ATHLETICS. At last some details are forthcoming as to the Olympic games at Athens, about which such absurd nonsense has been written. They are organized, not in the interests of sport, but in the hope of bringing trade to Greece, and I trust that that excellent object will be attained. Here are some quaint rules as to the wrestling contests, in which the following actions are not allowed: Tripping up, pushing the neck, clutching the head or legs, biting, bending the legs, putting the adversary's head under arms or legs, squeezing under the arm-pits or other parts of the body." The foot races are to be run from Marathon to Athens. It is to be hoped for their chances of success that the competitors will be unimaginative persons.

BEWARE OF THE FROG. "If you were ever fishing," said an observant sportsman, "and see a bullfrog sitting near by, on a rock or a log or a bog or anything, you might as well wind up your line and go away, for you won't catch a fish. I found that out all by myself a few seasons ago.
I was fishing up in Sullivan county for black bass. I used live bait, for I couldn't get a fish with a fly or a troll.
Sometimes I had first-rate luck, and all, I finally noticed, was when a frog was sitting somewhere near by, every now and then giving a croak or two.

"One day I went out to catch some young sunfish and young perch, as I found that they were killing bait for bass. I caught these fry near the shore of the lake, usually with a tiny barbless hook baited with a bit of angleworm, at certain places alongshore. I had never had any difficulty in catching plenty of them in a short time. On this particular day as I threw my hook in the water I saw a big frog sitting on a stone at the edge of the lake, not more than ten feet from where I stood. Presently a fine perch for bait came toward my hook. The water was clear and only a couple of feet deep, and I could see the fish plainly. Just before this perch got to the hook the frog gave a peculiar croak, loud and deep. The perch turned and disappeared. By and by a young sunfish came edging its way to the bait, and was on the point of grabbing it when the frog croaked again. The sunfish stopped, backed away, and disappeared in deep water. This went on for ten minutesfish coming up to take my hook, the frog croaking and the fish going away again. Then it struck me that the frog's croaking had given warning to the fish. "That blame frog is telling those perch and sunfish to look out, sure as "I grabbed up a club and sent it flying at the frog. It struck him and the immediate solution of the labor killed him. Then I went to fishing problem. again. In less than a quarter of an hour I had caught every perch and sunfish in sight. On the same day I got corroborative proof that frogs spy on the fisherman and warned the fish against him. I took some of the bait fish I had caught and went out after bass. I was having immense luck. In less than an hour I had hooked and landed twenty big fellows and was feeling fine. Suddenly I heard a frog strike up, off to my left, with a tremendous bellow. I looked around. There sat a big green chap on an old stump. When I looked at him he turned up one of his goggle eyes at me, and I give you my word he winked it at me, as much as to say:

"'I'm onto you!"
"I thought I'd fish a while longer before I tested the frog-spying theory. Five minutes passed; then the frog let loose again. I looked around. He Ridgetown wins by 21 shots.

Brantford de eated Dundas by 65 to 4 half an hour, during which the frog croaked ten times, and I got not so much as a nibble.

'This settles it!' I said. "I chucked a stone at the frog. missed him, but he skedaddled off the stump and disappeared in the lake. I fished again. In less than a minute I hooked a three-pound bass and landed him. Within a quarter of an hour I had caught five. Then the frog croaked again. I looked around. There he was on the stump, and he glared at me in a way that showed he knew I had discovered his game. As long as I let him stay there and croak I didn' catch a fish or get a bite. Then I whipped out my revolver and shot him. Fifteen minutes after that I had five more big bass."

THE KENNEL. NEW YORK'S GREAT DOG SHOW. New York, Feb. 19.—The twentieth annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club opened in Madison Square Garden today, and will be continued until Saturday night. In former years the canine exhibition began on Tues-days and ended on Fridays, but this year a change was made in order to derive all the advantages of a large attendance of holiday visitors on the closing day-Washington's birthday. The rules of the American Kennel Club prohibit the confining of dogs for more than four days, and the management decided to open the show one day later than usual. It was generally supposed that there would be a considerable falling off in the entries this year on account of the poisoning of King Charles and Japanese spaniels at the last year's show. Superintendent Mortimer and all the others interested in the exhibition were very agreeably surprised when it was found that the entries this year, both in number and quality, far exceeded those of previous years. The total number of entries is 1,610. SKATING.

Woman's Franchise.

Messrs. Beal and Screaton Before a Sympathetic Audience.

Enthusiastic for the Enfranchisment of Women-Some of the Arguments and Remarks.

A woman's franchise mass meeting was held in Somerset Hall yesterday afternoon, when Messrs. Bert Beal and Fred Screaton delivered the affirmative arguments which were used every day I didn't have any luck at in the recent debates in this city and Owen Sound. Mr. Beal also dealt with the contra arguments adduced by his opponents. The hall was well filled I couldn't see any reason why that opponents. The hall was well filled should affect the fish so that they by enthusiastic woman suffragists, wouldn't bite, though, and thought who joined heartly in singing the who joined heartily in singing the somewhat appropriate hymn, "A Better Day is Coming."

Mrs. Tennant read a very interesting paper, in which she outlined a propaganda for the furtherance of the cause.

'Women didn't lose their brains by changing their names," said she. "In married life they have as much intel-ligence as any spinster or widow." (Applause.)

"There is nothing more hopeful in the outlook towards enfranchisement,' said Mrs. Thornley, in introducing the young men, "than the fact that the young people are considering it, and whatever young people take hold of always goes." Mrs. Thornley later spoke of the debaters as "young men who have won laurels abroad, and who should have won laurels at home, but for very un-just judgment, we all felt."

Mr. Beal's arguments have been given before, more or less fully. He held that statistics proved that women were more moral, and equally, if not more, intelligent, than men, and just as much entitled to represent the men at the polls as the men to represent the women. He pointed to the fact that women were more altruistic in tendency than men, and their immediate enfranchisement would mean

Mr. Screaton quoted extensively to prove that wherever it has been in vogue, woman's franchise had been a success, and the polling booth had become as pure as the parlor.

"Paul was a great man," said Mr.
Screaton, "but we cannot tell how much greater he might have been if he had been under the influence of some good woman."

In conclusion, Mrs. Thornley tendered the thanks of the ladies Messrs, Beal and Screaton.

The recording secretary, Miss E. S. Cosford, writes as follows: "The members of the W. C. T. U. wish to publicly express the gratitude for the impetus given to this department of their work, and feel assured that if our schools continue to produce students of similar culture and breadth of thought, women may hope for the right to cast the ballot in the near future. From a man's standpoint, this subject has now been well discussed, and on Feb. 25, at the next regular meeting, a further from a woman's point of view, when Mrs. J. H. McMechan will speak on woman's rights and wrongs and Mrs. Tennant on 'The New Woman.' Ladies and gentlemen are invited to attend."

John Reece, the slick-looking American individual arrested on Sunday on a charge of "vagrancy" is doubtless now in Chicago. He was bound for the Windy City when he relieved this city of his com pany at noon

Reece was arrested by Detective Nickle, and the charge of vagrancy was merely entered as a blind. The man was really locked up on suspicion of being mixed in an offiense, but where the police would not say. They were very mum when spoken to about the case. Reece was no vag, however. He was well dressed, had a good wad of money, and was having a good time when the police ran him down. He is a Chicagoan, and according to the stories going the rounds, he went at Christmas to visit his brother-in-law, John Quirk, of Caister township, South Wentworth, He was made welcome, and everything went well for a time. He was often in the company of Quirk's daughter, and Quirk was no sooner convinced that the pair were enamored of each other than they disappeared together. Mr. Quirk arrived here yesterday, identified the pair, and after a conference in the magistrate's office, he took his daughter home. On account of a legal technicality Reece could not be prosecuted, and he was discharged and jumped the town

Washington, Feb. 18.—Arrangements have been made between the postal administration of the United States and Canada for a change in distribution schemes for several of the registry mail exchanges between the two countries, caused by the addition of two new exchanges of registered pouches to be locked with the international rotary lock and to be operated under the system of hand-to-hand receipts. The new exchanges are: Malone, N. Y., and Montreal, and Utica and Montreal. Under the re-arrangement of exchanges and systems all postmasters have been sent detailed instructions as to points to which mail from various postal districts is to be sent for exchange with the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

A SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 18 .- A shocking accident occurred at Bedford, a suburb of this city, this morning. While Mr. Alfred Whittaker, chairman of the Democratic county central committee and a prominent business man of Cleveland, and his two step-sons, Dana and Don Cannon, were driving in the village, a Cleveland, Canton and Southern fast mail train struck their cutter, hurling Mr. Whittaker a distance of 50 feet, and killing him instantly and inflicting probably fatal injuries on Dana and Cannon and serious injuries on the driver, John Rich. The driver failed to see the rapidly approaching train and the engine struck the cutter with terrible force. Mr. Whittaker was hurled against a fence, his brains dashed out and almost every bone in his body broken. Mr. Whittaker was the proprietor and manager of the Brooks Oil Company, of this city.

—Mrs. L. Furniss, of 315 Hyman street, has gone on an extended visit to New York.

—G. W. Legan and wife and G. T. R. Constable Robt. Legan and wife attended the wedding of their niece, Miss Beatrice Logan, Thorndale, yesterday.

The correspondence regarding the proposition to establish a Normal School either at London or at Woodstock, laid before the Ontario Legislature, shows that one of the most earnest advocates of the claims of London was Mr. Hyman, M.P.

-Mrs. (Rev.) Thomas Cullen, was presented last evening with a beautifully engrossed copy of a resolution of condolence, by Messrs, T. J. Murphy, R. A. Grey and H. Matthews, representing the Baconian Club, of which the late Mr. Cullen was an esteemed member.

-Mr. George Jarman and brothers desire to thank the staff of the City Hospital for their kindness and attention to their father during his illness. Every comfort needed was supplied, for which they feel very grateful. The funeral took place from the residence of deceased's son in London West.

-Last year, according to the Ontario Public Accounts, $9,470 80 was paid by the Government at Toronto, for the administration of justice in Middlesex. Only one other county exceeds that -York, $28,665. Lennox and Addington came lowest, with $995. The public schools of Middlesex received Government aid to the extent of $5,484, and those of London to the extent of $3,668.

-A quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. Patrick's Church, Hamilton, on Feb. 17, the contracting parties being Mr. Wilfred Traher, of London, Ont., and Miss Nellie Stonehouse, of Marine City, Mich. The bride looked sweet in a traveling dress of blue cloth, trimmed with blue velvet and a large hat of velvet trimmed with tips and jet, and was supported by Miss Nellie O'Neil, of Hamilton, who wore a pretty suit of golden brown and a large velvet hat with tips and jet. The groom was supported by Mr. Charles Clossey. Rev. Father Craven officiated. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of Mr. J. O'Neil, where justice was done to the wedding supper. Mr. and Mrs. Traher will reside at 65 Walnut street, Hamilton. The young couple are both well-known in London.

-British Oak Lodge, No. 82. S. O. E., gave the first of a series of concerts in Cullis' Hall last evening, which was a grand success in every way. Bro. E. T. Essery was in the chair. He had the pleasure of introducing a programme which was refined, and from an artistic point has seldom been equalled. British Oak Lodge is noted for its fine entertainments. The different numbers were given in a manner that delighted the large audience present and encores were the order of the evening. The following ladies and gentlemen assisted in making the first concert so great a success: Miss Lethbridge and Miss Laidlaw, recitations; Misses Cullis and Friend, instrumentals; Mr. Parsons, violin; and Misses A. Templeton, Robinson and Rutherford, and Messrs. Fred Chambers, Gammon, Wicks, Tambling and Platt, songs and duets. A dialogue entitled "Civility," rendered by eight young boys, brought a fine entertainment to a close.

-On Wednesday evening, the residence of Mr. T. R. Howard, 293 Oxford street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, the contracting parties being his daughter, Miss Lillie A. M. Howard and S. Baker, principal of St. George's school, city. The house was well filled with invited guests, including the following from a distance, in addition to the host of friends resident in London: Mr. T. Hodgins, Ottawa: Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, Dutton: Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Howard, and Mr. C. Howard, Lucan, and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Howard, Glencoe. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. B. Sage, and the bride's sister, Miss Cretta Howard, acted as bridesmaid, while Dr. Hobbs supported the groom. The bride wore cream silk and carried a beautiful bouquet of cream roses, and the bridesmald wore cream crepon, with a bouquet of pink roses. After a sumptuous bridal supper, followed by the usual speeches, good wishes, etc., the gay company dispersed at a seasonable hour. LATEST BUSINESS CHANGES. Mrs. J. E. Evans, groceries, Forestville,

Mr. J. B. Strathy, formerly of the customs department of this city, who is now living a retired life at Kingston, is an uncle of Mr. J. A. Strathy, manager of the Bank of Toronto, Barrie, who was murdered in cold blood there yesterday. Mr. Strathy was a cousin of Stuart Strathy, manager of the Hamilton branch of the Traders' Bank. He was married to a daughter of the late Dean Grasett, of Toronto, a cousin of H. E. Gates, of this city. FIELD'S MINSTRELS. Al. G. Field's minstrels drew a crowded house at the Grand last night, and if almost uninterrupted applause may be taken as a criterion the performance in every way gave satisfaction. The company is large, and the different portions of the performance were remarkably true to the posters depicting them. The circus feature was really the only new thing, but the redeeming characteristic of the whole show was the first-class quality of whatever was attempted. The singing was remarkably good, and during the first part Daniel D. Emmett, the oldest living minstrel and the author 'Dixie," was introduced, and led in the singing of that famous song. was given a gratifying reception. One of the best acts was the pedestal dancing of Wm. Rowe. He also led a company through an original and difficult march. Field and Connelly brought down the house as the two Trilbys, and Bogert and O'Brien were very good eccentric musical comedians. The Patterson brothers, George and Paddy, were in the midst of a thrilling horizontal bar act when a main guy rope became unfastened, owing, so the press agent said, to a weakness in the floor. One of the brothers got a nasty fall, and a shudder ran through the audience. Had he been in a more difficult portion of the feat when the accident occurred he would have been seriously injured.
