BUTTERCUPS AND DAISIES.

What a happy little girl! Nothing to do but twine daisies and buttercups into chains and crowns and beautiful wreaths. Out in the woods from morning till night listening to the birds sing and chasing butterflies over the grassy slopes. But this little girl doesn't always have so little to do; she has to go to school and study her lessons the same as other little girls. But this is holiday time and she is making the most of it while it lasts, for it will soon be over and she will have to go back to school and study.

OUTDONE BY A BOY.

A lad in Boston, rather small for his years, works in an office as errand-boy for four gentlemen who do business there. One day the gentlemen were chaffing him a little about being so small, and said to him :

"You never will amount to much, you never can do much business, you are too small."

"Well," said he, "as small as I am, I can do something which none of you four men can do."

"Ah, what is that?" said they.

"I don't know as I ought to tell you," he replied. But they were anxious to know, and urged him to tell what he could do that none of them were able to do.

"I can keep from swearing!" said the little fellow. There were some blushes on four manly faces, and there seemed to be very little anxiety for further information on the point.
