COUNSEL

If thou shouldst bid thy friend farewell, But for one night though that farewell should be said, Press thou his hand in thine: how canst thou tell How far from thee

Fate or Caprice may lead his feet. Ere that tomorrow come? Men have been known Lightly to turn the corner of a street, And days have grown

To months, and months to lagging years, Before they looked, in loving eyes again, Parting, at best, as underlaid with tears, With tear, and pain, Therefore, lest sudden death should come between, Or, some or distance, clasp with pressure true The pain of his who goeth forth. Unseen, Fate goeth, too!

Yet, find thou always time to say Some earnest word betwixt the idle talk, Lest with thee, henceforth, night and day, Regret should walk.

—M. E. M. Davis.

OLDEST MAN IN CANADA.

Galt, Oct. 8. — Many newspapers in this part of the province are accrediting Mr. Adam Misener, of Troy, who is 103 years of age, with being the oldest man in Canada. Such is not the case. There is a man living here named John Franklin, who was born on the Irish Channel on Nov. 1, 1794, and who will consequently be 106 years of age on Nov. 1 next. If he lives till Jan. 1 next he will have lived in three centuries. Mr. Franklin claims to be a relative of the great Benjamin Franklin. He is still enjoying good health, although a little feeble, and is seen on down-town streets every fine day.

SEIZURE OF LIQUOR.

At the Wallacestown Fair on Friday, Mr. A. Beaton, license inspector, made a seizure of a lot of liquor being sold by two men who gave the names of Frank and George Felick, and who said they lived at 566 Hill street, London. The inspector seized three bottles containing an amber liquor, the boxes bearing the label of the Carling Brewing Co., 33 bottles of a liquid labeled tonic bitters, put up by John Murray, of London; two eight gallon beer kegs and one twelve-gallon empty keg. The two men were not taken in charge by the inspector. He has information before A. J. Leitch, J.P., of Dutton, against parties said to reside in London. The case will come up for a hearing on Wednesday next in the town hall, Dutton.—St. Thomas Journal.

AUDITORIUM MEETING.

The men's meeting at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon was addressed by Rev. E. J. Baskerville, of Cass Avenue Methodist Church, Detroit. Despite unfavorable weather the attendance was good. DETECTIVE NICKLE left for Buffalo this morning to bring back Fred Taylor, a member of the force which recently returned from the Yukon. Taylor is wanted on a charge of stealing $100 from another Klondicker, John Scanlon. They occupied the same room, and when Scanlon awoke in the morning he found that $100 had been taken from under his pillow, and that Taylor was also missing. Taylor was traced across the line, and it was expected that he would return in a few days. He has evidently been boasting of the affair in Buffalo, as the officers there, although they had not been notified by the London

"SIDE-TRACKED."

Large audiences witnessed the production Saturday afternoon and evening of A. Q. Scammon's well-known comedy success, "Side-Track." Much of the interest manifested in the coming of this attraction was undoubtedly due to the presence in the cast of Henry Willard, or Harry Hodgins, as he is known to his many friends and former associates in London. Mr. Hodgins' work in the leading part was eminently satisfactory, and stamped him as qualified to succeed in higher and more exacting roles. The balance of the cast took their parts acceptably. Some of the specialties were clever and enjoyable, as the whistling and vocal imitation of Harry Lyons, the black wire and balancing turn by Chas. Lavine, and the singing and dancing of Misses Magill and Melrose.

EXTENSIVE ALTERATIONS

The Cronyn Memorial Church
One of the Most Beautiful in the City.

Reopening Services Conducted by Rev. Charles Walter, M.A.—Large Congregations Both Morning and Evening.

Rev. Charles Walter, M.A., of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, conducted the services at the reopening of the Cronyn Memorial Church yesterday. He was assisted by the rector, Rev. C. C. Owen, and Rev. Dr. Beaumont. The attendance at both services was large, although the rain in the morning interfered to some extent with the size of the congregation. The visiting clergyman's sermons were interesting and very helpful.

The church and Sunday school have been so improved during the past four months that they are virtually new edifices. The buildings have been re-shingled and ventilators put in; six concrete walks have been laid, and the outside appearance very much improved. In the interior of the church very decided improvements have been made. The woodwork has been re-painted, and the walls frescoed and decorated and finished in murels. Delicate tints have been used in the coloring, and in the blending and shading pleasing effects have been obtained. The chancel has been raised considerably, and new choir desks in white oak, of modern design, put in. The new ceiling is made of metal and finished very artistically. A new communion table, which is a beautiful piece of carved work, and a brass lectern (donated) have been added. The vestry has been carpeted, and new furniture, of neat design, furnished, making it more comfortable. The contractor has worked out quite a transformation in the window lighting, and has made the Memorial probably one of the best lighted churches in the city. It was feared that the windows would have been well looked after, and with the new furnace the building will be made very comfortable. Many of the articles have been very kindly donated by members of the congregation.

informed that I would have to feel her pulse by means of a silk cord extending out from the bedroom. I went through the solemn farce and charged $20 for style. Subsequently I saw my patient face to face.

"A good deal that has been written about the strange methods of the native practitioners is all moonshine," continued Dr. Johnson, "but the truth is singular enough without any embellishment. The first task of a Chinese medical student upon entering the Imperial College at Shanghai is to learn the 300 'life spots' in the human body. A 'life spot' is supposed to be a place through which a needle may be passed without causing death. The Chinese believe firmly in demoniacal possession, and their doctors do a great deal of stabbing and prodding to make holes for the purpose of letting out the evil spirits that are causing the sickness. I was called to see one poor fellow who was dying of jaundice, and counted over 80 punctures in his chest and arms. The Chinese practitioners had furnished the demon with plenty of exits, but he declined to depart. When a criminal is executed the native doctors are nearly always on hand to secure sections of the body to use in compounding their medicines. A powder made of the thigh bones of a dead man is a specific for the disease known to science as 'miner's anaemia,' which is caused by a parasite, and easily controlled by proper remedies. Sore eyes, due to chronic cold, or 'catarrhal ophthalmia,' as it is called technically, is a very common malady in China, and is treated with an astonishing prescription composed of powdered sandalwood, the 'skin' of eggs and an oil made by boiling monkeys' toes."

"I could go on by the hour, recalling other preparations equally fantastic. There is absolutely nothing approaching the system in Chinese medicine. It is based wholly on humbug and mystifications, and that is the reason why so many strange and outlandish substances are employed as remedies. The idea is to awe the patient. It is an amusing fact that during my stay in Chefoo I treated every doctor in the city. They wouldn't take their own nostrums. That was carrying the joke too far."

The Memorial Church Sunday school is one of the largest in the diocese, over 600 names being enrolled. Galleries have been put in, and the Sunday school enlarged, increasing the seating capacity over 200. Two new ventilators have been added, and other improvements made along that line.

The school is so arranged that with sliding doors fourteen class-rooms can be formed or the whole left as one open area, if desired. Teaching in class-rooms makes the teachers' work easier and more effective. The school room is now practically square, and so arranged that the entire school can be seen from the platform by the superintendent. A large association room for men has been added, which, when comfortably furnished, will prove an attractive and profitable center for Christian work, and the armory for the Boys' Brigade will be very much appreciated by the little fellows.

The plumbing, heating and ventilating have been well looked after, and with the new furnace the building will be made very comfortable. Many of the articles have been very kindly donated by members of the congregation.

MEDICAL PRACTICE IN CHINA

All Physicians Save the Native Doctors Have Troubles of Their Own.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

Dr. Johnson, a well-known medical missionary, who was in New Orleans just before the attack on Ten Tsin, told some curious and interesting things about practice among the Chinese. "They are very trying patients," he said, "and make a strong demand on any doctor's Christian forbearance. To begin with, no Chinaman can be trusted to tell the truth about the history of his case; he simply will not follow directions, and, if possible, he will upset the treatment by eating all sorts of outlandish things on the sly—such delicacies as green peas, pickled pig's stomachs, decayed fish roes, raw turnips and Chinese pears, which are hard as a rock and about as nutritious as sawdust."

"Our mission hospitals made the mistake at the outset of treating everybody gratuitously, and the consequence was that they were overrun with people who were amply able to pay, and who had no sympathy whatever with the cause. There was absolutely no sense in giving away our time and medicines to such a class, and at present the mission hospitals have a fixed schedule of charges, ranging from 6 'cents' or about a quarter of a cent, for a quinine powder to 2,000 cash for a minor surgical case. The bona fide paupers, of course, are treated free. One of the large hospitals at Chefoo tried the experiment of posting a notice that patients would be expected to deposit whatever they were able to give in a box fastened to the front gate, and a charitable German visitor started the thing off by putting in 25.

During the first month over 900 cases were treated, indoors in clinic, and the box was then opened. It was as empty as a drum. Even the 25 had disappeared. After that the fee system was introduced. The missionary doctors are occasionally called in by the wealthy classes, and generally charge a good, round fee for such service. I was sent for last spring to prescribe for the mother of a rich magistrate, and was informed that I would have to feel her pulse by means of a silk cord extending out from the bedroom. I went through the solemn farce and charged $20 for style. Subsequently I saw my patient face to face.
