cessarily obliged to make partially good all losses sustained by bad debts. It will be apparent from the foregoing that customers, as a whole, will be profited by the introduction of the cash system into the business.— It remained for the correspondent of an Iowa paper to unearth the following incident told of Miss Eva Davis, saleswoman at Table Rock Museum (Canada side). A visitor was inspecting the curiosities, and seemed taken with the "Derbyshire spar-work," which, Miss Eva said, was manufactured from "Table Rock" stone, which statement he was inclined to question; but this sweet, black-eyed merchant assured him it was all she represented, and, furthermore, they now had sixteen artists in a back room engaged in making the same kind of ware. She handed him a piece of English spar for scrutiny. "Well," said the innocent stranger, "please show me into this room where the sixteen artists are at work, and I will believe what you say is a fact." "Oh, no, indeed!" quoth his fair vis-a-vis; that would not do; 'tis against our rules; we never give anybody the 'open sesame' to this secret chamber which contains our wealth." "Alas!" said the gent, "then please set all these kickshaws back on the shelf ($150 worth), and do accept this $20 bill as a token of my regard." "Why," said she, "what do you mean?" "Well, Miss, I must tell you a fact. My name is Samuel Bowers. I live in Derbyshire, England, where I manufacture this 'spar work.' Furthermore, your father is one of my best customers, and you, Miss Eva, his daughter, are the 'boss salesman.'"— At a recent meeting of the shareholders of the unfortunate Merchants Bank of P. E. I., a full statement of the financial condition of the Bank was submitted and read, which satisfied the shareholders that the resumption of specie payment at an early day was beyond doubt. In addition to the ordinary assets of the bank, the directors have, it is understood, paid in the amount of $40,000 agreed to be accepted from them at a previous meeting. A very large proportion of the stockholders had responded to the call made upon them for a deposit of $10 per share, and a goodly proportion of the debts due the bank, which at the time of its suspension were looked upon as either wholly bad or very doubtful, had been recovered or secured.

The notes of the bank afloat at the time of the meeting did not exceed $100,000, and their MONTREALwhereabouts was a mystery. For a day or two following the bank's suspension they were looked upon with suspicion. Since then, however, the leading merchants throughout the Island gladly accepted them in exchange for goods, and it is understood both of the other banks take Merchant Bank notes at the face.

Very small quantities of them, however, appear in circulation, and it is supposed quantities of them must circulate in the neighboring provinces. Wherever they may be, it is satisfactory to know that they are good for their face, and that no holder can lose anything by them.
