

"The best value for the least money" is the motto of Blue Ribbon Tea

THE ATTACK ON THE CHAISE.

BY H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON.

Being an Incident in the Life of Dick Ryder, Otherwise Galloping Dick—Sometime Gentleman on the Road—From Harmsworth's.

Fly, fly, white there is time. Here were the two culprits in uniform for my withdrawal, which would fetch them out of a scrape, yet how far the girl in distress, imploring me, I pushed her further, as indeed, I had the right, I folded my arms.

She paused upon the edge of tears, as I could see pretty plain, and says I bluntly, "You were misled, and by them that should not," and I scowled at York where he stood.

"Let him be, Lydia," says York, pleasantly. "He's an obstinate fellow, and, faith, deserves his fate. Let him hang; I know me, my guardian keeps me close. He stands in my way, and will not allow me what is due to all women. I am not a scoffer, I am a man of a certain height," and she raised herself to her full stature.

"Why, I said with a laugh, 'It seems I must condone wounds and abduction and all.' 'This on me the brute will fall—the shame and scandal,' she urged, and, looking in her pretty face, I could resist no longer, for I'll swear she was genuine, and had been misled by that muckraker.

"He is a hog," says I, "a pig of a man to interfere with you, madam." "But here I spoke York, when he had bitte, ha, held his tongue, yet it was imposibie.

"Whereupon I went forward to the fellow, who gnawed his lip and fidgeted. He looked at Miss Lydia as if about to speak, and then shot an angry glance at me, but paused.

THAT OLD PAIN AGAIN

Gnawing, Piercing Pains That Almost Make You Scream.

It is your old enemy, rheumatism, come again with the winter to torture you. These pains, remember, are caused by bad blood, you may ease them by rubbing with liniment and outward lotions, but cannot get rid of them in that way.

CUTTING TEETH

A Trying Time to Both Baby and Mother

There is no time when baby requires more attention than during the teething period. At that time the little one is always cross and fretful, subject to stomach disorders and somnolence.

that touch on my arm sent through me an amazing thrill, so that, beholding her so vastly handsome and passionate, my blood fired at the sight.

"Madam," said I, very grave, "I thought to do you some good, and that perhaps would have been my reward. But I find myself only to have plunged you in embarrassments, for which may I be whipped. What could I get for my pains, then? Why, nothing, not even the private consolation to have relieved you; and in this escape what toilsome me is not so much the ignominy as the deprivation of these eyes of one they would have dwelt on always."

"I was not ill pleased, as you will admit, and I got it off with unalloyed ease, being so close to me, and deviled, enticing. The sounds were not now audible, and I was at the window, so that I suppose she had forgot her tremors. A desire to look up in her face under my boldness, and my eyes were fixed on her. 'What would you have me do?'"

SUITABLE FOOD FOR HORSES.

It is necessary, especially with hard-working horses, that a large portion of the daily ration be composed of the more concentrated feeding stuffs.

Some good rations for 1,000-pound horses at moderate work are suggested by Jordan: 1. 10 lbs. oats, 11-12 lbs. hay, 10-12 lbs. oats and barley, equal parts by weight.

HER SKATING LESSON.

I certainly thought her a beauty; I thought that she must be my fate.

Oh, she was the hour when I told her I'd make for some morning a date! She came, I endeavored to hold her, and teach her the way she should skate.

JUST ARRIVED FROM THE ISLAND.

A native of Prince Edward Island had gone forth to see the world.

"Will you register?" asked the clerk, handing him a pen. "Register?" said the traveller. "What's that?" "Write your name."

FEEDING WORK HORSES.

Food Required by the Working Horse.

The horse has a smaller stomach than the ox, and consequently must be fed less at a time. It has less power to digest coarse foods. It eats much slower, as it must do all its chewing before the food is swallowed.

SPIDERS ARE REAL SCIENTISTS.

Most of us, like little Miss Maffitt, regard the spider as a very terrifying creature, remorseless and cruel.

But the larva or grub which comes out of the egg needs living food. It is a ravenous, flesh-eating maggot, and so the mother wasp pounces on a spider, turns it over on its back, and with scientific precision stings it in the middle of the thorax.

SOME SAMPLE RATIOMS.

- Some good rations for 1,000-pound horses at moderate work are suggested by Jordan: 1. 10 lbs. oats, 11-12 lbs. hay, 10-12 lbs. oats and barley, equal parts by weight.

COON, ENCLOSED IN A VASE OF WONDERFUL STRENGTH AND BEAUTY.

When the little spiderlings come out of the cocoon, perhaps five hundred or a thousand fluffy little things out of a single nest, they speedily spin silken lines here and there to form a playground where they can run out and take exercise, and then they begin to spin webs of wonderful geometrical pattern that their parent made before they were born.

LIBERTY.

What man is there so bold that he should say, "Thus, and thus only would I have the sea?" For whether lying calm and beautiful, Clasp the earth in love and throwing back The smile of heaven from waves of amethyst;

BRONCHIA COLDS AND CHEST PAINS

Group, Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs and Colds Yield Promptly to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

There are many reasons why you should use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in preference to any other treatment for diseases of the throat and lungs.

YOUTH'S COMPANION.

The other man looked at him in amazement. Then he said, with an emphasis that left no doubt of his feelings, "Prince Edward Island man. What other island is there?"

There are many reasons why you should use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in preference to any other treatment for diseases of the throat and lungs.