Patrick never believed in the Real Presence at all. St. Patrick's words to the Irish people were, "Where Peter is the Church is, and where the Church is Christ is." With his dying voice he commanded the bishops and priests of Ireland in all their difficulties and doubts to turn to Bome-to Him who sits in St. Peter's chair—as a child would go to its parent. And those beautiful virtues, that loving faith, that untiring energy, that un-sparing self-sacrificing charity, that tender-ness and gentleness, that extended itself even to the very brute beast-all these so captivated the hearts and consciences of the Irish people that they not only accepted the Gospel which he preached to them with his Hps, but they made the man's life the very type and model of their own, until Ireland zose in the very first days of her conversion, not merely to the ordinary height of Christianity, but she rose with her grand Apostle into the higher and more perfect ways of Monasticism, and before Patrick died there was a national choir of priests, bishops, monks and nuns as firmly

RSTABLISHED IN IRELAND

as they are to-day. Nowhere in the history of the world do we hear of a people that were enabled to create from their own midst a mational hierarchy and priesthood during the lifetime of their apostle. Nowhere in the history of the nations do we read of a people who accepted without question and with joy the glorious Gospel without demanding sigh of sorrow or one drop of their Apostle's blood. Nowhere do we read of religion starting into such a summer-glow of life almost without a spring-so that before Patrick died the land which he found in darkness and paganism was spoken of among all nations as the "Island of And after his death for three hundred years Ireland continued the Island Mother of Saints in the West. From the furthest ends of Christendom, whoever wanted a knowledge of Christ's Gospel, whoever wanted the highest learning, came to Ireland to gain it, till the land was thickly covered with scholars frem one end to the other-the wonder of the world, the glory of the Church of God, the one bright spot where that Church, banished, persecuted, all but destroyed by the irruption of barbarians, turned as to a light beaming in a misty place till the glorious light from heaven should illumine the whole earth. And this state of things continued for three hundred years till the Danes invaded Ireland, and spread desclation over the length and breadth of the land. They came with

FIRE AND SWORD

to test the Irish people to see whether that sanctity and faith which had made them the admiration of the whole world would stand the test of 300 years of bloodshed, of fire and sword and desolation. Celt and Dane met on every hilliside and in every valley, and the Irish people saw their churches, their altars, overturned and desecrated, till that Good Friday morning came when, almost in sight of where I stand, the Irish king, with the Gross of Christ in his hand uplifted, drove the barbarians into the sea. After that other troubles came. For more than 200 years the breath of heresy passed over the land, and in Its fiery blast altar and church and college and bishop and priest disappeared. All was desolation, and a ruined people sat down to ween over the glories that seemed to be gone for ever. In every hamlet in the land there was some spot stained with a martyr's blood, and every church bore upon the steps of its shattered altar a testimony to the saints and martyrs who had bled for God and for his Ohurch. And after 200 years of persecution Ireland arose almost in one day, clothing herself once more in her ancient splendour. and had erected magnificent temples wherein e name of Jesus Christ and the faith of His Church are preached and His sanctifying presence may be found. Where, I ask, in the history of nations shall we find a people who twice in 300 years have stood, and fought, and suffered, and bled, and finally conquered in the cause of God and of His holy faith? Our fathers, who defended the faith which Patrick preached, even at the cost of their heart's blood, have left to us, THE MEN AND WOMEN OF IRELAND. to-day the most precious inheritance of a mith that has never been sullied by error; and they have left us the traditions of those wirtnes which sprang of necessity from that taith. What are those virtues? Read the history of our country and you will know what they are. The word of the Lord is wisdom-it is an inestimable treasure which they who possess are called the sons of God. What is that wisdom? It is the knowledge of Divine faith, and this wisdom teaches prudence, justice, fortitude, and temperance. Prudence that taught our martyred fathers that there was no earthly inheritance that could compare for one instant with the treasure of the Christian's faith and hope in God and for eternity. Justice, that virtue that holds the even balance between man and man, and by which Almighty God rules the world as with a golden rod of equity. having inscribed upon it these glowing words, "Let no man do to his neighbour that which he would not have done to himself.". Fortitude ? Oh, where shall we find fortitude like that which saved our whole nation, to suffer and bleed and die for God and for his hely faith? Temperauce! My brethren, when we read the history of our native land, and exult in the triumphs of our people in the preservation of their faith, there is no record in these pages of the disgraceful vice of drunkenness. If they were self-indulgent, degraded drunkards they never could have fought such a fight for God, never would have subdued their enemies so completely. A people addicted to that sin are unworthy not only of earthly freedom, but still more of the freedom which belongs to the sons of God. Tradition tells us that Patrick, when dying, offered up a prayer to God that the Catholio faith and Catholic religion, in all its beauty #### and sanctity, SHOULD NEVER DIE IN THIS LAND.

It has died in other lands once as favored as ours-in the land sanctified by the footsteps of the Redeemer himself-in North Africa, once consecrated by such men as Augustine-Syris, once the home of number. less saints, now with its light extinguished in the gloom of Mahomedanism. But we are told that Patrick prayed that it might never die in Ireland, and then tradition goes on to tell us that, having offered up that prayer in his last hour, just before he passed into the Divine presence, illumined by the light of heaven already beaming upon him, he prophesied "Thanks be to passed away. And since his death, through fifteen hundred years of weal and woe, Pat-descendants shall receive from us the precious gift that we have received at the hands of our martyred fathers. Let thou, ob, great saint, come to our assistance—help us to keep the precious inheritance of faith which our fathers got from thee—that Ireland, thy land, the land of thy love may still be the consolation of the Church of God and the glory of Christendom.

On Monday night David Kilgour, tailor. Crossgates, Dumfermline, died in his own house after an illness of little more than two hours' duration. He was 56 years of age, and has left a widow and family. The deceased was one of the famous "Six Hundred" who took part in the charge of the Light Brigade.

Late on Saturday a man, whose name is supposed to be David Lindsay, died very suddenly in an eating-house in Oxford street. He was sitting in one of the rooms taking supper, and a piece of tripe stuck in his throat. Dr. Chalmers was sent for, but before he arrived the man was dead. The body was removed to the Southern Police Office.

A number of crofters in Brass, parish of Portree, have persisted in refusing to pay the rent due by them at Martinmas of last year, because their claim to the bill grazing of Ben Lee, Braes, is not entertained by the proprietor, Lord Macdonald. Seven of the tenants appeared before the Sheriff at Portree on Saturday for examination on a charge of intimidation, they having, it has been alleged, prevented the rest of the crofters from paying their rents. The accused were escorted to the Court by a large concourse of their friends. There does not seem to be an early prospect of getting the dispute arranged. Ben Lee was occupied by these crofters along with their crofts until about 17 years ago.

The remains of the Rev. Lord Henry Francis Charles Kerr were on Saturday interred in the mortuary chapel of St. David's Roman Catholic Chapel, Dalkelth. ### THE IBISH-AMERICAN "SUSPECTS."

WASHINGTON, April 5 .- The President sent to the Senate to-day a report of the Secretary of State relating to the American citizens imprisoned in Ireland.

Frelinghuysen quotes some of the provision of the British Protection Act and gives a text of the instructions from Blaine to Lowell, on June 2nd, as follows: "Whatever the necessity may be in the estimation of Her Majesty for the existence and enforcement in Ireland of exceptional legislative measures recently enacted in respect to that country, the Government cannot view with unconcern the application citizens of the United States of Irish origin, whose business relations may render necessary their presence in Ireland or any other part of the United Kingdom, or whose filial instincts and love for kindred may have prompted them to revisit their native country. If American citizens while within British urisdiction offerd against British laws this Government will not seek to shield them incidents to criminal prosecution which af. $1 50 to 2.25; men's buff and pebbled balford the hest safeguard to personal liberty, and the strongest securities against oppression under form of law which might otherwise be practised through excessive zeal. That the accused person shall immediately upon arrest be informed of the specific crime or offence upon which he is held, and that he shall be afforded an opportunity for speedy trial before an impartial court and jury, are essential to every criminal prosecution, and necessary alike to the protection of innocence and the ascertaiament of guilt."

Lowell replied to this :- "It will give me great pleasure to communicate to Granville the views you so clearly and eloquently expressed as to the injustice of some features of the so-called Protection Act, and especially to its retroactive character; but I would respectfully suggest whether any steps will be gained towards the speedy trial or release of Walsh by an argument against the law itself under the higher grades. Fruits are steady which he was apprehended, as long as Granville expressly declines to make any distinction between British subjects and American citizens in the application of the law as a position which I presume may be justified by precedent under our diplomatic history." On March 4th, same month, Lowell was instructed to inform the British Government that the President hoped that without discussing the applicability of the Coercion Act | 38c; fine to finest, 40c to 60c; Twankey, comcitizens of the United States the Lord mon to good, 200 to 29; Oolong, common, 33c; God; the faith I have preached in Ireland Lieutenant will be instructed to exercise good to choice, 40c to 65c; Congou, shall never die in the land," and then he the discretionary powers imposed in him so common, 26c to 32c; medium to good, 32c far as to order speedy trials of all imprisoned Americans. THE RELEASE OF THE AMERICAN PRISONERS.

Washington, April 4 .- Mr. Frelinghuysen informed the President that on the 2nd instant information was received by the Department of State that all American citizens held as prisoners in Ireland had been released except three, and that since that date further information had reached him that O'Connor, Hart, Walsh, Dalton and White are now in Negotiations are still being conducted with a view to the release of the remaining prisoners, and hope is entertained that a result will be reached satisfactory and bonorable alike to both Governments. Many of the travellers have left the city on their sorting up trips, and the remainder of them will leave during the next few days. Remittances are coming in rather more ireely and are more up to expectations. As is usual at this season of the year the dry goods trade is very quiet. The only outside buyers which were in the city during the week were a few from the Ottawa district and the Eastern Townships. The reduced rates by the Grand Trunk did not induce so many dealers to come to the city as was anticipated. Travellers of summary proceedings attendant upon the at present in the country are not effecting execution of these measures to naturalized many sales owing to their inability to travel to remote districts through the bad state of the roads. Although some partial renewals which were not anticipated earlier are being solicited, remittances are not considered unsatisfactory.

Boots and Shors .- Orders have been dropping in this week from all quarters, and the sorting trade is unusually brisk. Many manufacturers have still numerous back from the legal consequences of their acts, but orders to execute and one firm has it must insist upon the application to their cases of those common principles of criminal jurisprudence which in the United States secure to every man who of boots, $2 50 to 3 25; men's calf boots, $3 to fends against its law, whether he be an | 3.75; men's kip brogans, $1 35 to 1 40; men's American citizen or a foreign subject, those split do, 90c to $1.10; men's buff congress, morals, $1 75 to 2.25; men's split do, $1 35 to 1 75; shoe packs, $1.10 to 2 10; women's pebble and buff balmorals, $1 00 to 150 : do solit balmorals, 900 to $1 10; do prunella balmorals, 50c to $150; do interior balmorals, 45 to 50; do cong. balmorals, 50c to $1 25; do buckskin balmorals, 75c to 80c; Misses' pebbled and buff balmorals, 900 to $1.15; do split balmorals, 75c to $1.00; do prupella balmorala, 60c to $1; do cong. balmorals, 60 to 70c; child's peobled and buff balmorals, 60c to 90c; do split balmorals, 50c to 60c; do prunella balmorals, 50c to 75c; infants' cacks, per dozen, $3 75 to $6.50.

IN EXTREMIS.

Dying! who says I am dying? Come here, come close to the bed,
Look at me—don't speak in whispers;—there's worse than death to dread;
I'm weak, but that is the pain; and oh, this fluttering breath!
But 'twas often the same before;—it surely is not death not death.

Raise the curtain a little; it can't be dusk. I an hour ago.

Why are you here alone? 'Tis passing strange indeed, If there's none but you to tend me in my sad-dest, sorest need.

Only a year since I came here, a proud and happy bride;
Scorning for you all else on earth,—yea, and in Heaven beside;
False to the faith of my fathers, my childhood's blessed Faith.
And all for the short-lived love of a man,—and now the end is death.

Is this fast-ripened harvest too bitter for your That you stand like a very woman, wringing your hands and weeping?
You love me? Would I had never listened to lover's yow! What is your leve to me if it cannot he p me now?

Pray! Do you bid me pray?-A seemly counsel, Sweet prayer for such as I! Do you know what it is to die?
Do you know my rending pain? this chill fastgathering gloom? Or my helpless, desperate fear of the Judgment and the Doom? Mock me not with your tears! Oh, leave me, don't you see How I yearn for the light, and all the while you are keeping the light from me! The love that we called undying in this awful shadow dies:

O, lost, lost years when I craved no light but the baneful light of your eyes!

Hark to the rushing of wings! O, shapes of horror and dread, what would ye have of me that ye crowd around my bed? Closer, closer !-ah, God,-but in vain I cry to Lyen as I forsook Thee hast Thou forsaken me!
