and have been ordered to the Council for currence. These Bills, being chiefly for the renewal of Laws near expiring. Have caused little or no discussion. The greats question arising from the appointment of Mr. Reade is still depending, and has been made the order of the day for next Monday. The reasons which induced Messrs. Hazen & Wilmot to resign their seats in the Executive Council were fully stated by them in the House—The same matter was also fully exprained by the members of the Legislative Council, in a public debate in the council chamber. From all these explanations, it appears that Mr. Reade was appointed Secretary by the Governor immediately after the death of Mr. Reade was appointed Secretary by the Governor immediately after the death of Mr. Odell, without consulting the members for their seats in the letters were sent to the several members for their seats and that letters were sent to the several members for their seats and that letters were sent to the several members for their seats in the council of the Mr. Seats and the letters were sent to the several members for their seats in the County of Charlotte." and to make other extent to the several members for their seats in the County of Charlotte. The answers to those letters were, publicly read, from which it appears that M's Johnston, Chandler, and Hazen, considered w.W. M. G. COLEBROOKE, Lieut. Governor, the appointment unjust, and that Mr. Wilmot The Lieutenant Governor law before the other members, approved of the appointment, and defended the conduct of the Governor in making it. Mr Saunders did not altogether like the proceedings, but still held his place for the winter, had, it appears, expressed his follow approbation to Mr. Cunard. The words of Stander are more fleet Than arrows from the bow, And by some men made welcome too Before the truth they know.

They are received with open arms. And kindly entertain'd By those who glory in the crimes By which men's rimes are stain'd,

With them they pass for very truth They ask no proof thereof, The talk, deride, and scoff.

'Gainst beauty, innocence and worth Their poisoning darts they rend, They numerate their neighbors faults And so their lives they spend.

And thus their fellow mortal man By false reports defame, In private consert plot his fall Then publickly him blame.

Alas that some will spend their lives In such a wretched way, How shall they answer for these errors At the great judgment day.

Why will you break divine commands In publishing a lie, Hark! to the Holy Penman's voice "The soul that sins shall die."

Come fellow mortal let us count Our "three score years and ten," This number still let's keep in view That bounds the life of men.
