CAUSES OF HAPPINESS.

It's never what we have that gives us happiness. It's never what we lack that gives us happiness. It's just a little bit added to what we have that gives us happiness, and a little bit taken from what we've got that causes unhappiness.

And I don't mean only in regard to material possessions but in regard to everything in life.

Take the matter of love. The woman who is accustomed to receive but little tenderness, few caresses, small consideration from her husband is made glowingly happy at some small access of tenderness, some unwonted consideration, which the ordinary woman would take as a matter of course.

Doesn't Know It.

Whereas the woman who is constantly lapped in the luxury of tenderness and thoughtful affection requires some exceptional stimulus to make her happy.

A certain woman I know married a man who is good looking, well to do, sweet tempered and absolutely devoted to her. Almost anyone would say she was an exceptionally lucky girl. I was told that she was overheard at a dance tolerating her husband. Because he was not anxious to dance with her? No, because he is somewhat shy and not knowing the people at the dance very well, wanted to dance most of the dances with her. "If I had known you were going to treat me like this," she said, "I would never have married you." You can see that it would be hard for that woman to be made happy, not because she has so little but because she has so much.

Pretty for a Day. Take the matter of good looks. The woman who is very pretty gets used to her good looks. She expects to see a charming picture when she looks in the glass. She is forever craving pretty things to make her prettier, forever jealous of other pretty faces. But the girl who is not used to being pretty is happy beyond words when she looks in the mirror and sees that a becoming hat or frock has made her charming for a day.

The whole social game is based on the "just a little bit added to what you've got" idea. The woman who is climbing is never happy with her present circle of friends. It is only when she can add one from an inner circle that she gets a moment of happiness. It's my theory that the reason the people in the very inner circles often behave so wildly, give monkey dinners and that sort of thing, is because they are unutterably bored with a life in which they have everything already and cannot get happiness by winning just a little bit more in the way of social distinctions.

Are They Less Happy?

When you have to work very hard, every extra bit of hard work leisure is a golden possession. Then your life grows easier and leisure becomes less priceless and you must have some larger boon, such as a special trip, to stimulate you to happiness.

We all think of people who are poorer than we and who have harder lives as less happy. Are they, I wonder? If they are not actually below the poverty line doesn't the rule of "just a little bit added to what you've got" work here to give them as much happiness as those who have more? I hope so, anyway.

Sunday School Anniversary

AT COCHRANE STREET CHURCH.

Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Sunday School celebrated its thirty-sixth anniversary yesterday. This school had its inception in the old Temperance Hall under the Superintendency of the late Hon. H. J. B. Woods, who was its only Superintendent for a period of thirty-three years, and since moving to Cochrane St. has grown by leaps and bounds, its roll now numbering over four hundred scholars, forty officers and teachers, a Home Department with sixty-five members, and a Cradle Roll of over two hundred and fifty members. The morning worship was conducted by the Rev. R. E. Fairbairn, B.A., of George Street Church, who addressed the school, taking as the basis of his remarks, four things that Solomon could not understand, as outlined in the thirtieth chapter of Proverbs—the way of an eagle flying in the air, the serpent upon a rock, a ship in the heart of the sea, and what is man. Several important lessons were impressed upon the young people, the chief being that life was like a voyage and it was very important to be equipped well and to follow the lead of the Captain, our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. During the service Mr. Chas. Hatcher sang as a solo, "The Lord is my Life."

AFTERNOON.

The afternoon gathering was presided over by the Superintendent. The beginners and primary departments were heard to advantage in their motion songs and recitations. Mr. W. J. Milley, the Secretary of the school, presented the report for the year's work. Mrs. Leonard Mews, Mrs. Garland, Miss E. Maund and Mr. Lee, also contributed items to the program, which were of special interest. There was also one address and that was given by the popular pastor of the church, the Rev. C. H. Johnson, M.A.

EVENING.

The evening service was the crowning one of the day, and was very largely attended. The service was bright and hearty, the singing being exceptionally fine. The preacher, Mr. Johnson, took as his text, "Now I know in part, but then shall I know even as also I am known." The gate of personality, embracing sight, touch, hearing, smell and taste was ably dealt with, closing with one appeal that all should love their Saviour with all their heart and mind and soul and strength. Miss W. Pike was heard to splendid advantage in the rendering of the solo, "This is my task." We congratulate the Organist of the church, Mr. Arthur Mews, C.M.G., on the singing of yesterday, which must have entailed a vast amount of work in training such a large number of children, all the new hymns that were used yesterday, many of them having been heard for the first time in the city.

Peculiar Discrimination.

(Trade Review.)

Being a sister British Dominion in common with Canada and one of the Imperial units of the British Empire it is only natural to expect that, all other things being equal, the business people of Newfoundland would prefer to do business with Canada rather than with the United States.

The Canadian steamship lines that have steamers plying here from Canadian ports should make their freight rates at least as low as the freight rates by the steamship lines running here from New York and Boston if they wish to increase Canada's trade with Newfoundland.

In some cases the existing rates may show striking difference, but in others the rates are so unequal that considerable money will be saved by shipping from Montreal, Toronto, etc., via New York by rail and thence on to St. John's by Red Cross or Federal Line, instead of down the St. Lawrence direct or via Halifax or St. John.

The disparity is perhaps most apparent in the case of motor cars. The freight rates from New York and Boston to St. John's Newfoundland, is 27½ to 30 cents per cubic foot as against 40 cents per cubic foot from Montreal.

An American Company has a plant at Oshawa in Ontario for the manufacture of automobiles for export, instead of importing a car from this country and having it come via Montreal those who know of the existence of the anomaly to which we refer as regard freight rates are able to save $100 by importing the car via railway to New York or Boston on either the Red Cross or Federal steamers to this port.

Newfoundland is a British Colony and it is difficult to understand why this discrimination in freight rates should be practiced. If Canada wants to hold and increase her trade with Newfoundland, she will have to see that freight rates are, if not less from American ports, at least put on a parity with the rates from New York and Boston.

Of recent years a great deal has been said of "trade with the Empire." This is a poor way to encourage inter-colonial trade. The Trade Review is of the opinion that it would be quite in order for our Board of Trade to take this matter up and make representations to the Canadian Steamship Lines with a view of getting lower freight rates therefrom. (A sentiment with which we heartily agree—Telegram.)

Flying Copper Bar Hits Miss Dalton.

SHE IGNORES INJURY — PARAMOUNT STAR HAS NARROW ESCAPE DURING THE FILMING OF "HALF AN HOUR."

Dorothy Dalton's courage and love of her art were both admirably displayed during the filming of Sir James Barrie's powerful drama "Half an Hour," pictured by Paramount which is the attraction at the Nickel Theatre to-night. In the midst of the "shooting" of some of the most important scenes of the drama the signal for "lights" was given and the cameraman pressed the switch which automatically ignites all lights. As the current went through the switch-board above, a copper plate about 9 by 6 inches and an inch thick, flew off the board, striking Miss Dalton on the shoulder with tremendous force.

It was at first thought the star was seriously injured, but, on closer inspection it was found that the injury amounted only to an abrasion.

The Nickel audience another big "find" in big pictures, this time it is "Madonnas and Men," a gigantic screen spectacle, which will be screened next Monday. It's a picture that everybody in St. John's will want to see.
