The February Sale Ends Monday Night.

It has been an extraordinary sale; it has been a fruitful sale. We've won many a new friend for our clothing through its influence. It has cost us a sacrifice---but its advantages are worth the loss entailed.

The depth of the cutting evidences how determined we are to accomplish a clearance. Monday is your last chance.

RECENT DEATHS.

A fairly good audience assembled last evening at St. John's (stone) Church schoolroom to hear a lecture delivered by Professor Clawson, of the University of New Brunswick, upon the subject of Spenser's famous alle-gorical poem, the "Faery Queen." Mr. Clawson was introduced by Capt. B. R. Armstrong, who occupied the chair. After a sketch of Spenser's career the lecturer gave an interesting analy-sis of the poem, explaining its alle-gorical structure and personal allu-ties which the modern reader must face, but furnished many striking quotations to prove the rich intel-lectual enjoyment which can even now be derived from its perusal. At the close of the lecture, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Prof. Clawson, on the motion of Rev. John Clawson, on the motion of Rev. Fraser Dakin.
