CALLS IT POLITICAL SUICIDE TO GIVE LIBERALS CONTRACTS

KINGSTON, May 8.—(Special.)—Declaring that "there are several ways of playing the game of politics," but one way is not to keep "kicking your own dawg round," The Daily Standard, Independent Conservative, to-day editorially in answer to criticisms directed against it by Liberal newspapers, repeats its protest that Liberals in Kingston are being favered at the expense of Conservatives, and at no gain to the country, by the Borden administration.

The Standard intimates that Liberal of the routine of the departments, may be responsible for this, and it asks, if this is so, why they are not removed. If, on the other hand, says The Standard, it is the government itself that is political suicide and one that persevered in, will tour the party into "shreds and patches."

In conclusion, The Standard frankly declares itself, in favor of practical politics, which it defines as a policy favoring one's friends rather than one's enemies so long as the interests of the
