HOW TORONTONIANS SPENT THE HOLIDAY

Majority of Citizens Celebrated Good Friday True to Custom.

RAILROADS WERE BUSY

Those Who Stayed Home Crowded Churches, Parks and Theatres.

Good Friday has been regarded by many of the older generation as a purely religious holiday, during which it was highly improper to indulge in gaiety or pleasure. Attending church, at least in the morning, was a duty. During the afternoon a reflective walk might be indulged in, and in the evening a sacred song service might be attended.

This attitude is still to be seen in the celebration of the day in Toronto. Yesterday the various church services were well attended. During the afternoon the downtown streets were very quiet and the city as a whole wore a Sabbath aspect.

The uncertain weather and early showers made many who had planned outdoor recreations, motor trips and so forth, abandon them and remain by the fireside recounting the happenings of previous Good Fridays.

Many availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting their summer homes. Quite a number visited the Island to look over the cottages and suites that will soon be filled with the summer crowds. On account of the number of men who are engaged in work relating to the war in Toronto and their consequent inability to get away from town, it looks as tho the Island and the Beaches were going to be more popular than ever this year.

Railroads Were Busy.

The railroads and hotels had a very busy day, the crowds comparing very well with those handled before the war, traffic this Easter being heavier than last year. The hotels all report big crowds and those near the station had to provide cots in offices and corridors to accommodate their guests. Many of the members of the provincial house, which will probably prorogue Tuesday, left the city yesterday in order to spend Easter at home.

Sunshine in the late afternoon attracted fair-sized crowds to the various parks. Many people were seen in Queen's Park sitting around on the benches which have just been put out after receiving their annual painting.

The day was a disappointment to many of the amateur gardeners, who had planned for a day close to nature. In some localities ,however, where there happened to be sandy loam, many of the more enthusiastic were able to put in a long hard day of enjoyment, and will rejoice on arising this morning that tomorrow is a day of rest.

Large crowds started down town early last night and all the theatres were sold out early. At 8 o'clock many of the more uptown movie houses required police supervision to regulate the long lines of patiently waiting people. The best seats for the Royal Alexandra and the Grand Opera House were sold out early, and in the evening many people, who felt secure in their ability to obtain seats on account of the old saw that the two worst show weeks are the week between Christmas and New eYar's, and Easter week, realized as they turned from the box office window that even old saws are subject to change.

SCORE'S TALK ON SPRING CLOTHES.

Don't deceive yourself for one moment, thinking that you can obtain a really high-grade individual looking suit or top coat without being measured for it by a good tailor and at the same time having them handmade by experienced artisans—as it's impossible. Surely you wish to refrain from wearing clothes that all have that peculiar "all the same look," as it is certainly not good form. SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it cannot salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

VERDUN WOUNDED BUT STILL VIRILE

In Sadness and Gloom, Fort Watchfully Waiting Enemy's Onsluaghts.

A VIVID DESCRIPTION

French Writer Tells How Visit to Battlefront Impressed Him.

PARIS, April 21, 6.01 p.m.—Gaston Deschamps, writing in The Temps, gives a vivid description of his visit to the Verdun front, from which he has just returned. The account follows:

"The vast battlefield was veiled by a sleety rain, but Verdun, Douaumont and Le Mort Homme were vaguely outlined in the distance. Verdun wounded, but still upright, stood like a sentinel guarding the entrance of the valley above the blackened houses, while the towers of the cathedral rose like two outstretched arms in protest against the misery and desolation about them. The citadel still stands unscathed.

"Villages are now abandoned and become military positions where the further presence of civilians is impossible. The whole aspect of the vast panorama is one of intense melancholy. At intervals incendiary bombs burst among the ruins, throwing great clouds of black smoke and debris. From time to time fires were started by bombs, and here and there village houses were seen blazing thru the mists, but amid all this scene of fire and explosion no human being could be seen anywhere as the hidden monsters of steel far away were working their terrible destruction. The absence of human activity added to the supreme sadness.

"One could see the ancient ruins of the old Roman camp in this vicinity, where the Romans resisted the German invaders, even Rue Mazel, the main thorofare of Verdun, being an ancient Roman road."

TURKEY BREAKS NEWS OF TREBIZOND'S FALL

Extraordinary Resistance Offered to Superior Force of Russians?

NEW TASK TO FULFIL

Beaten Troops Withdrawn — Claim Victory Over British on Tigris.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 21, via Amsterdam and London, 9.45 p.m.—The following official statement was issued today by the war office:

Caucasus front: Our detachments entrusted with the supervision of the coast in the Lazistan sector since April 11 offered extraordinary resistance to repeated attacks of numerically superior hostile military and naval forces and defended step by step every inch of the ground it was possible to defend. Our armies worthily attained their proposed aim. Finally on the 18th, after having forced the enemy to fight a battle which had bloody results for him, near Kowata, seven kilometres east of Trebizond, they withdrew in accordance with instructions to a sector where they will have a new task to fulfil. Since in accordance with conclusions drawn from the situation of the war the result of this operation on the coast sector could be foreseen, the Town of Trebizond had already been evacuated by us. Six 12-centimetre guns of old pattern, which recently had been stationed in the environs of the town, were left behind after being completely destroyed.

"Irak front: On the morning of the 17th the enemy attacked with more than a division our advanced position on the right wing, our positions near Felahie on the left bank of the Tigris, one kilometre from the Bendissa position and against our main position. His attempts collapsed completely before our counter-attacks. Energetically pursued by our troops the enemy was obliged to abandon with heavy losses the advanced position which he had occupied the same day and withdrew to the westward.

"At Kut-el-Amara there is no change."

It was on the night of April 17-18, the date given in the Turkish official report for the repulse of a British attack, that the Turks attacked the British and were heavily punished, losing 8000 dead, according to the report of the British general staff.

BERLIN PRESS IRONICAL IN REFERENCE TO U.S.

Post Says Grievances Are Too Petty to Merit Consideration.

BELLIGERENT ATTITUDE

Wilson Mistaken if He Thinks His Protest Will Carry Weight.

AMSTERDAM, via London, April 21.—The Berlin Post, commenting on the crisis between Germany and America, says:

"We have heard enough of silly reproached leveled at us by America's sea-going citizens. If Washington gentlemen believe we have nothing more important to do than to investigate whether any cattle driver had a lock of his precious hair ruffled while crossing to Europe, then the people in the White House are terribly mistaken.

"Why do Americans choose ships in which they can be hurt? Does the American Government deny there are rascals among America's sons? If such rascals are paid with British gold to make dangerous ocean trips, why should Wilson make us responsible for their lives?

"If Germany should climb down, serious trouble is bound to come from within. Germany leaders prefer that the trouble should come from without."

ENEMY WILL FIND VERDUN MASTER

Prize is Too Big to Be Given to the Germans by French.

AND EVEN THEY GET IT

Gain Would Only Be Temporary and of No Advantage.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Coming from Verdun to raise funds to equip ambulances with demountable rims, whereby, they said, the lives of many of the wounded could be saved, Lieut. George H. Roeder and Sergt. Henry Sheahan of the American Ambulance in France, arrived here yesterday aboard the steamship Chicago of the French Line. Sergt. Sheahan, who is an instructor of English at Harvard, said his efforts would be confined to appeals to college men to contribute toward the fund.

"The Germans," he said, "are nibling at Verdun, but it is too big a cake for them to get away with."

"And even if they do capture it, what then?" interjected Lieut. Roeder. "Verdun will not end the war by any means. The French are organized so thoroughly that any gain Germany may make can at best be only temporary and of comparatively slight advantage.

French Prepared.

"The assertion that the French were unprepared for the German attack at Verdun is absurd. We had been notified to hold ourselves in readiness for just that emergency two weeks before the attack was begun. And the French balloon observers had reported concentrations by the Germans as early as December. Sixteen villages arround Verdun were evacuated by the civilians in two days. Without the right sort of organization such a feat would have been impossible.

"There is but one road left open between Verdun and the French base of supplies, and this road is traversed continuously by six thousand motor trucks. Despite this enormous amount of traffic, the order which prevails is equal to that in the streets of New York."

The two men had been in the battles of Douaumont, Vaux, the Bois des Corveaux and also at Ravigny when the zeppelin was brought down.

Nervous and Almost Crazy With Pains in the Head

Clergyman Certifies to This Cure of Nervous Prostration by Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

No ailment is more discouraging than Nervous Prostration. You may feel better for a day or two, only to find the next day that you have lost ground and are worse than ever. The headaches are worse, languid feelings are terribly depressing. As you lose strength you lose hope and courage and look to the future with fear and trembling.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest blessing that has ever come to the sufferer from nervous exhaustion. It is not narcotic in its influence. It does not deaden the trembling, irritated nerves, but through the medium of the blood nourishes them back to health as nothing else can.

Mrs. Alonzo B. Eisner, Billtown, King's County, N.S., writes: "I was very low with nervous prostration and was about discouraged, as I could not sleep nights and was almost crazy with the pain in my head. I had tried many doctors, but seemed to get little benefit from their treatments.

"A friend handed me Dr. Chase's Almanac, so that I might read about the Nerve Food. A single box of this treatment convinced me of its value, for I was better. I cannot tell how many boxes I used, but the results were so highly satisfactory that I cannot praise it too much. My health and strength have been restored so that I can do all my own work, and I recommend the Nerve Food to all who suffer from nervous prostration."

"This is to certify that I am acquainted with Mrs. A. B. Eisner and believe her statement in regard to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to be true and correct."—Rev. Arthur A. Whitman.

Some patience is required in the treatment of nervous prostration, but you will not be using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food long before you begin to find your strength and good cheer returning. You will then be encouraged to continue the use of the food cure until cured. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Limited, Toronto.
