How Rural Telephones May Save Lives.

The loss of a few minutes may mean the loss of a life in case of an accident on the farm. Sometimes the accident is so trifling that the patient can, at once, be driven to the doctor's house.

But, suppose the accident is of a serious nature and requires immediate attention, what then?

If you haven't a telephone in your home, you have to hitch up your horse and go for a doctor.

With a telephone, you simply call the doctor and he advises what to do until he arrives.

Without the service of a telephone at a vital moment like this, the patient's life might be lost.

It's only when accidents such as these are actually brought home to you that you value the convenience of a telephone.

As we manufacture about ninety per cent. of all telephones used in Canada, don't you think their merits are worth investigating?

A post card with your address, will bring you by return mail full particulars of installing a rural telephone service.

You can build and operate your own telephone line.
