A RED RIDINGHOOD CAPE FOR THE DEBUTANTE

Only a very young woman could stand the childish coquettishness of this evening wrap, and only a young girl would be willing to risk the missing of a carefully built evening costume for the sake of beauty. The cape is most simply cut.

THE THREE KEYS BY FREDERICK ORMOND.

(Continued) "Your ward!" Trevor exclaimed in astonishment. "You the guardian of a girl almost as old as you are yourself?" "Such is the case, papa," Lathrop affirmed, quite unabashed.

"I'm inclined, at last, to be sorry that I refused young Millington's offer." "It is not too late, yet," Lathrop suggested quickly. "If you say the word I'll manage that. As to speaking frankly, sir, I should be glad to do so. Your consent would be something of a favor to me." "The denie it would!" the financier cried. "Why didn't you say that before? You're half-worger with me in this thing. You have as much to say as I have. Wire him that we will talk him on the terms he offered, if he is stiff of the same mind."

THE COAL CASE

Dominion Company Price to Steel People Was $1.24 a Ton

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 16.—St. Andrew's day will be the date of the next session of the Covans-Dick coal conspiracy case. This adjournment was made by the common council.

Reid Wilson, one of the Montreal directors of the Dominion Coal Company, will be a witness when the sessions are resumed. James MacKay, secretary of the Dominion Coal Company, said he was not familiar with the prices in Montreal. He was sorry he could give no information about the papers alleged to have been sent to Montreal by Agostini.

IN THE COURTS

Yesterday afternoon, in the Equity Court, the case of Frederick P. Shaw and the Canadian Coal Lands Co., Ltd. vs. Alexander G. Robinson and Archer C. Puddington, was taken up.

In this case M. G. Teed, K. C., applied for an injunction to restrain Mr. Puddington from transferring certain coal areas consisting of six and one-half square miles, in Queens county, until after the hearing.

The dispute arose in consequence of Mr. Robinson having assigned to the Canadian Coal Lands Co., Ltd., in Sept. 1908, licenses to the areas in question. Mr. Robinson contended that the assignments were in trust and as the conditions of the licenses were not carried out he had petitioned the Surveyor General to have the licenses cancelled and reassigned to him. This was done, the new licenses bearing date April 8th.

a measure by the visitor's explanation of his inquisitiveness. The girl, as well as her questioner, had remained standing since the introduction. Now, however, she withdrew her hand from his, and sank into a chair. "Will you tell me how old you are, senator?" Trevor requested, as he, too, seated himself. "I was twenty-three years old, last June," was the immediate response, although the girl's eyes widened somewhat in wonder at the intimation of this question. "But Morris!" she continued, "I look much younger than that."

"Yes, you do," the financier agreed. "You are more of a child than Edna, and she is more of a child than you, and she is more of a child than you." "Edna? Ah, yes. She is your daughter. I have seen her." Clarita's brow contracted for the recollection was not a pleasant one. "You have met Edna?" Trevor asked, in surprise. "Where?" She hesitated, and then looked inquiringly at Morris. He, however, was still studying the pages before him, and did not appear to have heard the question. "Morris will tell you about it," she said, at last, demurely. "We met by accident. She did not like me, and I did not like her. It was—what you call—mutual. You see I am frank, Senator Trevor. But I do not choose my words so discreetly in English."

A SCIENTIFIC WONDER.

The Secret of a Famous Healing Balm

The rediscovery of a secret that has lain hidden in the dust of 20 centuries is an event full of fascinating interest. The story of Zam-Buk, the world-famous first-aid and skin cure, will excite the interest of every man, woman and child. Zam-Buk is the virtual descendant of those wonderful and mysterious herbal balms of the use of which the ancients were so proud.

CHAPTER XII Promptly at eight o'clock George Trevor appeared at Lathrop's apartment, and it was easily apparent that he was consumed by excitement, although he strove as best he could to conceal the fact. He had come in his own carriage, and when the young man had donned his overcoat, the two were driven rapidly in the direction of The Millington, where Clarita now lived.

They found the girl at home and expecting them, for Lathrop had sent word that they had been planned in possession of the keys. "Very like, marvelously like!" he murmured, at last. And then, without seeming to perceive the oddity of the question, he demanded: "Child, do you remember your mother?"

"I do not know," Clarita replied, stupefied with amazement. "My mother?" she repeated, confusedly. "No, sir, I do not remember her," came the eager question.

AUXILIARY OF CLAN MACKENZIE FORMED

The first Scottish society composed entirely of ladies in this province, was organized last night in the room of Clan MacKenzie. This is a ladies' auxiliary in connection with the clan, and starts out with a membership of nineteen. Mrs. Joseph A. Murdoch was elected the first lady chief. The greatest enthusiasm marked the gathering. The aims and objects of the organization were fully explained. All ladies of Scottish birth and descent are eligible for membership.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. Joseph A. Murdoch, lady chief; Mrs. G. G. Corbett, lady treasurer; Mrs. E. E. Reid, lady guard.

Other ladies present were: Mrs. Wm. Cameron, Mrs. R. H. B. Tennant, Mrs. J. S. Mackay, Mrs. J. A. Richardson, Mrs. James L. Carmichael and the Messrs. Cameron, Richardson, MacLeod, Lowrie, and Belle Corbett.

The chief-lect was made the recipient of a magnificent silver Scotch thistle, which she acknowledged in a graceful manner. These ladies' auxiliaries are not unknown among the Order of Scottish Clans in the states, but this was the first to be organized in New Brunswick.

"Yes, yes," he said, huskily. "I might indeed! Can you tell me nothing about my child? Do you not know when she died, and where she died?" "No, sir, I know nothing," the girl replied, sadly. "It is strange, is it not? I do not even know her name. Do you not know her name? Was it not the same as your own?"

MR. MCNICOL'S MEETING WITH HARBOR BOARD

D. McNicol, vice-president and general manager of the C. P. R., arrived in the city at noon yesterday and in the afternoon met the members of the harbor board when the transfer of the west side lands was discussed. The session was a private one, but at its conclusion members of the board said that all the clauses of the agreement had been read over and Mr. McNicol had stated his objections to some of them in no uncertain terms. He stated that the C. P. R. desired to secure the west side lots to develop as necessity warranted it, but he objected to any time being fixed in which this development should take place. He also objected to any clauses which would absolutely bind the C. P. R. to deliver one pound of freight to St. John. The company's interests were here, he said, and they had no intention of going elsewhere, but he refused to enter into any agreement committing the company definitely to St. John. Mr. McNicol also fully objected to doing his business through the dominion government but this difficulty is not insurmountable. He told the harbor board this would be a matter particularly for his department, but he would prefer to deal with the city direct.

The suggestion was made to Mr. McNicol by Ald. Baxter that the C. P. R. should purchase from the city the present facilities at Sand Point and should also take the lots they desired. If this were done, Ald. Baxter said, he thought the citizens would not object to it. Other members of the harbor board, however, hold different opinions.

Mr. McNicol did not reply definitely to the suggestion but it is intimated by some that if the city should ever desire to sell the Sand Point facilities the C. P. R. would be a willing purchaser.

THE BEST WOMAN.

The test of culture is still the ability to make our own satisfaction. The legal husband, wife, and child are still the unit of society. The best woman is still the good woman, who maintains her culture by imparting it to her children, who interprets her mother wit in a world of pioneering and argument, and who, as far as she may, makes her own home a microcosm of Utopia. It may be all very ditto, and may require some self-limitation in exchange for some self-fulfillment. Such a woman will suffer, as all men and women suffer, but she will be lovely and lovable in her life, and in her coffin more beautiful than she whose beauty launched a thousand ships and burned the tops of towers of Ilum—John of London in London T. P.'s Weekly.
