by securities for the people of England for the enjoyment of the unappropriated lands which belonged to the sovereign as their trustee, and by a military code which should have precisely defined the means and the responsibilities by which the colonies should be defended, and by which, if necessary, this country should call for aid from the colonies themselves. It ought further to have been accompanied by the institution of some representative council in the metropolis. sentative council in the metropolis, which would have brought the colonies into constant and continuous relations with the Home government. All this, however, was omitted because those who advised that policy—and I believe their convictions were sincera locked. convictions were sincere—looked upen the colonies of England, looked even upon our connection with India, as a burden upon this country, viewing everyin a financial aspect, and totally ing by those moral and political considerations which make nations great, and by the influence alone of which men are distinguished from animals.

Thirty years ago this was no doubt accepted as simply an expression of the orthodex opinion of the old Imperialism, that colonies should be organized and governed for the benefit of the country whose offspring they are. Self-government should be granted as a boon with a view to the ultimate greater advantage of the Mother Country, and concessions exacted for the privilege. But this is merely the surface of the passage, the expression of the thought in it in such modes of speech as were posthe strike at the time. It did then excite the hostility of British liberalism, and it would now be highly objectionable to the colonial idea of freedom. Self-government is not a privilege which it is possible for one man to give another. It is the indefeasible right of every in dividual, municipality, province, colony, or Empire, in so far as these are organic unities in themselves, and to the extent to which their activities do not arfect others. This is the cardinal principal amendance of modern democracy, the fruit or hundreds of years of blood bespattered progress along the part of liberty. We have traveled far since the mode of expression used by Disraell in the above quoted passage would be used in relation to Great Britain and the Colonies. But that, is not the essence of the passage. We find the formal storage and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the organic unity which he is a man and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the whole, as the lungs and stomach, and brains of a man are sub-ordinate to the organic unity which he is a sub-ordinate to the organic unity which sible at the time. Sir.—The Voters' League will hold a special mass meeting at the City Hall this evening to discuss the water question and will appoint a committee to thoroughly investigate the subject. Personally I see no other object in the action of the Mayor and Council than to force the people into a serious consideration of the problem. The situation is not materially different from last year or the year previous. It is a good time, however, to find out how we stand, and what changes would be necessary in the present system to allow of expansion as well as to provide a satisfactory supply, at all points for present needs. The high level difficulty can be met in one of two wars, either erect a tank or reservoir at each of the two high points of Spring Ridge and Rockland avenne to hold a day's supply for those points, and for irrigation (not even by meter), fill the tanks with the night pressure, and let these high points draw their day supply from the tanks or reservoirs. The alternative is for each house to own its own tank to be filled as above. I believe that in a short time all water systems will be run as at Santa Rosa, Cal., as part of the general taxation, and that the moneys thus saved by doing away with the expense of collecting, etc., will go far towards a more generous system.

We hope that all interested in this matter will make a point to be present at the City Hall at 8 p. m. sharp.

The fact gives color to the boasts being made by American correspondents in South Africa that the United States is capturing the market there in competition with British sources of supply.

So that an added difficulty in the way of any effort to develop our iron resources would be to convince the outsider of the utterly pessimistic spirit in which our Mines Department treat a very hopeful outlook before the question of iron resources could be gone into at all. Its attitude may be obvious to us, but we can hardly expect it to be self-evident to others.

THE MINES REPORT.

Sir.—I am amazed at the report of the Minister of Mines on the subject of our iron resources. I do not know whether what the report does say or what it does not say is the more unsatisfactory. On page 932 the report says: "It has to be recorded that, as yet, very little iron ore as such has been mined in the province. There have been a few experimental shipments made and a considerable amount of development work carried on, but from the very nature of things, iron ore to be handled at all necessitates an iron blast furnace to treat it, which is as yet, not an accomplisined ract in British Columbia, and will not 'be until a snificient development has been done to fully establish both the quantity and quality of ore supply in the pit of despondency. The treads, referring to Texada island: "The fron deposits on this island have been seriously developed during the past year, but reads, referring to Texada island: "The fron deposits on this island have been seriously developed during the past year, but as already stated, the market for iron of the development which prevents the erection of a blast furnace, in other words, the lack of available toninge, the other that it is lack of of very label to mage, the other that it is lack of market for iron which is retarding the industry. Not only are those paragraphs are absolutely into the report from beginning to the third of the prevents the erection of a blast furnace, in other words, the lack of available toninge, the prospective transport of the report from beginning to the transport of the prospecting for iron? Is it not a fact that these has been and is great activity in prospecting for iron? Is it or is it not a fact that meanly every known deposit of iron upon tide water is either controlled by This is the season when we hear men and women complaining about their unhappy and half-dead condition. They may be a supply that that physical and mental energy has deserted them, and they are sinking deeply in the pit of despondency.

The hot summer weather always produces thousands of miserable feeling mortals. They lack nerve force, strength and true vitality. They cannot rest day or night, and life becomes a burden.

The great recuperator, builder and strength-giver for all weary, wornout and suffering people is Paine's Celery Compound, now so universally prescribed by medical men. When the great medicine is used at this season, languor, despondency, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, dyspepsia, and digestive troubles are permanently banished, and men and women go about their duties any work kith a vim, will and energy that indicate health and physical strength. Mrs. Anna Dawson, Wikkesport, Ont., says:

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in Coughs, Colds, Asthma. Consumption, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, etc.
