happy

Jos you wish the world were happ Then remember day by day Jus tto scatter seeds of kindness As you pass along the way; For the pleasures of the many May be ofttimes traced to one,

As the hand that plants an acorn Shelters armies from the sun. Judging a girl's weight is often a slight miss calculation.

An absorbing interest is the secret

Felt Weak and Nervous.

Had Faint and Dizzy Spells.

These symptoms arise from a weak ondition of the heart and nerves. Wherever there are sickly people with reak hearts and deranged nerves,

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

will be found an effectual remedy. Through the medium of the nervous system, they impart a strengthening and restorative influence to every organ and tissue of the body.

They restore enfeebled, enervated, exhausted, devitalized, or overworked men and women to perfect constitutional

Miss Maggie L. Cleveland, Bayswater, N.S., tells how she was cured in the fellowing words :-

"I was sick for the past year, and became thoroughly run down. I had faint and dizzy spells, and felt weak and nervous all the time. I tried numerous remedies, but could get no help. I then read in the paper about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and got a box of them. Before I had used one-half the box I began to get better, so got another one, and by the time the two were finished I was as well as ever."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, 50 cents per box, or 8 for $1.25. All dealers, or THE T. MILBURN CO., LIMITED, TORONTO, ONT.

DEBUTANTE'S VIEWS

OF SOCIETY

The average g.rl, living quietly at home in town or country, no Loubt often thinks enviously of the lot of her more favored s.s.er in the larger cities, who at eighteen or twenty as the case may be, are launched into society, by clever and accom-plished mothers, with as much celat as can be made to surround a deawordly point of view at least, seems except enally fortunate. That all the girls who thus "come out" under the most favorable conditions, are by no means delighted with their environment, is made plain by a cor-respondence which an English newspaper woman has had with a girl of the period who has lately been intro-duced to London society. It is safe to assume that the frank young perclass. Unhappily, the first lesson a debutante learns, through false pride and shame, is to lie bravely and perseveringly about her new experences. She always has "a lovely time" at every dance, concert, ball, or tea to which she goes willingly or the reevery dance, concept, ball, or the to-which she goes, willingly or the re-verse. Often, the "lovely time" has its climax in a fit of passionate weeping in the solitude of her own chamber, over the disappointment, discomfiture and neglect she has had to endure.

"For, whatever, people like to say about the delights of being eighteen," comments the journalist on the case of her unhappy young friend, it is precisely at eighteen, it would appear, that the female person, afloat on the great London tide, finds hereafferent forly we helders and self most forlorn, helpless, and neself most forforn, helpless, and ne-glected. People are in such a hurry, it seems, so immersed in their own love-affairs, secandals, social striv-ings, and money-making, that they have little more than an indifferent glance or a careless not for a young giance or a careless nod for a young girl who has but just emerged from the school room. Unless she happens to have a particularly popular and tactful mother, who has intiated her into society's ways before her formal appearance, she will find herself, at the beginning of a season, in as strange a country as the interior of Africa, or the wilds of Alaska. It is true that the modern girl, with her voluminous smatterings and multifudinous accomplishments, can hardly be qualified as ings and multitudinous accomp ishments, can hardly be qual.f.ed as native, yet the mental abyss between the finishing governess and the flippant young man who will take her in at her first dinner party is sufficiently w de to bewilder a more balanced brain than hers. Conversation "in the world" is so largely conducted nowadays by means of the ellipse and the innuendo, that a newcomer to the social feast, unaware of what has been going on for the last sx months, might as well listen to a dialogue in Choctaw as to one in this year of grace in London society.

"Last night," writes my bewildered young correspondent, "I dined out, with my father and mother, at what is called, I hear, an amusing house. I can only say it was anything but amusing to me! There were no girls there, only quite elderly women, women about forty-five. Of course they men about forty-five, Of course they men about forty-five, for they had the most youthful little curls and white frocks, and pear necklaces, but most of them were mothers of school friends of mine. One Lady Belchamber, who has the most exquisite Titian-red hain, is actually a grandmother. Well, all these women had plenty to say to mother, but they stared me up and down until I thought Leonie must have forgotten to fasten one of the hooks at the back of my dress, and they just said something civil in a frigid voce when I was introduced and went on whispering among themselves. I really thought I must be looking a perfect fright, only father had told me I looked sweet before we left the house, and the fatigued looking young man who took me in said several rather pointed things before he settled down and devoted himself to the woman on his other side. It was the woman with the Titian-red hair who is a grandmother! Thiak of it.

. It was my first dinner party, and the young man who took me is never spoke to me after the fish. Perhaps I looked huffy at the silly things he said about me, but at any rate I had to ait mum-chance all through that interminable dinner."

"If this is what going out' is like," continues my debutante. "I think I would rather stay at home and make toffy and read novels in the school room. After dinner the most of them sat down to bridge, and I sat alone on a sofa until our host, who is awfully bald, and in the Government, I believe, came and talked to me about the income tax, and asked would I like to hear a debate in the House? At eleven o'clock we went on to a political 'crush,' and that was still more boring. I literally didn't know a soul. There were hordes of ladies, and one or two, busy, tired-looking little men, who I was told were journalists, and a good many funny-looking couples who it seems, were Members of Parliat seems, were Members of Parlia-nent and their wives. One couple ment and their wives. One couple walked about arm-in-arm all the evening! A band made a great din on the stairs, but there was absolutely no amusement. It was too awful; there was no one to offer, you even a glass of lemonade, and as I had been to a dinner party, of course I was fearfully hungry. At last we got home, fagged out, and looking like old rags, and I was delighted to jump into bed and eat checolate. I'm going to implore mother not to take me into society this ther not to take me into society this season. Mother says it's essential to 'show oneself' in London, though what's the point of showing yourself when no one wants to look at you or takes the trouble to speak to you, I can't imagine." an't imagine."

There seems, indeed, to be more than a spice of truth in this young person's plaint. The fact is that she shored, poor child, because she has no one of her own jocund years to no one of her own jocund years to talk to. Every age has its shib-boleth, and world-wise thirty-five has boleth, and world-wise thirty-five has nothing in common with eighteen and its innocencies and illusions. We do not take out boys to dinners before they are of age, we wisely intern them in universities, or subject them to the stern social discipline of the mess-room before they are let loose on society. My charming little correspondent, I feel sure, would be thoroughly happy with boys and girls of her own age, punting on the Thames, romping on the hockey ground, or dancing to the schoolroom piano. Before she came to town, and was presented at Court, she had entrancing visions of the she had ertrancing visions of the London season, and its so-called galeties, but it is obvious that the inevitable disillusion has come with first dinner party and the fatigued young man who preferred to talk to a lady who might almost have been been grandmother. her grandmother.

**** HOW MODERN BATTLES ARE EAUGAT

To-day circumstances place a commander completely out of sight of his army. He is usually located at least 10 or 15 miles from the firing line, and in many instances is even farther away. He sits in a room, whence ratiate telephone and telegraph lines to the remotest portions of the field, placing him in instantaneous communication with his principal subordinates. The famous painting of Napoleon at Austerlitz represents, in the popular eye, a commanding general directing a great battle. But it belongs to the warfare of the past. The artist who aspires to depict the direction of a modern battle must show a man modern battle must show a man seated at a table on which is epread a huge map dotted with little flags, indicating the location of the opposing forces, with an ordinary desk telephone at his elbow. In an adjoining room is a switchboard, where sit alert operators ready to connect the commander with any of the field

To Woo Sweet Dreams enjoy a bedtime cup of beef tea made from Armour's Extract of Beef. It's grateful to the stomach, is quickly digested, soothes the nerves, stimulates circulation, and brings sound, refreshing sleep.

Armour's Extract of Beef is liquid roast beef. It has the strength—the rich flavor—of prime roast beef, without the indigestible fibre. Just 1/2 teaspoonful to a cup of hot water makes delicious beef tea. It's econ ARMOUR LIMITED, TORONTO

Armour's Tomato Bouillon, a tempting relish. Makes delicious bouillon.

SOLD BY ALL GROCERS AND DRUGGISTS.

headquarters. From this room, also, ments are needed here, that ammunition is running low there, that this division has been cut into pieces, that those troops have been two days without food, and so on, along his 40 miles of front, and takes his measure accordingly. This picture is not fanciful. With due allowance for the fallibility of all human devices when subjected to the strain of abnormal conditions, it is substantially correct.—Scribner's Magazine.

A BLIND BOY'S WONDERFUL FEATS.

Young Stephen Melliuger, of Denver, Pa., does things remarkable in one who moves, as he does, in continual darkness. His senses of touch and hearing are very keen. He works in the field, He sows, uses the rake and spade, helps harvest the crops, milks, climbs trees, and, what is still more remarkable, drives spirited horses and rides a bicycle.

The boy is as bright and cheerful as any of his associates. He is ably to harness a horse unaided and to drive several miles to the village, where the household supplies are obtained. Every morning it is his duty comes the steady clicking of a score of telegraph instruments, busily re-ceiving and sending messages. But Ere Your Death ceiving and sending messages. But for the military uniforms of the mes-sengers and the going and coming of staff officers, the man at the table might be a stock operator (directing Occurs and your will requires to be probated. You can depend upon the exist-ence and good service of this through his brokers, a deal in stee or railroad securities. Even the sten company, even though that length of time clapse or railroad securities. Need the stell-ographer at his elbow is not lack-ing, but sits quietly taking messages under dictation, to be transmitted presently by telegraph. Other officers presently by telegraph. Other officers copy these messages and file them away, after putting them under a time-recording stamp, to show the hour they were sent, so that afterward delinquencies may be located and responsibilities fixed. Thus, apart from the excitement and horrors of the battlefield, a general sits at a desk and calmly directs the battle. He hears that this attack has been repulsed, and that reinforcements are needed here, that ammunition is running low there, that this London and Western TRUSTS COMPANY LIMITED LONDON to hitch a horse to a milk wagos and drive a mile to Denver village. In this drive he is compelled to cross railroad tracks at two points. Spirited horses are his delight, and

It May be 50 Years

Spirited horses are his delight, and two belonging to his father which are too wild for the average man to handle with safety are used by him without a thought of danger. It is unwas for other persons than he to approach these an mals. The young man does not work, ride or walk in the hesitating manner, after the usual fashion of the blind. He takes a fashorse out on the road and gallops at full speed, turning out for vehicles and other hesses and rounding sharp corners without pulling up. On his wheel he rides as if possessed of full sight, and can be seen alone miles from his home.

There are fellows who laugh and grow fat over their own jokes. When a man aspires ne will probably soon perspire.

The girl who makes sheep's eyes at you sometimes pulls the wool over your own.

We must clear out all our fur coats and robes. Big cut now. Gee. Stephens & Co.

Shoe Clerk-" Ves. madam, we find that of all the shoe polishes, nothing ap-

2 in 1 in giving satisfaction to our Lady-" I'm glad to hear it. I have a box of one of the so-called 'just as good as 2 in 1 polishes," and it is no good. It's a pleasure to deal with a house that

Shoe Clerk-"Well, madam, I would be very foolish to try to sell substitutes, for '2 in 1' is the best shoe polish made."

Black and Tan-10 and 25 cent boxes and 15 cent collapsible tuber

GE—The

All Page Fencing and Gates shipped from our factory in future (except our railroad fencing) will be painted WHITE, a trade-mark as it were, in order that ours can be readily distinguished from others at a glance. There now are other fences which at first appearance look much like ours though they are much different in quality. By coating ours WHITE there can be no confusion among buyers. While this coating of WHITE gives Page Fence and Gates a distinguishing feature, it will also be a preservative as an aid to the galvanizing in preventing rust. It is now commonly known to everyone that even galvanized wire will, in certain localities, rust. In addition to these, we are making several other changes and improvements in our goods that will make them still better than ever, and still further ahead of all competitors. Get from us, or local dealers, printed matter explaining everything about our Fences, Gates and Lawn Fences.

Remember:-Page Fence is WHITE, WHITE, WHITE. And Page Gates are WHITE. PAGE WIRE FENCE CO. LIMITED, WALKERVILLE

"Page Fences Wear Best." Geo. Stephens & Co., Chatham, Local Dealers