League To Abolish War Gets But Cold Comfort

British Premier Asks Some Pertinent Questions in Regard to European Situation.

London, June 19.—The official report of the interview which Lloyd George had on Wednesday with delegates of the "League to Abolish War" shows the deputation received cold comfort. The premier, assisted by Arthur J. Balfour, president of the council, and Earl Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, subjected the deputation, individually and collectively, to a severe questioning. He endeavored to learn from them the smallest detail that they desired done, with a view to showing its impossibility.

He admitted the ideas of Viscount Grey and President Wilson for an international force were possible ideas but already impracticable at the present time. They might, he added, become more practical if the United States decided to enter, but it is idle to go into discussion with the United States now.

The controversy arose between George Nicoll Barnes, former minister without portfolio, and the premier, the former complaining that no pressure had been applied to Poland. Lloyd George retorted with the assertion that three great powers, namely, without effect, Russia and President Wilson for an international force were possible ideas but already impracticable at the present time. They might, he added, become more practical if the United States decided to enter, but it is idle to go into discussion with the United States now.

It is impossible, he stated, "for the league to call into being any forces not already existing. What would happen if you asked America or France to supply troops and they refused?"

Mr. Balfour then asked the deputation where the league's international force was to be kept—should it be Saint Helena, or perhaps Labrador.

He stated, he declared, if it were kept in France it would not fight France, and if kept in England it would not fight England.

Premier Lloyd George confessed he was not quite convinced that an international army was the best method of preserving peace, but emphasized it as his belief that any attempt to force peace would only destroy the league.

He stated, he declared, if it were kept in France it would not fight France, and if kept in England it would not fight England.

As Hiram Sees It

"Look here," said Mr. Hiram Hornbent to the times reporter, "I can go anywhere around this town without hearing about it. I went down Thursday night to that Women's Council meeting to see what the Council was up to."

"The Women's Council," he reported, "stands for a pure milk supply for the home. Well," said Hiram, "it just looked to me as if that Mrs. Willoughby had a good deal to say about it."

"What were you doing there, anyhow?" asked the reporter.

"I heard they had some smart women there from out west," said Hiram. "An' Hanner sat me to go an' hear 'em talk 'bout it. She's a good gal, an' got up on the woman question sense she got the vote. Well, sir—I was disappointed. The women were all from Gov'nor Pugsley an' Judge McKewen. That there woman address from Toronto did little—she was two or three miles out there. A hull lot o' wimmen turned right round an' looked at me."

Lloyd George Is Adamant Regarding Irish Affair

Government Will Close Irish Railways if Necessary

Or if Needs be Will Run Them with the Military—Is Willing to Meet Sinn Fein Representatives.

London, June 19.—Lloyd George yesterday received a deputation of railwaymen in a conference lasting for nearly three hours. No statement has been given out from the premier's official residence at Downing street, but James Henry Thomas, general secretary of the railwaymen's union, stated after the conference that the government had declined to discontinue sending troops and munitions to Ireland. But he said the government was prepared to do everything to prevent provocation and was ready to meet any body of Irish representative men, including representatives of the Sinn Fein organization.

This, declared Mr. Thomas, leaves the question of the strike of Irish railwaymen untouched, but the government announced that should the strikers still persist in refusing to return to work the Irish railways, which would lead to a very serious situation.

According to another version, the premier told the deputation that refusal by the railwaymen to handle troops would mean the government would close the Irish railways, which would lead to a very serious situation.

TRIO TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Woman Shot at St. Hilaire After Raid

War Over Liquor That Was Saved from Raid — Shooting Occurred When Owners Were Guarding Kegs.

(Fredrickton Gleaner.) Edmundston, N. B., June 18.—Three arrests were made here this morning by Sheriff Pelletier following the shooting of a woman at night at St. Hilaire, eight miles north of here, in what is believed to be the most sensational liquor-running case that has yet occurred along the New Brunswick and Maine international boundary.

Two of the three men arrested today are Fred Levesque, of Belle River, and his father-in-law, Pierre Collin, of the same place, but no further action will be taken in their case until the sheriff has received instructions from the attorney general, with whom he is now in communication. They came into town this morning and were quickly arrested by Sheriff Pelletier.

Mrs. Gouneau was in a critical condition this morning, a bullet having passed through her head above the ear and there is little or no chance for her recovery. Dr. Laporte, of Edmundston, is the attending physician and he said he considered it very doubtful whether she could recover as chances were decidedly against her. The woman died of her wounds and there were handsome floral tributes and many spiritual bouquets were placed on the casket.

The funeral of John Regan will be held this afternoon from the Mater Misericordiae Home. Services will be conducted by Rev. Simon Oram and interment will be in the new Catholic cemetery.
