13 Runs By 5th and Tecs Call It a Day

Knotty Lee's Men Provide Comedy of Six Errors and Mathews 11 Hits, So First Game Goes To Wetzel-Harper Allows Nine Hits.

A harvest of six runs in the fifth frame when seven were already garnered by the Tecs in the preceding four cantos, took all the fun out of Knotty Lee's dirst visit of the season to Tecumsen Park yester eve and most of the fun out the game for the big crowd of fans out to welcome the Sox leader. The Sox had gathered in three by this time, and in the seventh when the game was dragging along painfully oozed over one more. Knotty hadn't achieved any headaches thinking up new conversational stuff for the crowd and his help certainly haven't been burning the candle at both ds on baseball so that the return of the Tecumsehs from their victorious trip, for which they received a generous hand from the crowd, was marked by a dis-

Harper, London's right-handed ace, allowed nine hits, while Mathews, his first opposition, was being combed for eleven in five innings and all the runs scored in the game. The crowd made a joke of Brady's hurling when he came in the fifth to stop the races, but officially he got by with one scratch hit in three innings and odd that he held the mound. He's a spitter, but he doesn't se one, and he took all the signs just like a regular pitcher. Just how good the fur on his rabbit foot is, he filled the bases with one gone in the sixth and othing happened.

Brants Off First. The Brants gathered one right in the first when Orme got a single, pilfered second on a wide decision by Wetzell, got third on a wild pitch and home on a passed ball. Brady's single in the third drove in two runs after two were down on a double play at home and first. He was caught going down to second for the third out. In the seventh, when the game was lagging T. Murphy singled, advanced on Moorefield's double and scored on Orme's sacrifice fly to centre field. In the first and second cantos Kennedy's and Crichlow's doubles paved the way for runs. In the third with one gone Kuhn, whose pass was a fielder's choice, was scored from second by Crichlow's single. Briger, who rode free, and Crichlow were scored by Pit-tenger's infield grounder which was thrown around until Morefield dropped the ball when he went to tag the elongated centre fielder at the plate. In the fourth a walk and a single, combined with an error at second and a wild pitch, enabled Calbert's sacrifice fly and Kuhn's single to score Kennedy and Shay. Pretty nearly everything happened in the fifth that can happen in a ball game. Crichlow walked and Pittenger bunted. Both stole second in turn and were scored on the mussy handling of Dowling's fly to the centre garden and Harper's fielder's choice. Kennedy grounded out. Dowling scor-Kennedy grounded out, Dowling scoring when Moorefield dropped his second right, and then Brady stepped in the breach. Briger grounded out and Chrichlow struck out.
