nts referred to we may find it in the sestlessess and ambition of the managing men of the Northern Pacific Railway.

This is an American railway, and it might be thought that we Canadians need not concern ourselves very much about it. But this would be a grand mistake. For the Northern men say that the storm has driven the fish to the side of the lake.

Pacific management was the power which did rk-up the agitation in Manitobs d the Dominion Government to power aforesaid an entrance into itory. And now it is highly the Canadian recealed will not the finest to the lake.

Mr. 'Sammy' Staneland, formerly of Kingsteet, has bought out. Mr. John Shaunessey's "Royal" at Yonge-street and Trinity-square. Mr. Staneland has already taken possession and the famous restaurateur hopes to see all his old friends in his new establishment.

the Canadian people will yet show that we are not spinning a yarn of our own invention, let us quote the following special despatch to The New York Herald, lished in that paper of May 31, and dated Winnipeg, May 30. The Herald gives it romment place under these sub-headings: 'Villard in Manitoba, Schemes of the dian Territory."

It was learned to-day that the deal which has been going on for some time between the Northern Pacific and the Great Northwest Central people, looking toward the purchase of franchises of the latter road, is completed. The details of the arrangement have been akreed upon, and the property will be handed over to the Northern Pacific very soon. The arrangements have been under the direct supervision of both Mr. Oakes and Mr. Villard, and these two great magnetes, accomarrangements have been under the direct supervision of both Mr. Oakes and Mr. Villard, and these two great magnistes, accompanied by Mr. McNaught, will be here next Sunday for the purpose of looking over the ground, sizing up the country and deciding upon the future policy of the company in this country. They have their eyes upon our Northwestern country, and have in view an extension of their system to the Mackenzie River country, and afterward through to the coast over the route proposed by Mackenzie when he was Premier of Canada. The Northern Pacific officials have been collecting information for weeks about this northern country, although the deal proposed with the Manitoba and Northwestern company is not yet off. If it is not completed the intention of the Northern Pacific is to build a link of about one hundred miles between Rapid City and Portage la Prairie, and so have this important system tributary to Winnipeg. It will be impossible to build the link this year.

Mr. Villard, who appears now to be chief controller of the Northern Pacific. And that we fancy is being done by Mr. Van Horne, who they say has a good railway eye. It therefore does not surprise us to learn, as we do by a Winnipeg despatch dated Monday, that Mr. Van Horne was expected there the presen week to lock over the railway situation Vell, we should think so. Doubtless Mr Van Horne wishes just now to place himself where he can do most good.

But who is this Mr. Henry Villard who has

But who is this Mr. Henry Villard who has recently become so prominent in connection with several disturbing railway movements now going on? Well, we believe he is an American citizen of German birth, who has in his time done some big things in railway business and has also gained some evil celebrity as a railway wrecker on a large scale. He is what they call "a moving man," but has the name also of being too much subject to the complaint called "big head." The Duke of Portland.

The Duke of Portland was born in 1858 and succeeded the eccentric Duke, brother of the great turfman and politician, Lord George Bentinck, and therefore comes rightly by racing proclivities, but Lord George wooed in vain the luck that has attended the fortunes of his great uncle. The Duke is a stout, good-looking man about the average height, with black hair, and is always dressed in the extreme of fashion. Though he came in for an immense fortune from comparative poverty he has always kept his head level and has never been the prey of the designing knaves who have helped to ruin many other sprigs of mobility. He is to be married to Miss Dalias Yorke on June 16. His luck with a small stable has been phenomenal. His earliest success was with St. Simon, thought by many racing men to have been the best horse of the century. The Duke keeps only a selected and Engagements.
