The attention of the Police Court was or The attention of the Police Court was oc-cupied for half an hour this morning with the airing of a family grievance. Wm. Patten was charged by his wife Emma with assaulting and beating her. Mrs. Patten said her husband had struck her Patten said her husband had struck her three or four times the other morning, besides pulling some of her hair out and using bad language. Patten said he was a muchabused man, as his wife had been telling falsehoods about him to her relatives, and on the occasion in question she had called him vile names. Then a rapid cross-firing began between husband and wife, in which innumerable family matters were dragged up. The Magistrate listened patiently to it all, and decided that the best thing for both of them would be to live apart. "I will suspend sentence, Patten, upon your promise not to go near your wife," said the Magistrate; and then, addressing Mrs. Patten, "See that his things are packed up, and let him go and fetch them or send some person for them with an order."

It Saved His Life. Gentlemen,—I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for it saved my life when I was about 6 months old. We have used it in our family when required ever since, and it never fails to cure all summer complaints. I am now 14 years of age.
