It's Flavor that Makes the Meal!

And the sauces that the Libby chefs have adapted for you give flavor to the simplest dishes.

It may be eggs, or macaroni, or a cheap cut of meat—an unusual and delicious sauce will make it something you eat with delight and remember with pleasure—because of its flavor.

LIBBY'S CATCHUP and CHILI SAUCE are made from red, ripe tomatoes, grown in the fertile soil of Kent County, Ontario, picked when they are mellowed by the sunshine of long summer days, then rushed to the nearby Libby kitchen.

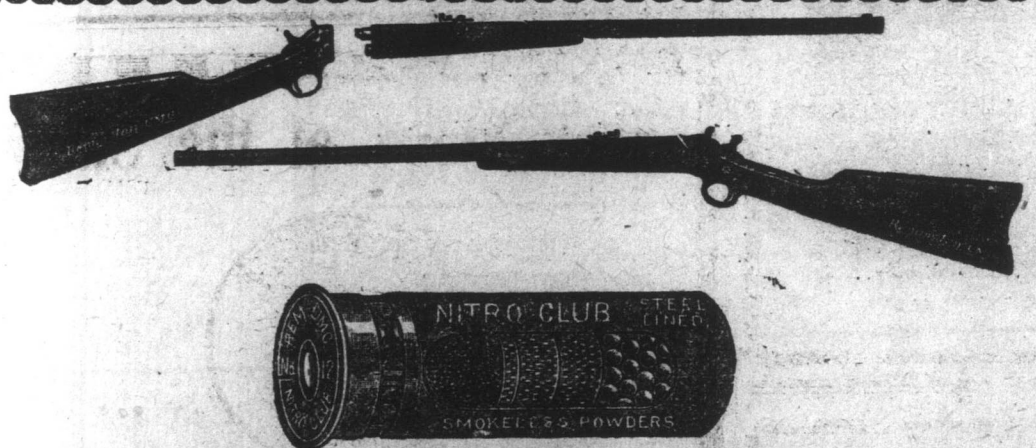

Here in sunny rooms the tomatoes are cooked with fragrant spices, onions, sugar and the best vinegar—cooked for hours until all the flavors are blended through and through.

Now the sauce is ready to give an appetizing relish to your steaks and chops, or a new piquancy to the meat gravy you serve with your roasts.

Your grocer has, or can get you, Libby's Catchup or Chili Sauce. Use it with your cold meat teas and note how quickly the second helping is necessary.

The delightful flavor of Libby's Beans is due largely to the wonderful Sauce prepared by the skilled chefs. Have you tried them?

Household Notes

Spinach and spinach salad is tempting in the spring menu. Mold it in individual molds and serve with dressing. Cook ham for an hour in part milk and water. It will fry a nice brown and will be more tender than if par-boiled.
Add a little oyster liquor and a few oysters to tomato bouillon to give it a savory taste. Boil after adding the oysters.

Fillet of sole is served in a border of potatoes, covered with tomato sauce flavored with curry and a pinch of saffron.
The top of the stove is the only portion which needs blacking. The sides, if wiped carefully with a cloth, will keep bright.

If withered ripe apples are dipped first into lukewarm and then into cold water, they will be partially restored to firmness.
Cut the heels of old rubbers, leaving a narrow strip of rubber for the ankle strap, and you will have a good pair of sandals.
To make an unusual dessert with plain gingerbread, fill the gingerbread with melted marshmallows and top with whipped cream.

Napoleonic Smuts.

(From the Louisville Courier Journal.)

There's only one way to deal with anarchy masquerading in the cloak of Bolshevism. Napoleon wrote the prescription in the streets of Paris 123 years ago.

"Can you control the mob?" inquired Barras in trepidation, of the young lieutenant summoned to his presence.

"Sire," said Napoleon, "I always do what I undertake."

Soon thereafter grape and cannon rained upon elements of disorder thronging the streets of the French capital.

The sun went down that night on a quiet city. Theatres that had been closed reopened their doors. The Government had asserted its authority.

General Smuts has the Napoleonic touch or iron in his blood. Alert to detect, sure to conclude, lightning-like to execute his decisions, the South African Premier has not yet learned how to compromise with treason. His promptitude, his vigor, his policies of instant and stern repression reveal the mettle of the man.

Giant Liner Comfort.

The Homeric, the first of the big new White Star liners for the Transatlantic service this spring, is a queenly vessel of 25,000 tons, and the largest twin-screw steamer in the world, she was acquired from Germany through the Reparations Committee.

A striking feature of the ship is the great number of unusually spacious staterooms, fitted for one person only, with bed and settee and other furniture, so that one gets the effect of a bed-sitting room. An official at an inspection recently said the Homeric would probably come to be regarded as the "bed-sitting room" liner. She has accommodation for 529 first class passengers, and the chief public rooms being on one deck, there is a wonderful vista of green and gold, white and pink from the dining room at one end to the smoke room at the other.

The New York services this summer, with six of the biggest ships afloat, will surpass all records. The White Star Line will have the Homeric, the Olympic, and presently the 56,000 ton Majestic, the largest vessel in the world; and the Cunard Line will have the popular Aquitania, the re-conditioned Berengaria, and the Mauretania.

Southampton port authorities are considering improvements to the deep-water approaches necessary for the manoeuvring of such great vessels.

Rajputana.

The fascination exercised by India over those who know her is manifold; yet of all the races which inhabit the peninsula there is none which appeals more directly to the British mind than the Rajputs, among whom the Prince of Wales has lately been an honored guest, says the Manchester Guardian. Their annals are a veritable mine of feudal romance and knightly chivalry.

"There is not a petty State in Rajasthan," says their chronicler, James Tod, "which has not had its 'Thanes,' mooglas, and scarcely a city which has not produced its Iconidas."

Descent from the Sun himself is proudly claimed by the Maharana of Udaipur, who is head of the Sesodia clan, and there is no blood in India which is bluer than his. But he is probably even prouder of the fact that his is the only dynasty, saving that of Jaisalmer, which, in defiance of eight centuries of foreign domination, still holds sway over the lands which were won by the strong arm of his ancestor. He also is the only clan which never gave a daughter in marriage to the Moguls at Delhi.

The city of Udaipur is a dream of beauty, but it is around the fort of Chitor, sixty-nine miles away, that the legends of a glorious past imperishably cling. Four times did Chitor suffer the horrors of sack, and every incident connected with these disasters reflects the unconquerable soul of the Rajput. The first siege by Akbar in 1569 A.D. failed, and when the second was about to succeed in spite of the sacrifice of eleven royal princes, each made Rana for the day the fatal Johar was commanded. The Rajput women proceeded to an underground cavern and there committed their bodies to the flames. The men, arrayed in bridal robes of saffron, sallied forth and died in arms against the invader. The last conqueror of Chitor was Akbar. In vain was the Johar again proclaimed. Thirty thousand of the inhabitants fell victims in that fateful year 1568 to the ambitions thirst for blood of the self-styled "guardian of mankind," and to this day "the sin of the slaughter of Chitor" is a binding spell upon every Rajput.

To this day also the Maharana of Udaipur, in fulfillment of the vow made by his great forbear, Rana Pratap Singh, refuses to set foot in Delhi, and his beard remains untouched by the shears.
The Maharaja of Bundi is head of the Hara Chauhan sect, who, like the Kachwahans, are agnikula, or "fire-born." His Highness presents a picturesque figure in his durbars, which includes a wide flowing skirt. A sister State is that of Kotah, which separated from Bundi in 1579. From 1771 to 1824 the reins of authority in Kotah were in the hands of the Regent Zaim Singh, the Machiavelli of Rajputana, who during the four-score years of his existence could always say "my secret is my own." Despite the blindness which overtook him in later years he was able to circumvent the crafty Marathas, to quell or calm the turbulence of his fellow-Rajputs, and to extort commendation even from the cold and critical Englishman.

EUROPE'S "JAZZED" CURRENCY.

London, March 23.—Europe's "jazzed" currency became even more jazzed to-day when the mark was quoted on the London Exchange at six a penny, seventy-two times less than its pre-war value. The slump follows Germany's bad reaction to the latest reparations note. Austrian crowns were quoted at 34,000 to the pound.

Many United States business men, who have recently been in Germany, Russia and Eastern European countries, say depreciated currencies, and not mothers-in-law, are now the basis of practically all jokes in theatres, cabarets and humorous periodicals. One American said he entertained three friends at dinner in Moscow several weeks ago, which cost him 1,250,000 rubles, "less than twenty bucks," was the way he described it.

Lord Newton, in House of Lords, recently showed that a stenographer in the Allied Commission in Bulgaria got twenty times the salary of the Bulgarian Prime Minister.

"My expenses in Vienna for three weeks," said a United States business man to-day, "amounted to 400,000 crowns, or $55. It is certainly 'jazz finance.'" An American said to have presented a $1,000 note at a Vienna bank, just to see how much he could get for it, was told, "as many as you like." The latest quotation on rubles in London, is three million to the pound. Compared with Russian rubles and Polish and Austrian crowns, the German mark has still some pretensions to being called money.

NEARLY LOST HER LIFE NURSING DYING MOTHER

"For six months I had to devote all my spare time to nursing my mother who was slowly dying of an incurable disease. Not being well-off we couldn't afford the services of a nurse, so I had to be with her day and night.
She was a large woman and it took all my strength to lift her. Realizing that she had not long to live, she naturally wanted me with her all the time and any spare time which I could snatch from my housework I gave to her. Four months ago she died and an hour after the funeral I went into a dead faint. The loss of sleep, the worry and the extra day and night work had finally been more than I could stand. They put me to bed. I contracted a high fever and was delirious for some days. For a while our doctor gave up all hopes of saving my life. However, I did succeed in pulling through but the strain and the illness had shattered my nerves. Worry and trouble had left me a physical wreck. I was so weak I couldn't lift my hands to my mouth. For two weeks I had to be fed. I gradually got a little stronger but not strong enough to get out of bed. I was determined that I would not give up. Finally one day a friend suggested trying Carnol. I was so anxious to get strong that I was willing to try anything. I never would have believed that any preparation would have made such a change in so short a time as Carnol did with me. To day, thanks to Carnol, I feel fine—in fact I never felt better."
Mrs. S. of Hamilton.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 6-122

Pigott the Forger.

"Forger, liar, and thief, this wretched creature, like an evil spirit, poisoned the political atmosphere of the country for many months." This is the verdict passed by Judge Parry in his article in The Weekly Dispatch on Richard Pigott, the evil genius of the Parnell case.
"Born in County Meath in 1828, Pigott made a place for himself in Irish journalism. Had he died at fifty he would not have been known as a scoundrel. He owned newspapers. Published patriotism. Milked the Fenian funds to live luxurious days. Ate, drank, and entertained extravagantly. Was semi-popular, unrespected, tolerated as a useful party man.

"Then Parnell came. Having no use for the creature and no pity he refused to buy him at any price. Preferred to destroy him. Boycotted his newspapers and then bought them cheap and let him go to the devil— which he did."
Judge Parry tells, in swift, dramatic

Masons in Unique Service.

Montreal, (Canadian Press), March 27.—For the first time in the history of the craft in America, a divine service under the auspices of a Masonic lodge was given in a Jewish place of worship, the function taking place yesterday when Corinthian lodge No. 62 A.F. and A.M.Q.R. assembled at the temple Emanuel, Westmount, a suburb of this city. Representatives from lodges in Toronto, San Francisco and New York were present at the service, and the occasion was marked by a Masonic emblem illuminated by electric lamps being placed on the pulpit in front of the reading desk.

Worshipful Brother Rabbi M. J. Merritt in the course of his address to the congregation spoke of the debt due by masonry to Israel from the time of the foundation of the Temple by Solomon when Solomon and Hiram officiated as grand masters.
