

HASZARD'S GAZETTE.

Wednesday, January 16, 1856.

We cannot, for our own sake as well as for his, suffer the charge made by the Editor of the Islander in the paper of the 11th inst., to go unnoticed. We had hoped, that our contemporary knew us better and gave us credit for more manly and more gentlemanly feeling than to suppose for one instant, that we alluded to the slander in the Examiner for the amiable purpose of—as he states—"assisting to give, what they consider a personal detraction, a wider circulation."

So, to compare small things with great, is it in the present day, that Governor Hincks has his opponents and his partisans, so has Howe, so has Sir Allan M'Nab, so has Johnston, and it is difficult to say where the truth really lies. The fact is, that these Colonies are now, to borrow a figure from geology, in their transition state, to what they will ultimately settle down, time alone can tell; it is evident, however, that a good deal more of change must be looked for before their permanent destination is achieved.

We shall take our contemporary the Islander's definition of Responsible Government into consideration, and calmly and temperately examine into the correctness of it. It is a matter of great importance that we should know not only by whom we are governed, but the principles on which that government acts.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—Last evening Mr. John Williams, gave his instructive Lecture on "Cornish Mining," to a full house; he explained in a clear and lucid manner the mode of working the Veins or Lodes—and the means by which the Miners descend into and ascend from the pits, a distance of from sixty to two thousand feet. The Lecturer gave ample evidence of his thorough knowledge of the subject and his familiarity with the Cornish dialect, the repetition of some of the terms of which was followed by applause and laughter; owing to the many branches of operation connected with the subject, he found it impossible to condense it into one short Lecture; and was therefore requested to give a continuation of the same during the present Session of the Institute.

T. Heath Haviland, Esq., V. P., will lecture on Tuesday evening next, on "Modern History."—Com.
