

THE LABOR MOVEMENTS.

Little Change in the Condition of Affairs.

There is still little change to report in the labor agitation this morning. The positions of affairs remain about the same.

THE CARPENTERS.

The carpenters held their regular meeting at Temperance hall at 10 o'clock on Tuesday. The hall was packed down stairs and the gallery pretty full. Messrs. Morphy and Gale were on the platform. Mr. Moore introduced Mr. Gale, who told how the deputation had done on the previous day. He said that he and Mr. Morphy had gone to Mr. Wagner, who had not received them very well, and requested him to call a meeting of the master carpenters in the afternoon or evening. The carpenters met in the evening though it was not their regular meeting night. Mr. Gale then read the resolution passed by the meeting. He said he was sorry that things had gone so far as to admit of the master carpenters being peacefully settled by them. It was very sorry that they had not been more successful.

Mr. Morphy also spoke for a short time. He said the master carpenters might have treated them better. Mr. Wagner was very cold. He could not help remarking the difference of the reception given them by the employers from that extended by the men.

A resolution thanking Messrs. Gale and Morphy for their services was unanimously adopted. They also expressed their disapproval at the unbecoming conduct of the bosses towards the deputation.

The chairman said that it was true the employers passed a resolution refusing to pay more than twenty-five cents advance per day but they did not guarantee that they would pay that, or if they did that they would continue to do so. He thought their attitude towards the deputation was only another example of the feeling they had for the men.

In thanking the meeting for their vote of thanks Mr. Morphy said the men must not forget that there were many honorable men among the employers, though some had stooped down to impoliticism.

The chairman said he had a letter from the Amalgamated carpenters saying that they were in full sympathy with the Toronto carpenters, and also saying they would send some funds if they were wanted. The chairman had replied by asking them to send along. He had received a note from Mr. O'Donoghue, who was in full sympathy with the view to making a bargain with the union. They had another offer but would take no action at present. Now was the time to make a greater effort to get the men out. This must be done by more to document that more should be given employers to make a charge against them.

Reports from pickets were received and were of rather an amusing character in some instances. It was said that some men at the meeting in the morning and worked in the afternoon, some worked with the shop locked, others it was said, slept in the shop where they worked. It was also reported that a man had been taken to the committee at Dufferin hall.

Here a resolution was passed, ordering men to go to the shops where they had worked and take away their tools. None whatever, but they rightly judged that organization would prevent them paying just as much as they had to pay, no matter whether that wage was equitable or not.

Mr. Cooper—the speaker is not sitting fairly—should finish reading the sentence. Mr. O'D. reads: "To be used and controlled by outside parties, and the detriment of our female employees and ourselves." I thank my friend for his reminder, as I should have perhaps forgotten to draw your attention to the kindness of these men by reason of their solicitude as your welfare. It is of a kind with that of the many female lines with statistics, and would get a permit from the executive committee. This permit he could produce to the pickets, and no further questions would be asked. There were several cases like this.

The men went in a body to take their tools from the different shops. They were told that this would be a busy afternoon, and the pickets would have a large amount of work to do.

AT AN ARCHITECT ON THE SITUATION.

TO THE WORLD: Perhaps a few words in reference to the present disputes in some portions of the building trades will be out of place from an architect's standpoint.

The unsettled state of affairs is acting on the business prospects of the architect, as a ruinous degree, and clients are almost universally giving up all idea of building this season.

The few works advertised for tender have, with but rare exceptions, been withdrawn, our clients objecting to the prices which would preclude the hope of even a very moderate return upon the outlay.

In the case of the building trades, the projects, not being limited to time, have resolved to leave matters in abeyance till prices fall to a reasonable level.

If the officers of the unions on strike should so desire it, these statements can be verified on their visiting the different offices.

The strikers have refused to fall in with the suggestion to settle the dispute by arbitration. If they were thoroughly sure of the justice and advisability of their demands, they could hardly have waived this farthest of all means of settling disputed questions. The inference is that the award would probably have been below their demands, and a fair one to both masters and men.

Now for a few figures in reference to the carpenters. Each man, supposing the strike continues till the end of this week will have been out of pocket $27. If the strikers even gain their point it will take just 208 days for each to recoup himself. How foolish?

If it were a matter of oppression and injustice no one would be more anxious to stand up for the rights of honest toilers than the officer, but when a very liberal wage is offered, (larger even than times will warrant) the present action seems little better than suicidal, and prejudicial in the last degree to all the building trades, to those who supply material, and to those who prepare the designs. ARCHITECT.

THE FEMALE OPERATIVES.

The meeting hall of the young women's society was crowded to excess yesterday afternoon in that it was also overflowed by the small but both themselves and the organ-who attended in large numbers. There was quite a sprinkling of other trades unionists also to be seen among the audience.

On the arrival of Mr. Cooper, whom the female operatives deputized to act as mediator to the extent of finding out whether the employers would consent to an arbitration, the chair was taken by the lady president, who formally introduced that gentleman.

Mr. Cooper opened by a direct proposition to Mr. Giblin, by stating that that gentleman was untruthful if what the papers reported in an interview, was true. Mr. Cooper displayed some temper in a few further remarks by way of lecture to the girls, and said he had decided to "kick" too. The cause of this is still a mystery to all concerned, as it was not made clear by his remarks, but in concluding he said that to avoid any misconception of the result of his mission he would now read them in full, which had been determined upon at a meeting of the manufacturers during the morning, and was as follows:

That it is the opinion of the manufacturers after a careful examination of the tariffs paid in the four shops from which the girls work, that the tariff of 25 cents per week is fair and remunerative, and from an examination of our weekly pay-sheets we find our female operatives have been receiving fair wages, and from all we can learn there is no class of female labor so well paid, and from our experience the management of our factories it is absolutely necessary that no organization should exist among the female employees to be used and controlled by outside parties, both to the detriment of our female operatives, and to the detriment of our business interests. But as soon as in our judgment we think it necessary to change our tariffs or formulate a uniform tariff, we will do so.

Signed, W. B. DAMER, J. D. KING, CHAS. W. HAMILTON, & CO., Managers, Chalmers works & Co.

After Mr. Cooper had concluded the reading of the above document at the request of the lady president to reply thereto.

Mr. D. O'Donoghue ascended the platform and was greeted with applause. He addressed the meeting. He said he appeared on behalf of Mr. Damer to ask if a report of the meeting of yesterday, which appeared in yesterday's Mail, was true. He read the paragraph in question, which was to the effect that Mr. Cooper had been consulted by Mr. Cooper or any other man, but he was ready to agree to a uniform "bill" of wages.

Mr. Giblin replied that the Christian union act of such men was, rather than the report of the meeting, but only for such as bore the signature of the proper officer. He was informed in reply that the men he had mentioned were not members of the union, but he was ready to agree to a uniform "bill" of wages.

Mr. Cooper—the speaker is not sitting fairly—should finish reading the sentence. Mr. O'D. reads: "To be used and controlled by outside parties, and the detriment of our female employees and ourselves." On the conclusion of Mr. Giblin's statement, which Mr. Cooper appeared satisfied with, the latter gentleman retired amid a burst of applause, which proved that he was withstanding his peculiarities, he was well thought of by all.

Mr. Aldridge, president of the bricklayers union, was introduced and made a stirring speech in favor of the action taken by the female operatives, and exhorted them to persevere in their struggle. He said that the bricklayers' union had been very successful in their fight for a shorter working day, and that they were now struggling for the recognition of their rights as laborers.

purpose met at the Walker house yesterday afternoon for the purpose of forming an association to be known as the "Jersey Butter and Cheese Association." Jersey butter sold in Detroit and Buffalo for 70c per lb., and in New York and Boston for 81c per lb. He then read a draft constitution in which the objects of the association were defined. Messrs. Remler, Paul, McMurtry, Rolph, Clark and others favored the project, and the constitution was adopted. The Canadian Jersey Cattle Breeders' Association was adopted as the title.
