Advertised Frauds.

To the Editor of the Tribune.

It is scarcely a year since many New Brunswickers lost all they possessed by investing in the bonds of an American railway, and these sales were due largely to the ten-cent-a-line advertising in a St. John paper. Are we to be swindled again by a similar American Company, now being so extensively "noticed" in the editorial columns of an enterpising morning publication? Yours, &c., Querist.

REPRESENTATIVES IN THE CABINET would stand out against Ontario pressure, the obnoxious ship material tax would soon be wiped out. But this is not a representative Government—It is an Ontario Government. Its Premier has many an old score to pay off against the Maritime Provinces. They were warned of the consequences of Ontario rule. They shut their eyes to the possibilities of that rule. The awakening to its experience is not pleasant, but it may prove profitable. But I suppose the great privilege of having an INCORRUPT REFORM GOVERNMENT.

Fire in Portland. April 14th:

We would call particular attention to the acting of Miss Gertrude Kellogg as "Elsie of the Glen." It thrilled the audience. This lady has something more than talents—she has genius. Nobody without it could have rendered the role as she did last night. It deserves to rank as a companion with Charlotte Cushman's "Meg Merrilles," and the divine Charlotte herself could not have performed the character of the hag "Elsie" any better.

A fire broke out in Thomas McElroy's house in Main street, Portland, this morning. It was confined to the upper story, having caught, it is supposed, from a defect in the chimney. The hose cart was soon on hand, a hole was cut in the roof, and a great quantity of water was poured down. The fire was extinguished in a short time, but not until the house and much of the furniture was saturated with water.

This is to certify that in the autumn of 1867 I contracted a severe cold and cough, and was seized with pains in the chest and back. I obtained medical advice, but and was seized with pains in the chest and back. I obtained medical advice, but the prescriptions effected no good whatever. The cough kept growing worse, and other symptoms set in which complicated my case, until finally I was given up to die by three physicians, who said I was far advanced in consumption, and could not recover.

I had been fourteen months gradually wasting away, unable to perform the lightest service, and fast approaching the end. At this time I had never heard of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, but some of my family noticed the letter from Capt. Coffill, concerning the cure it had effected in his case, and I was persuaded to send for some of the medicine.

I commenced to take it in accordance with directions, and before I had used half a bottle I was able to resume light work in my shop, and, notwithstanding Mr. Patterson (Ministerialist) soid in favor of open nominations. Mr. Cameron (Ministerialist) had an amendment ready which he moved.

A lively discussion followed, many members claiming the floor at the same time,

I commenced to take it in accordance with directions, and before I had used half a bottle I was able to resume light work in my shop, and, notwithstanding that my disease was so far advanced as to be incurable, by making use of it from time to time during the last three years, it has sustained my strength and enabled me to knock about and attend to my work. I feel certain that had I used it at an earlier stake of the disease it would have effected a perfect cure.

A lively discussion followed, many members claiming the floor at the same time.

Mr. Patterson (Ministerialist) said it would take all his respect for the Ministry, and all his party loyalty to make him support the bill. If the Ministry insisted on abolishing open nominations.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie said open nominations were abolished everywhere. The system was a farce and afforded no chance for a fair discussion. He appealed to the House to yote against the amendment. at an earlier stake of the disease it would have effected a perfect cure.
