Another link with the pioneer history of the province was severed on Thursday morning, in the death of Rev. Geo. H. Backhouse, and his mother the eldest daughter of Capt. Edward Mc-Michael, U. E. Loyalist, secretary for Governor Simcoe, whose services were rewarded by a grant of 50,000 acres of land. This grant included Long Point and the present sites of Port Rowan, Simcoe and Hamilton, besides land near Port Burwell. The early part of his life he spent on his father's farm. Marrying Miss Elizabeth Haines in 1837, he settled on what is now known as the Emery farm at Port Burwell, where he lived for many years. All his children, six sons and two daughters, survive him. They are: William, of Port Burwell; Butler, of Eden; Rev. George, of Welland county; Rev. Benjamin and Thomas, of Griffith's Corners, and Rev. Wesley, stationed near his brother George. Three of the

The Methodist Epworth Leagues Take Action.

Proposed Formation of a "Christian

Citizens' League."

Aldermen and Civic Affairs Discussed by Messrs. Bowman, Daly, Dillon and Others.

The executive of the Methodist society known as the Epworth League called a meeting for last night in Wesley Hall to consider the question of forming a "Christian Citizenship League." About 500 persons were present, chiefly young ladies. On the platform were seated Mr. Copp, president of the district league; Rev. Dr. Daniel, Reeve Saunby (London West), Prof. James Bowman, and the presidents of all the local leagues present. Mr. Wm. Jeffery, president of the city leagues, explained the purpose of the gathering. The Epworth League executive committee had first taken action. It had appointed its share of the executive committee, which it was intended should be composed of a like number from the Christian Endeavor societies, the Baptist Young People, the W.C.T.U., and all the local ministers. These delegates will meet at the Auditorium on Tuesday night next, he said, for the purpose of organizing the league. Mr. Jeffery, at the conclusion of the devotional exercises, spoke of what he regarded as the past lethargy of city young people, who had awakened to a deeper sense of their responsibility, and were about to branch out in another work-that of procuring honest men to transact municipal affairs. They had enjoyed music and quietness long enough, and the time had come for the taking of this world's kingdom for God. He hoped that manhood and womanhood would come to the front, and not allow the powers of darkness to rule in this city, but to work until the city should be governed by men who loved righteousness. He introduced Prof. Bowman as leader in the on "Christian Citizenship, and Our Relation to It in the Coming Municipal Campaign." He said if he were not qualified to speak of Christian citizenship from any other standpoint, he was from heart and feeling. He wished he could transfer the sentiments he felt regarding Christian citizenship into such an intelligent audience by other means than his limited vocabulary, and his slow processes. This was the first step-merely getting the ball rolling-At the Conservatory of Music last and after that there were other people gramme comprised the following num- question. "Years ago," said Mr. Bowman, "the church didn't regard Chris-thought Christianity only just for Sundays." Advancement had been made, he continued, and religion was now taken into business, but there was a decided objection to taking Christianity into politics. This was the power that was going to sway the world, but it could not be done until the people got at the fountain head. The Senate, parliament and municipal rooms were the great source of influence and power, said Mr. Bowman. "We should use these, and each pledge ourselves followers in the the seats of aldermen and trustees to delegates could be added to. Mr. Simpsupport of good men. I believe that the an elevation so high that they would Christians should take the stumblingblocks out of the way of their fellowmen. There are more stumbling-blocks in municipal politics than in anything else that I know of. Politics in municipal affairs is the very root of the saloon evil. We seem to think that it is right that municipal government and Legislature should enact laws by which our children have their brains robbed by the cigarette so long as the vendor pays some small tax. What is wrong in you is wrong in state. There is iniquity of the worst kind in our municipal government today." Kingston and London, he said, were overridden by politics. We have got so hot on the subject that our people have lost their reason. When we want to appoint a man for the position of school trustee you ask what political party he belongs to, and can he be depended upon to vote with the party all the way through. If so, he is a fit and proper person to represent the people. Within the last few years we had a school trustee who could not write his own name. You remember the laughable remark of one of our aldermen, who said he was not good enough to run a saloon, but he was good enough to be an alderman. Is that not a disgrace? It seems to me that on polling day the good resolutions made on New Year's Day have their sharp edges taken off. Men and women go to the polls, cast their vote, and do more harm in one day than they could possibly do any other way in a year. We have not all got votes, but we all have guns, and it would be folly if we didn't shoot. Let sacrifice his time and be defeated those who haven't votes, use their influence with those who have. Municipal reform, Mr. Daly said, was a narrow name for a movement of this kind, but "Christian Citizenship League" was a broader one. There was great need of reform in London.
