Q How long have you been married?

A Oh, two years.

Q Have you made any attempt at any time to find another home for them?

A Not since I have been in the Army, Sir.

Q Where else were you?

A In Fort William, Sir.

Q And what were you doing there?

A I was working for a fellow named Rosenblat, and several places in Fort William and Port Arthur.

Q Where was your wife when you were in Fort William?

A She was living with me.

Q She was living with you in Fort William?

A Yes, Sir.

Q Where were you living 1943?

A Fort William, I think, Sir.

Q Where were you living in 1942?

A I think it was still in Fort William.

Q When did you go to Fort William?

A Three or four years ago, Sir. I couldn't tell you the exact date.

Q Well now, you have been working all the time, haven't you?

A Yes, Sir.

Q Well, you should be able to fix the time fairly accurately. What was the first job you had in Fort William?

A For Rosenblat.

Q When did you get that uob?

A I couldn't tell you, Sir.

Q Were you ever in the Army before?

A No, Sir.

Q Have you been to Debert?

A No, Sir.

Q You lived in Winnipeg at one time, didn't you?

A Yes, Sir.

Q When was that?

A In '39, I guess, '38 or '39, Sir.

Q Do you remember telling the Army Examiner that you were working in Winnipeg in January, 1943?

A I don't remember, Sir.
