JACKMAN The Tailor,
THE MAIL ORDER HOUSE.

The Kelligrews Tangle.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Kindly afford me space in your esteemed journal to give expression to the indignation which is felt here over the manner in which Messrs. Woodford and Murphy are allowing the Customs and Post Office to be handled. To say that this Government easily excels all former administrations in the matter of sacrificing public interests for what they deem political expediency is to put it mildly indeed.
There never was a greater exhibition of it on this shore than that which has victimized the people of this place during the last six months. This subject has been voiced through the press on more than one occasion, but in order to be fair to the Government the situation was merely explained and a request was made for a remedy. The request has been ignored by Messrs. Woodford and Murphy, though their better conscience must surely tell them it's an injustice to compel people to wait outside a window in all kinds of weather for their turn to post mail or receive it. The writer on more than one occasion has stood among a group of shivering mortals waiting for the foreign mail to be handed out while a north-easter drove the rain in through the raised window, saturating everything that was not waterproof; and yet the Government pays a man from St. John's about $500 a year to do the letter retelling through the window.

This is the treatment which Messrs. Woodford and Murphy mete out to their supporters in Kelligrews and surrounding settlements. Since we cannot make matters better, we are at least free to protest. As patience has ceased to be a virtue, we are obliged to talk straight, though the truth may be bitter. There is not a voter in this section but knows that his interest in connection with these public offices is being sacrificed on behalf of a couple of political heblers here, who have always had about as much influence over the intelligent electors of this shore as they have in settling the Chinese Revolution.

Briefly reviewing the intolerable situation here, we are reluctantly compelled to refer to the principals in the principal causes leading up to the present disgraceful conduct of public affairs.
In the spring election of 1909 Mr. Woodford, apparently prompted by some incomprehensible idea that a certain resident of this place had some influence over the independent electors, forthwith gave this man and family all Government jobs and patronages, such as Customs, Road Board, unloading of Government wharf material, distributing of trout fry, driver of himself and Government officials, and supplier of two inch plank for bridge flooring, etc., to the exclusion of good three inch spruce which was offered for less money.
The first reward began by the appointment of one of the family as Deputy Returning Officer at the booth here. We next find the same person patiently waiting during the long summer for Woodford to redeem his pledge to have Mr. Hibbs dismissed and to give him the Customs position. This act served a double purpose, viz., as political reward on the one hand and a gratifying revenge on the other, because Hibbs had done his duty and collected 40 per cent. upon a suit of harness. The Customs was given him in October, and it is for the public to judge how that important branch of the public service has been carried on.
We are next treated to a transparent ruse, when father and son almost simultaneously resign Post Office and Customs positions, and Mr. Woodford promises to merge the two into one, as it were, and give the son $400 as salary. However public opinion was too much aroused. Very popular and qualified persons have applied, offering their services for the salary which was formerly received, viz., $100 for each job, and it was thought advisable to let the matter rest for awhile, and two men from St. John's are doing the work at a cost of only about the rate of $1200 per annum, thus practising the right economy which the Government are already celebrated for.
Now we again ask to have these things added right here, and we call upon the Premier to give this important matter his attention and have one of the popular applicants appointed postmaster, so that provision be made to have a nearer roof than the sky to protect people, as well as mail matter from the elements which we have to encounter at this season, and also take the Customs into town, and when another local man is appointed we hope he won't have to harass the railway agent and others help do the little Customs work for him; and please don't keep us until Mr. Murphy's friend learns telegraphy to take a Postal Telegraph office.

In conclusion we say to the Government in all earnestness, if you want our respect and good-will, then for goodness sake don't disgrace our public service by turning them into political sops for selfish heblers.
Sincerely yours,
JUSTICE.

Advantages of Gas.

But the advantages of gas over the old-fashioned way of conducting domestic affairs is by no means confined to cooking. If, instead of gently pulling that magic chain, which turns on the bright incandescent light, one had first to have ordered and taken in oil, polished the pedestal of the oil lamp, cleaned the glass chimney, trimmed the wicks, filled the bowl with oil, one might cry out about the difficulty of doing the day's work, and the dreadful dearth of really reliable domestic servants. Geyers in a bathroom avoid all the disappointment of finding that the water is only tepid instead of being boiling hot, because the kitchen fire has been allowed to burn low after the cooking for the day is over. With a geyser all the trouble of stoking and building up the fire, and keeping it at a certain height are unnecessary, one strike of the match applied to the burners is absolutely all that is needed for the attainment of a hot bath, and the water heats with great rapidity. While there are young children, it is often of untold importance to have ready to hand the means of giving a hot bath in case of sudden illness; so this is another point in favour of substituting gas for the old method of heating, cooking &c. During the winter months gas fires also play a prominent part in lessening the labours of the housewife. It is satisfactory, after having been out for some hours, to be able, on returning home, to get all the benefit of a cheerful fire in an incredibly short space of time, without waiting whilst the wood splutters, and the coal frequently refuses to kindle. When unexpected visitors arrive, it is so easy, whilst discussing the cheering cup, to set a match to the gas fire in the drawing room, and the tender nature of the apartment having risen to a desirable height, the evening can be pleasantly passed in the enjoyment of music, for it is here that the piano usually finds a home.
By using the gas ring at the top of the cooker, a plentiful supply of hot water can be obtained for washing dishes, dusters and cloths; further, by obtaining flexible piping, the ever-useful gas-heated iron is at your service. But, it may be urged, is not all this gas rather an expensive item? Properly used, most decidedly Not! For, without its aid, assistance in the household would be many cases, be absolutely indispensable.
In conclusion, it must be said that to abstain from the use of what is such an important factor in the lighting of domestic drudgery is, to say the least of it, being a penny wise and a pound foolish.

The Firemen Meet.

Last night the Firemen's Union held a special meeting, when Delegate Woods reported that Job's, Harvey's and Bowring's had agreed to the men's request for $8 per week while on their ships, and this will be paid them immediately. The donkeymen's pay will be increased to $35 to come into effect next month. This declaration of the liberality of the steamer owners was received with great satisfaction by the Union, and votes of thanks were accorded them as also to Supt. Engineer McGottigan, of Bowring's, Supt. Harvey, and Capt. Delaney, ships husband with the Reid Nid. Co., who had used their good offices in the firemen's behalf. The question of non-Union men working on the Stephano was also discussed, and it was stated that the engineers preferred the local men if they would be attentive and on board promptly when ships are sailing. Men going in ships to the far North or away South will get: firemen, $35 per month, and donkeymen, $40.

Nerves Are Exhausted

And nervous prostration or paralysis is creeping steadily upon you.
You hear of people suddenly falling victims of nervous prostration or some form of paralysis. But when you get all the facts of the case you find that they have had months or years of warning.
They have slept well. There has been frequent attacks of nervous headache. Digestion has failed. They have been irritable, easily worried and excited and have found memory and concentration failing.
Had they but known that these symptoms tell of exhausted nerves or had they realized that the nerves would have restored the feeble, wasted nerves by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
This great restorative treatment does by forming new, rich blood and by rebuilding the wasted nerve cells. No medicine is more certain to prove of lasting benefit to the system. 50 cents a box, 3 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.
