

JEFFRIES WON!

Ruhlin Quit in the Fifth Round,

To the Amazement and Disgust of the Assembled Thousands

Who Expected to See a Game Battle— Many of Them Had Put Up Good Money Against the Champion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—In one of the most unsatisfactory prize fights ever witnessed in this country, James J. Jeffries proved the victor tonight over Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant, in the fifth round of what was to have been a 20 round struggle. Ruhlin wilted and then surrendered to his peer, to the utter amazement and disgust of the assembled thousands. No one was more surprised at the outcome than Jeffries himself, who asserted that while he had delivered one telling blow in the second round he did not expect to win so easily.

Ruhlin's sole explanation of the outcome of the fight is that he received a chance blow which utterly disabled him. He said that he was fighting with his eyes closed, and that he had no recollection of anything that happened after the first round. He said that he was surprised when he was told that he had been knocked out, and that he had no recollection of anything that happened after the first round.

When seen in his dressing room after the fight, the champion said: "I was certainly surprised at my easy victory and Ruhlin's amazing defeat. While it is true that he did not punch me hard enough during the five rounds to cause me any alarm, I believed him strong and cautious up to the moment of his collapse, and was surprised when he quit. I certainly had no difficulty in whipping him, and had the fight gone on the result must have been the same. Ruhlin was inaccurate and in poor wind, and I cannot say that he even had the courage and force I expected to encounter in him. Ruhlin took a stiff punch in the stomach in the fourth round which I presume gave him trouble, nevertheless I expected him to lose harder than he did. Mr. Ruhlin can doubtless best explain his own position, and as for myself, I am willing to meet Mr. Sharkey next month and thereafter to defend as best I can the title I hold."

When Ruhlin went to his dressing room he was followed by a very depressed retinue. The defeated man complained of no pain and moved about without assistance. He stated: "I believed from the tap of the gong that I would win, but as the fight progressed I was beaten down until I received a blow in the stomach which I must say was very low, but which may not have been a foul, and which no living man could have survived. Jeffries departed from the written rules and from the common regulations of boxing when he threw himself upon me and wrestled rather than sparred. I do believe that had I not received the stomach punch, which ended me in the fifth, I would have won. Mr. Jeffries a few rounds later and beaten him as a matter of endurance. I am ready to fight him again, and believe that in time I will have the opportunity of righting that wrong to the face, then rush, landing on the body. The champion led with the left and was countered. Ruhlin found Jeffries' head, and in a short exchange landed a right hand on the jaw. The fight at close range, Gus again landing on Jeffries' face and stopping the latter's attempt at retaliation with a strong right. Ruhlin feinted with his right and shot a straight left on Jeffries' nose, but the blow was partially blocked. The men were wrestling when the round closed. This was decidedly Ruhlin's round.

ROUND 1. The men came up strong, and Ruhlin shot a right and a left, which were stopped. Jeffries elbowed his way back, and finally caught the Akron man with a terrific left to the neck. Jeffries pursued Gus and swung with both hands. In a rush Jeffries landed weak body blows. Ruhlin again appealed to the referee. Gus feinted and came back with an ineffectual short arm punch. Jeffries held the advantage, with the count steadily complaining. The men closed in several times, Ruhlin fighting low and Jeffries apparently looking for a chance to land a knock-out punch. Jeffries repeated about the ring until the spectators bled him. The round closed with neither man in distress, but Ruhlin the more worried of the two.

ROUND 2. The men came up strong, and Ruhlin shot a right and a left, which were stopped. Jeffries elbowed his way back, and finally caught the Akron man with a terrific left to the neck. Jeffries pursued Gus and swung with both hands. In a rush Jeffries landed weak body blows. Ruhlin again appealed to the referee. Gus feinted and came back with an ineffectual short arm punch. Jeffries held the advantage, with the count steadily complaining. The men closed in several times, Ruhlin fighting low and Jeffries apparently looking for a chance to land a knock-out punch. Jeffries repeated about the ring until the spectators bled him. The round closed with neither man in distress, but Ruhlin the more worried of the two.

ROUND 3. The men came up strong, and Ruhlin shot a right and a left, which were stopped. Jeffries elbowed his way back, and finally caught the Akron man with a terrific left to the neck. Jeffries pursued Gus and swung with both hands. In a rush Jeffries landed weak body blows. Ruhlin again appealed to the referee. Gus feinted and came back with an ineffectual short arm punch. Jeffries held the advantage, with the count steadily complaining. The men closed in several times, Ruhlin fighting low and Jeffries apparently looking for a chance to land a knock-out punch. Jeffries repeated about the ring until the spectators bled him. The round closed with neither man in distress, but Ruhlin the more worried of the two.

ROUND 4. After a short exchange at close quarters, Ruhlin landed on the face. He was forced back, and Jeffries smiled as Ruhlin again rebuked him. Jeffries landed a left, blackening Gus' left eye, then pursued him, fighting at short range and plainly wearing his man down. Ruhlin lacked aggressiveness and retreated as Jeffries pushed him across the ring. Then the champion walked Gus across the ring again and landed a fierce left on his jaw. Ruhlin shot out ineffectual lefts. Jeffries waded in, whaling Ruhlin left and right. Gus went down and took the count. He came up apparently weak, and the gong saved him. Ruhlin was plainly in the greatest distress when the round closed. This round was much in Jeffries' favor.

ROUND 5. Ruhlin wore a distressed expression when he came up. Jeffries went in with straight arm blows, but was blocked. Jeffries landed a light hook to the jaw and a short left to the ribs, and then went again to the neck with a right. A volley followed this, in which the champion feasted Gus with lefts to the face. Ruhlin ducked and feinted steadily. Jeffries followed the advantage up and bore in, catching Ruhlin beneath the chin with his right and forcing him to the ropes. After which Gus went to the floor and at the count of five staggered to his feet. He ceased fighting, and Jeffries went in for a knock-out.

stress, and as Captain Whitman, in charge of the police detail, cleared the way, proceeded to his dressing room, while the throng that entered the building made a demonstration. In great impatience the crowd waited for the appearance of the two gladiators, taking but a passive interest in the eight round bout between Billy Condon and Mike Corbett, and in the encounter between Joe Fields and "Spider" Joe Welch. The second preliminary between Fields and Welch, an eight round affair, was announced. When the second preliminary had been concluded, resulting in the victory of "Spider" Joe Welch over Joe Fields in four rounds, a corps of workmen pounced into the ring, sealing the ladders and taking other positions about the myriad of electric lights ranged along the border of a great canopy.

The operator of the kinetoscope machine adjusted his instruments, and a flash of light through the array of lamps proclaimed that all was in readiness as far as the company was concerned. A moment later a burst of light of 250,000 candle power illumined the arena and came to further enlighten the great host of spectators at an immediate forerunner of the championship struggle.

George Harding, official timekeeper for the fight, took his position to the south side of the ring with Phil Ward, timekeeper for Ruhlin, closely following.

At 9:28 p. m. Jeffries entered the ring wearing a white shirt and white trousers. He was followed by his trainer, Billy DeLaney, Kid Eagan, Bob Armstrong and his brother Jack, Harry Corbett, referee, and stepped into the ring.

At 9:30 p. m. Gus Ruhlin entered the ring followed by his seconds. They tossed for corners, and Ruhlin won, taking the southwest corner of the ring.

The extreme heat from the powerful light over the ring made itself felt from the very beginning, but was not so intense as that which hampered the Sharkey-Jeffries fight. Two minutes after the men entered the ring they were announced by Billy Jordan, who then presented Referee Harry Corbett. Deafening cheers greeted the big fighters, but an instant later, when a police captain entered the ring to examine the gloves, groans and hisses filled the vast audience.

THE FIGHT. The men were to break at order of the referee. Time was called at 9:37. The fight was then waged as follows: ROUND 1. Ruhlin led for the head and landed the first blow on the left. Both men were cautious. Jeffries left went around Ruhlin's head, but no damage resulted. Jeffries tapped Gus lightly on the head with his left. The latter cleverly ducked a light left with his right. Jeffries landed on the body, but missed another for the head. Ruhlin countered with his left. Jeffries swung again but missed. Gus blocked a left jab for the face. Jeffries repeated the attack for the body, but the Ohio man got out of harm's way. Jeffries was smiling. The round was tame, with the champion having a slight advantage.

ROUND 2. They clinched. Ruhlin was hooked around the neck with a left. He accused Jeffries of foul fighting, and Akron man then shot in his right and found Jeffries' ribs, following this up with an ineffectual live swing for the head. Jeffries waxed aggressive. Ruhlin pointed his right hand at the face, then rushed, landing on the body. The champion led with the left and was countered. Ruhlin found Jeffries' head, and in a short exchange landed a right hand on the jaw. The fight at close range, Gus again landing on Jeffries' face and stopping the latter's attempt at retaliation with a strong right. Ruhlin feinted with his right and shot a straight left on Jeffries' nose, but the blow was partially blocked. The men were wrestling when the round closed. This was decidedly Ruhlin's round.

Jeffries repeated about the ring until the spectators bled him. The round closed with neither man in distress, but Ruhlin the more worried of the two.

ROUND 4. After a short exchange at close quarters, Ruhlin landed on the face. He was forced back, and Jeffries smiled as Ruhlin again rebuked him. Jeffries landed a left, blackening Gus' left eye, then pursued him, fighting at short range and plainly wearing his man down. Two lots were placed in the Line Steamship Company's stock, sold at $45 a share. The lot went in three blocks of forty, twenty and one hundred and forty shares. Five hundred and twenty shares of Star Line stock brought twenty-five cents a share. Two hundred and fifty of Union Consolidated Oil brought the same amount. A property on Somerset street consisting of a house and barn, sold for $482.

Almost from the beginning of the fight Ruhlin appeared frightened. The fight was practically finished in the second round when Jeffries landed a left hook on the jaw that took all the fight out of Ruhlin. Ruhlin claimed that a chance blow in the pit of the stomach rendered him unfit for fighting.

His seconds complained bitterly, but Ruhlin insisted that he was the victim of an accident. Jeffries walked to Ruhlin's corner, asked what was the matter, then turned in disgust and left the ring. The referee and officers of the club were involved. The utmost excitement prevailed, during which Ruhlin made his way out of the ring.

In the last minute of the round Ruhlin attempted to step the left lead for the head, and he was forced back and struck squarely in the pit of the stomach. Jeffries was going at him very fiercely, and when the gong sounded he was still in the ring. He looked then as if the fight was practically ended. Ruhlin gave every appearance of being in distress. He said something to Billy Madden, and Deane Egan, who was standing in the center of the ring and halted Referee Corbett. "We give up," said Martin, and the fight was over.

TRAIN BLOWN UP BY DYNAMITE. The Southwestern Express Wrecked Near York, Pa.—Passengers Were In a Panic. YORK, Pa., Nov. 15.—The southwestern Express, carrying 100 passengers, was wrecked Friday night by a charge of dynamite placed under the track near Black bridge, a distance north of York. The train was running at the rate of 15 miles an hour when the explosion occurred. Passengers on the train were severely shocked and consternation prevailed. All escaped injury.

A delay of several hours wrecked trucks and the track was put in order. At the place where the explosion occurred a hole was blown in the roadbed large enough to bury a man. Where the rail was broken the edges were cut off almost as clean as if done by shears.

Engineer Isaac Sterner, who was in charge of the locomotive, said he heard a terrific explosion, followed by a great shock. The explosion occurred immediately under the day coach, which was four cars behind the engine. Passengers on the train say they first saw a ball of fire in the sky, which was followed by a blinding flash and a deafening roar.

The passengers were greatly shocked, many throwing themselves on the floor of the car in which they were. A panic prevailed among them until they were assured the danger was over.

REPORTS OF THE WRECK. Reports of the wreck at the southwestern express on the Northern Central branch of the Pennsylvania railroad were received at the office of the company here Saturday morning and steps were at once taken to locate and arrest the miscreants if possible. There is little hope that the dynamite will be captured, because it is believed they undoubtedly made their way to one of the large cities before daylight. The wrecked train is the southwestern express, which left Washington at 7:45 o'clock Friday night and was due in Pittsburgh at 7:15 Saturday morning. It had left York and was en route to Harrisburg when the explosion occurred.
