Mr. Gompers noted little change for the better in the condition of the country over that of two years ago; called attention to the methods of political parties in trying to control the labor vote, and defended the Federation from attacks made upon it. Steven Nelligan, of 686 Bathurst street, of years old, a cooper in the Imperial Oil Company's works, where he has been employed for the last 25 years, quit last night at 5:30, came and out the back way, and as a short cut to his house, which is directly opposite the oil works, endeavored to cross the tracks between Adelaide and Rectory streets. He got nearly over when a freight train from the west Mr. Bleuthner with artistic precision. blocked the way. He stood waiting for it to pass, and walked backward a few feet near the edge of another track. He did not observe the vard engine, west bound, pushing ahead feet, fracturing four of his ribs. His left arm and side are badly bruised. He was picked up by Messrs. Cake, Angus McDonald and Grayson, and taken to his home. Dr. Gardiner was immediately summoned, and upon examination found that some of the fractured ribs had penetrated the left lung. The doctor is of opinion that the accident is of a very serious character. Mr. Nelligan's age being much against recovery.
