

The Weekly Monitor.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27th, 1882

While in Boston a short time ago, we noticed that the Old State House was being restored to the same appearance it bore at the time of the revolutionary war. At the time we passed it workmen were engaged in painting and putting in place the Lion and the Unicorn. Strange sight it was—these symbols of monarchial England, resting their proud front and gazing quietly down upon the surging throng, descendants of the men who fought and died more than a century ago to overthrow the power that first placed them in position. What changes have taken place in that century! Well placed the United States be proud of what has been a glorious record of progress and advancement. The old State House has seen wonderful things in the hundred and seventy years of its life. It has seen sixty four years of British rule; has seen the men and the sons of the men who have sat within its walls rise up and rebel against its rule; has seen them pass by with their lock on shoulder stern and barefoot, perhaps, but with their determined faces, on which it could read "Victory or Death," to give fight to the soldiers of the land from whence their fathers came; has seen them fight for seven years a bloody and desolating war; has heard the proud shouts of those rebel sons of Old England, when they knew they had triumphed and that the day of independence had dawned; has seen the infant republic gradually forming; has seen the delight with which was hailed the formation and adoption of the Constitution in 1787, and the first election and inauguration of Mr. Washington as President and Governor in 1789; has seen England attempt and fail to regain her supremacy in 1812; and since that time has watched the infant grow through the successive stages of childhood, youth and manhood; has seen it separate against itself in the bloody civil war lasting from 1861 to 1865; has heard once again the shout "Victory is Ours!" has seen the nation quickly recover from the shock of its commencement, and the loss sustained in the death of so many thousands of gallant men; has seen a continued and marvellous growth, up to the present time, and now looks down upon a surging throng of human beings,—units of a nation second to none on earth.

The necessity for better sanitary regulations advertised on several occasions in our columns we trust will be regarded as, but active steps be taken at once to institute a Board of Health with efficient officers. Surely there are a sufficient number of public-spirited men in this town to form an interest in a matter of such vital importance as the health of their fellow inhabitants. Our town is so situated that in some quarters, the best possible drainage should be obtained. The present system is defective—take for instance Queen St., instead of a big sewer drain of two or three feet in diameter; we have only an insignificant ten inch main drain, house-holders are there fore obliged to build their own drains in almost all cases, consequently we have a network of small drains running through the street, that are incomplete in every respect and constantly choking up. The drainage of a town is a matter of the most important nature, and its inhabitants should be taxed to make the system complete. In addition to bad drainage there are several places in this town that are nothing more or less than nuisances that will surely choke up if not looked after. If ventilating these matters in the columns of the Monitor will rectify them, the town may rest easy, for we intend to keep it until someone with a soul above self makes a move at least.

That the claims of our Province as a summer resort for tourists are becoming recognized—slowly it may be, but surely—no one can deny. One more tribute to its advantages and attractions may be found in another column from the pen of Rev. Gideon Draper, D. D. It was through the courtesy of a friend that we obtained possession of the paper containing the article, and in a letter to us he says: "There cannot be a doubt that many of our young men leave us simply because they never saw any other country, and they have been taught that their own is the worst under the sun. I think we should use every means to convince them that we have a country second to none—a country that is to have a future, which would have no competitors as far as the present had not her best blood left her."

This summer a cousin from Newburg, N. Y., made me a long visit, and it was through him the paper came to hand. In company we visited all parts of the valley, going east as far as the scene of Longfellow's "Evangeline." He returned delighted with our province, and especially with our summer climate, and our hospitable people. He said it would be impossible to convince the people at home of the existence of all the good things he should tell them of if he were to do so. He said that he came from his home in the part he came from is quite general that we live in a frozen outlandish place, only fit for a penal colony. He hailed Dr. Draper's "Go to Halifax," as a timely aid in convincing his friends of the correctness of his statements in reference to us.

ANNAPOLIS.—Our town was started on Saturday by the sad news that the bark, G. E. Corbitt was in the Bay of Fundy in distress, and that Captain Atwood was dead and all hands sick with the yellow fever. The tug Eva Johnson was despatched the same evening and the bark brought to within a mile of the town the next morning. Full particulars were then obtained, which were reported in our issue of last week. The facts are as follows:—When three days from Jamaica, the Capt. was prostrated by a severe cold, which exposure intensified; he gradually became worse, and later nineteen days' illness he expired. His remains were consigned to a watery grave on Friday last. As soon as the bark dropped anchor in the Basin, Dr. Robinson was summoned on board, and after careful inspection he found that the yellow fever was not the cause of the Captain's death, as there were no symptoms of the disease on board. None of the hands were sick as first reported. Capt. Atwood was 29 years of age, and has been a captain since he was 17 years. He ever had the reputation of being an experienced and successful mariner, and was much beloved by all who knew him for his worthy qualities of head and heart. He has always been in the employ of Messrs. A. W. Corbitt & Son of Annapolis, and was held in the highest esteem by them. He leaves a wife but no children. The bark now lies at anchor under strict quarantine regulations, and since her arrival in our river on Sunday morning has been thoroughly fumigated and cleaned, and every possible precaution taken to prevent the spread of the infectious disease, should it prove to be such, but it is very doubtful if it was anything contagious.

MARGARETVILLE.—The Baptist Meeting house at Margaretville was opened on Sabbath last, the 17th inst. The Pastor, Rev. W. E. Hall, preached in the morning, Rev. J. H. Robbins of Pine Grove, in the afternoon, and the Rev. F. Beattie, of Kingston, in the evening. Good congregations were in attendance at each service. Great credit is due to the people of Margaretville for their zeal of erecting so nice a place of worship, and many thanks are tendered to them to a general public, who have so nobly aided especially at its meetings. The house is finished inside in ash and walnut, the face of the back wall in the centre is taken for a sweeping point, and all the pews are struck on a circle from that. A platform is laid out with a radius of 9 feet 16 inches, the front of this is raised 16 inches for the speaker and the back part is raised 2 feet for the choir behind the speaker. The windows which are lancet, have heavy hood moldings that come down to the bottom of the upper square pane, and finish with a turned drop. Their relief appearance is very fine. The building is 49x24, and has 48 pews of varied lengths, which will seat about 300 persons.

ALDERBERTON.—The Military review and "Sham Fight" at Alderberton last Thursday was in every way a success, and large crowds were present to witness the manoeuvres of our volunteers. The troops presented a fine appearance, and considering the fact that their drill had been very much interrupted by rainy weather, the manner in which they performed the various evolutions was quite creditable to both officers and privates. A correspondent of the Hx. Chronicle sends the following account:—The review and sham-fight yesterday were well conducted. The usual deployments, marching, wheeling, forming column and other evolutions were gone through in fairly good style. The battalions were commanded as follows: 72nd Annapolis, Col. Parker; 88th Kings, Col. Chipman; 91st St. John's, Col. Chipman. From these three a fourth battalion was formed for the purpose of the review, commanded by Major Belcher. Besides these the Kings' troop of cavalry—a splendid body of men, under Capt. Ryan—took part in the exercises. After the review the brigade was drawn off into two divisions. The attacking division was commanded by Colonel Taylor and McShane. Col. Starbuck, with his battalion, defended the camp. A number of spirited exciting charges and retreats and charges and outflankings were gone through in good style, giving a person an idea of how a real fight is conducted.

The open air services of the Episcopal church, held on the hillside near the "Bishop's Tower" on the previous Sunday also attracted a large congregation. In addition to the soldiers, who were drawn up in squares in front and on either side of the minister. The singers were accompanied by a brass band, and the event was calculated to produce upon the eye and ear of the spectator an impression not soon to be forgotten.

Harper's Magazine for October presents an unusual variety of contributions, every one of which must challenge the attention of a large class of readers. "Aby's" "Autumn"—the frontispiece illustration—is an exquisite drawing, engraved by Clooson. Medical Education on New York; Certain New York Houses; Spanish Discoveries; Symmes and his theory; The Railway Invasion of Mexico; The Passages from the Journal of a Local Wreck; Chief Justice Marshall's Eulogy on his Wife; are some of the principal papers. These with the usual choice stories, poems, continued serial, editorials and Editor's Drawer make up a choice intellectual feast. It is in the front rank of magazines. Send in a subscription to Messrs. Buckley & Allen, Booksellers, Halifax.

THE ROYAL PATH OF LIFE.—An agent for this meritorious work is now canvassing the county. It is a valuable book, being a collection of high-toned moral essays from the pens of the best writers, both ancient and modern. It appeals to the best sense and intelligence of every thoughtful mind and must prove an incentive for worthy action in all the varied relations of our social, moral, physical and business life. It stands out in obnoxious contrast to the mass of pernicious reading that so often comes into our homes and pollutes the mind of both old and young. The mind is like the body and if not intelligently nourished, will become diseased. "The Royal Path of Life," should occupy a place on our tables next to the Bible.

SAD ACCIDENT ON THE WINDSOR AND ANNOPIA RAILWAY.—News was received in this town on Wednesday afternoon that, a serious smash up had occurred on the Windsor and Annapolis Railway, and the excitement caused by this intelligence was intensified by hearing also that one man was killed and another seriously injured. Conflicting rumors of course, prevailed for awhile, but the facts were found to be about as follows: The train, which was the express from Halifax, in charge of Conductor Clarke, when some distance east of Berwick and going up grade, suddenly came upon a number of cattle which came out of the bushes by the side of the track. Efforts were made to stop the engine, but before this could be done, the cow catcher struck one of the drove—an ox—and instead of throwing the animal off the track doubled him up in such a manner that he got under the locomotive and threw it over the track, overturning it. The engine, tender and postal car were all more or less demolished. The remaining cars did not leave the track. When the whistle was sounded for brakes, the locomotive sprang to apply them on one car, and a young man named McLean on another car. When the cars stopped they came together so suddenly that the rear platform of the car ahead of the one on which the deceased stood overturned by the back part of the legs against the wall of the car. He was imprisoned in such a way that it was only after some half an hour's cutting the wood work of the car that he could be released. When this was done both his legs were found to be literally jammed off—one just above the knee and the other below the knee—a few shreds of flesh only connecting the severed members. He was carried to Berwick and amputation was attempted, but before the operation was completed the poor fellow expired. His name was Charles Bauer, age about 41 years, and had been married only about six months. He was employed as freight porter at Richmond Station, Halifax, and he was off for a holiday, having started by fire during the night of Friday, 22nd inst. Mr. C. Woodworth & Son, J. E. Woodworth and B. R. McCall are heavy losers. The loss is estimated at one thousand dollars. The fire is supposed to have started in the work house in which some fish were being marked.

Our "fighting outfit" arose in the gloom of an early morning last week and started for ye hunt of ye muck-rack. He came back about four hours later with two loadstones and four muckracks at the bottom of a peck basket. During the day he kicked the "devil" into the lye-pot; and broke his false teeth trying to bite a piece out of a book-agent's cheek.

Mr. Wm. McVicar, formerly of "Woodlands," Wilmet, and more recently principal in the Model School, has resigned his position as principal of the New Baptist Academy at St. John. He is a gentleman of high attainments, and will worthily fill his important position.

The wonders of modern chemistry are apparent in the beautiful diamond ring worn by the beautiful daughter of Mr. Wm. McVicar, formerly of "Woodlands," Wilmet, and more recently principal in the Model School, has resigned his position as principal of the New Baptist Academy at St. John. He is a gentleman of high attainments, and will worthily fill his important position.

Mr. Burton Nally of this town and Miss Eliza Miller, daughter of Wm. Miller, Esq. of Clarence, were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony at the residence of the bride's father, on the 21st inst., by Rev. W. H. Warren, Pastor of the Baptist Church of this town. The wedding took place in the morning and was attended by a large number of invited guests, and a most pleasant time was enjoyed. Many and handsome presents were given. The happy couple left in the afternoon on a tour through the Western Counties. They carry with them in their new relation in life the heartiest congratulations and kindest wishes from hosts of friends.

NOTA SCOTIA STEAMSHIP COMPANY.—This company has just issued the latest and most complete circular, advertising their line that we have ever seen in connection with a travelling enterprise in this Province. The circular in addition to the main object of its publication, gives the W. C. R. R. and W. A. R. R. time tables, and directions to enable passengers per the N. S. Steamship line to make connections per steamer or coaches for points along the south shore and in the Maritime Provinces, and also for rail points in St. John, the Upper Provinces and the United States.

We have received a small pamphlet from the pen of Edwin Gilpin Jr., Esq., Government Inspector of Mines for the Province of Nova Scotia, on the "Minerals of Nova Scotia." It is designed to accompany the collection of minerals sent from this Province to the Dominion Exhibition. It is clearly and concisely written, contains much valuable information, and will prove an important aid in advertising our mineral wealth.

CONTRACTOR.—In our notice of the correspondence of "Tommy" in our last issue, the type made us say "his" for "his" in the thirteenth line.

The "Eva Johnson" came up on Saturday and towed the schooner "Atwood" down the river. The "Atwood" was being loaded with wood for export.

The weather for the past two weeks had been very stormy and wet. The days are warmer and close-late Sunday being an exceptionally warm day for this time of year.

—The crops in P. E. Island have been greatly injured by the recent storms. —Ice formed in some parts of Lunenburg County on Thursday night last week. —A short time since a son of Capt. Samuel Beasley, Port Louis, while jumping broke his arm and dislocated his shoulder. —Chief Justice McDonald will deliver the opening address at the Annapolis Exhibition. —Mr. T. S. Whitman, Annapolis, raised a peach this season which was 9 1/2 in circumference, and weighed nearly seven ounces. —R. H. Bath agent of Messrs. J. R. Ellis & Son in this town, has handed us a telegram from his firm which says: "Eggs very dull, should buy at sight-noon."

—The Rev. P. G. McGregor, D. D. of Halifax, will preach next Sabbath in Providence Church, at 11 o'clock a. m. and in the Presbyterian at 3 1/2 o'clock. —See adv. of auction for sale of Austin R. Woodbury effects. Sale has been postponed until 10th October next. A mistake having been made by compor' for in setting former date. —Moss Good Times for Farmers.—J. W. Beckwith is paying this week 25c. per lb. for Good Butter. We eat Molasses after this. 11

"Song of the Season," is one of the late Mr. A. M. Gidney's poems. It was published in the Monitor some years ago, but we republish it this week by request. —The annual school meeting of Annapolis School section took place on Monday evening, and the usual routine of business was transacted. The Rev. J. J. Ritchie was unanimously elected trustee in place of H. J. Hardwick, the retired member of the board.

Fire at Lunenburg.—The fishing station at this place, consisting of eight buildings with their entire contents of fish, fishing gears, oils, &c., was totally destroyed by fire during the night of Friday, 22nd inst. Mr. C. Woodworth & Son, J. E. Woodworth and B. R. McCall are heavy losers. The loss is estimated at one thousand dollars. The fire is supposed to have started in the work house in which some fish were being marked.
