Member of Food Commission in Germany Gives His Views on Conditions.

London, Jan. 3 .- A long article written by a member of the allied naval ion in German waters on the subject of food conditions in north Germany, is published by The Times today. The writer is careful to point out that he deals only with what various members of the commission saw with their own eyes in a very considerable area, and that he ignores here-say evidence regarding other parts of

But if food conditions in the rest of Germany," he goes on, "are not very much worse than in Oldenburg, Mecklenburg and Schleswig-Holstein, there is certainly no need for haste on the part of the allies in going to their relief. I am confident that none of the score or more members of the various sub-commissions who covered many hundred miles of country and saw tens of thousands of the people at close range, reported having any evidence of palpable under-feed-ing among any of the inhabitants. Indeed, they are of the unanimous opinion that the whole population, urban and rural, in these regions, have been and are being fed near enough to ormal requirements to keep them at full physical vigor. As a member of the intelligence staff, who had spent many years in the country before the

No Traces of Underfeeding.

The men in the dockyards and on the first ships searched at Wilhelmshaven, altho slovenly and filthy, betrayed none of the traces of underfeding, so readily recognized by one who has been in India or China in famine time, or in Serbia or Greece since the war. This partly prepared us for the well-nurtured look of the people of the town itself. In no place of the same character in England, say Portsmouth, Plymouth or Harwich, would the people have been in better flesh or better color.

RAPID EXPANSION OF CANADA'S TRADE

Lloyd Harris Sees Business Openings in Belgium, Balkans and Rumania.

Special Cable From John W. Dafoe. London, Jan. 3 .- Lloyd Harris is visiting the continent to look over the situation in Belgium and France and to confer with the governments of those countries. Large supplies of all kinds are needed for rebuilding in the ruined areas and for equipping national industries, and there is sound ground for expecting that a considerable proportion of these goods will be bought in Canada, the government in each case being the purchaser and assuming responsibility for all payments.

There would appear to be openings for Canadian trade in the Balkans and Rumania. As for trade generally beween Canada and Great Britain, there s every indication that it will develop rapidly on normal business lines once restrictions upon imports are removed. of the British Government to remove these obstacles, but it is still necessary to secure licenses to import, and there is delay and trouble in getting them, owing, in a measure, to the state of the exchange market. "The Masquerader."

In Richard Walton Tully's production "The Masquerader," in which Guy Bates Post is starring. Lione Belmore plays the role of Brock, the confidential man of John Chilcote, Mr. Belmore has been for many years closely associated with the biggest stars in America, and his name is familiar enough to our playgoers to make him an American actor.

"The Masquerader" will be the at-traction at the Royal Alexandra all next week, commencing Monday evening, with matinees Wednesday Saturday.

Princess Theatre on Monday. It is rather an unusual event for an attraction of the nature of this unique play to be held over for two weeks, but the heavy demand which has already been made for seats for next week indicates the move has been a wise one. Mr. and Mrs. Coburn. the producers, have been judicious in their selection of a cast. In securing Mr. Hackett to portray Old Bill, they accomplished a master stroke.
