Guards Secrets of the World's Greatest Fleet

Believes You Should Love Your Enemy and Shoot Straight.

There is probably no more efficient officer in all Great Britain than the man chosen by wise admiralty heads to combat the German system of espionage and to penetrate at the same time the German espionage armor. He is Captain William R. Hall, at the outbreak of the war commander of the cruiser Queen Mary, destroyed in the fight off Jutland, and one of the British commanders actually to sink a German man-o-war. This he did in the first Heligoland battle.

Hall is a new fighter of the finest type, a sailor with the salt of the seven seas in his veins and hatred for no man in his heart. They made him chief of the Intelligence Division of the navy, because he knew men as well as ships, and the rest of the world as well as Britain. I have known his encouraging smile to batter down spy disguises, where the usual third degree methods would be futile. It takes a strong man to talk an hour with Hall and not reveal himself.

I never think of Hall as a secret service director without recalling an incident that occurred on the bridge of the good ship Queen Mary as she raced in to the death after scoring a fatal hit on a German cruiser in that first tussle in Heligoland Bight.

Hall is a religious man. Also, like the ablest sea fighters everywhere, he could face death himself with a hundredfold less feeling than would reach the heart at the sight of an enemy bound to the regions of Davy Jones.

Hall first found the German with a shell at seven or eight miles. A broadside from the Queen Mary tilted the enemy, and Hall rushed in at full speed. Through his glasses he could see the German turning up on end and her men crowding aft to stay out of the water as long as possible.

"I'm a bit religious, you know," Hall said to me, "and I didn't like to see the poor beggars going down just that way. I naturally took off my cap and said a little prayer for them. I hadn't got very far with what I had to say, though, when I sort of felt that all was not well, and I cast my off eye seaward.

"Nothing but a torpedo coming dead on amidships! I quit praying there long enough to throw the ship's course over, so as to parallel the course of the torpedo, if possible. Then I took off my cap again and said a prayer for my own crew. We paralleled her all right, and she went skimming by."

Don't Neglect Your Cough.

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insignificant acorn grows if let alone, to the mighty giant oak, that cough if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness. When a Cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known, where serious complications and fatal illness have had their start from a neglected cough or cold. "Don't neglect your cough." Stafford's Phoro-tone Cough and Cold Cure is what you should take. For sale at Stafford's Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and Stafford's Pharmacy, Duckworth Street. Price 25c, postage 5c extra.

No trouble to take this cough remedy. Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's, Nfld. Manufacturers of 3 Specialties: STAFFORD'S LINIMENT. STAFFORD'S PRESCRIPTION A. STAFFORD'S PHOROTONE.

This is Hall, the man who guards the secrets of the world's greatest fleet, and seeks the secrets of the next greatest. He believes you should love your enemies—and shoot straight. Appeal to fear is damaging.

Chicago Tribune:—The fact that the United States has avoided war is a good thing. The fact that it is having its courage and confidence broken down is a very bad thing. "He kept us out of war" is the most demoralizing political cry of the American people have heard in fifty years. The appeal to fear is the most damaging political appeal that could be made. The Wilson campaign is corrupting the people. It is asking them to surrender fortitude and self-respect.

The people who succumb to this appeal need not delude themselves. They are not only yielding to an absurdity, but they are debasing themselves. By so doing they will not avoid anything which may be in store for the American nation, but they are doing their part to make the American nation wholly unfit to meet what may be unavoidable.

France Has Saved Europe Again.

New York Tribune:—Those who were in France during the long and terrible agony of Verdun will best appreciate what the new success will mean to every Frenchman from the Meuse to the Pyrenees. The second of the labors of Hercules has been performed; the flood of barbarism and destruction has a second time been thrown back from the heart of France; the human dike has once more held against the Huns; there will not be a second outbreak of rape, murder and arson by German soldiers and officers in the French villages and towns of Lorraine. Half a million German casualties—a quarter of a million French casualties—this is the measure of the cost of Verdun, but at a terrible price France has saved Europe again, saved herself, and at a colossal sacrifice the Germans have won nothing. The decision of the Marne has been confirmed at Verdun, the day of deliverance may still be long in coming, but the peril of conquest has for France been adjourned without date.

FOR TESTING THE STRENGTH OF FLOORS AND WALLS.

A building inspector of Seattle, Wash., is the inventor of a device for testing floors, walls and columns to determine their safety and carrying strength. The "extensometer," as he calls it, is said to be so sensitive that it measures the ten-thousandth part of an inch. When a floor slab is loaded the under surface stretches and becomes longer while the upper surface becomes shorter by compression. By measuring the amount of change and taking into consideration the kind and quality of the material and the load, it is possible to figure out the safe carrying capacity of the building. The new device is particularly adapted for use on concrete structures, because in them the weak places are not otherwise easily discernible.—Scientific American.

Old Man Thrown From Milk Waggon.

NOW IN HOSPITAL.

About 2 p.m. yesterday, while proceeding down King's Bridge Road, near the old railway track, Mr. Jas. Brien, of Outer Cove, was thrown from his jaunting car and badly injured. It happened that the old gentleman, who is about 76 years of age, was knocked from his seat by a motor car which was coming up the hill, when the rear part of the motor struck one of the wheels of the jaunting cart, smashing the spokes in splinters and otherwise damaging the vehicle. Mr. O'Brien was picked up and taken into the residence of Mr. J. W. Kinsella where he was tenderly cared for till the arrival of Dr. Cowperthwaite who quickly responded to a 'phone call sent in by Mr. P. J. Kinsella. Seeing that the old man's injuries were of a serious nature, the ambulance was immediately summoned and removed the sufferer to the General Hospital. On an examination being held at the institution it was discovered that his right hip was fractured and several small cuts and bruises were inflicted on his body.

Pte. Jacobs Got Five Wounds.

By last evening's English mail Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs, College Square, received letters from their son Fred, who was wounded on October 12th and is now in hospital. Fred, who is an old C. L. B. boy, went through the Gallipoli campaign and the big push on the glorious July 1st without a scratch, but on October 12th received 5 wounds: 2 in the arm, 1 in the shoulder, 1 in the leg and a piece of left ear gone. He writes quite cheerfully and tells his people not to worry as he is getting the best of treatment in Mater Hospital, Belfast, and his wounds are healing fine. He says Edwin Cornick, who is with him, is also doing well.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The s.s. Port Saunders arrived from Bell Island on Saturday night. The steamer as usual had some difficulty in berthing at the public wharf owing to a number of schooners being about. The ferry boat Muriel was also made fast to the outer part of the wharf; a war of words took place between parties concerned. An effort should be made to have the public wharf available at all times for vessels arriving.

In this connection would it not be well to have the dredge here and get the place deepened at the head of the wharf, so as the Labrador steamer and other boats call there at all times. This is talked about and is worthy of consideration. What do the Minister of Marine and Fisheries say?

The lads of the K. E. Brigade to the number of about 50, attended service at the Kirk yesterday forenoon. Rev. F. S. Coffin delivered a most timely address to the lads. On returning to the Armoury a vote of thanks was tendered the rev. gentleman for the excellent service prepared for the boys.

A missionary meeting will be held in St. Paul's Hall on Wednesday night. The speakers on the occasion will be Rev. Mr. Stirling, of Bay Roberts, and Rev. A. G. Bayly, of Bonavista, and the Rector of St. Paul's, Rev. Mr. Higgit.

We had our first touch of winter this morning, all the surroundings being clothed in white, which disappeared when the sun took a peep at it.
