This is a different form for the same inanimate noun as given above.

The accusative case shows the object of the verb.

The accusative animate is expressed by adding wa as a suffix to the singular.

Nítúkomímao pukawa	= I love a child.
Akomímeo pukawa	= He loves a child.
Nítúkomímao ponokamítawa	= I love a horse.

The accusative plural is formed by adding a to the plural as a suffix, as

Nítúkomímaks pukaksa	= I love children.
