U. N. B. GRADUATE GETS SCHOLARSHIP

Hammond J. Atkinson to Pursue Scientific Agricultural Post Graduate Work.

Hammond J. Atkinson, a native of Derby Junction, near Newcastle, N. B., has been nominated the New Brunswick recipient of the W. C. Macdonald Post Graduate Scholarship in scientific agriculture, available at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and leading to the degree of M. Sc. This is one of the ten scholarships, each valued at $500, annually donated. Two of them go to the Province of Quebec on account of the bilingual situation there, and one to each of the remaining provinces.

The scholarships are donated by W. C. Macdonald Inc., tobacco and cigarette manufacturers, of Montreal, in pursuance of the policy laid down by their founder, the late Sir William C. Macdonald, who during his lifetime gave many millions of dollars for the advancement of scientific and technical education in Canada. Sir William was a pioneer Canadian business man and realized that the development of the Dominion necessitated provision for the training of scientific agriculturists to foster the basic industry and of practitioners in the engineering professions to convert natural resources into wealth. Accordingly, he established the Macdonald Engineering Building at McGill University and founded and provided for the organization and maintenance of Macdonald College at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, one of the world's foremost agricultural institutes.

Mr. Atkinson, the New Brunswick nominee for the 1925-26 scholarships, received his primary education at the Lower Derby public school and at Harkins Academy, Newcastle, whence he was graduated in 1920 as winner of the Lord Beaverbrook prize of $125. He also won the Beaverbrook scholarship of $250 per year at the University of New Brunswick, and on entering the University was awarded the Northumberland county scholarship of $30 per year for two years. In his sophomore year he began specializing in chemistry and natural sciences, receiving first class honor certificates in these subjects in his sophomore, junior and senior years. He was graduated in 1925 with his B. A. and with first class honors in chemistry and natural science.

An upturn youth who is learning to play on a cornet is otherwise so popular that the neighbors permit him to live.

Will Sims Answer Critics?

Charles Sims, R. A., noted painter, who called for home in England on the S. S. Majestic. He is the man who made the painting recently of King George, which came in for all kinds of criticism, many claiming that Sims had made the King appear effeminate.

ST. STEPHEN GIRL WON BOSTON PRAISE

Miss Alice Ryder, the Eldest Daughter of Capt. George P. Ryder, Wins Fame.

(The Boston Traveller.)

Miss Alice Ryder is a prophet with honor in her country, despite the accepted idea of parental jealousies. She is a down-East young woman, native of St. Stephen, N. B., and of good stock. Her grandfather was a good citizen who built workmanlike houses for a great many years and was a master of his trade. He was an old-time volunteer fireman. Her father followed his father, and was a volunteer soldier. He ranked as captain and her brothers were sergeants from the same block and when the war came, the whole family enlisted as volunteers. Miss Alice with the rest. This all by way of showing how fine background help.

The war and the post-war human problems of health appealed to her. She finished high and normal schools and night school and has called after the higher education in the great American centres, finishing at Columbia where she won her B.Sc. A New York Hospital engaged her as dietitian, and now her home has called her, and she has responded. She has been appointed director of the household science department of Mount Allison University at Sackville, N. B., and from her new radial centre will spread knowledge of inestimable value. The professor of nutrition at Columbia said of her: "Miss Ryder is a rather unusual student. She is clever, original in her thinking, has initiative and, above all, the ability to carry through what she initiates."

The reason? Not only a girl from an old-fashioned home, where God-fearing parents ruled in love, but where all the children were brought up right. Miss Ryder is the cynosure of the eyes of many great educators all over the country, who declare that she has started well on a wonderful career of service to humanity.

JAS. ROBINSON'S CAR IN SMASHUP

Seriously Damaged in Crash With a Car From Moncton Near Chatham.

Chatham, N. B., Nov. 3.—There was a bad smash in the traffic yesterday afternoon about two o'clock when cars belonging to James Robinson, ex-M.P. of Millerton, and A. B. Torrie, of Moncton, came into collision on the hill opposite the former Murdoch farm.

Both cars were travelling at a pretty good lick according to each driver, and when the car driven by Weldon Robinson failed to come out of the snow rut at the critical moment, the rear swung round and caught the front of the other which Mr. Robinson states did not give him enough room, where was one big smash. A young lady in the Robinson car was flung out the door and the rear truck of that car was driven on its right hand side about three feet to the rear, taking with it the gas tank and the main driving shaft which was torn clean out of the front transmission. The result was an utter wreck of the underbody of the Robinson car, while the other car had the front axle bent, wheel ditched, lamp shattered and mudguards crumpled up.

Both cars had to be taken away by trucks.

An ox hauled. The following morning J. S. Anderson went out in his yard at Shelburne, Mass., to find the cause. The ox, one of the yoke owned by him, turned toward the pasture with the owner following. Every little while the ox would turn and bellow loudly. This continued until they had gone three-quarters of a mile into the pasture, where the male was found very ill.

OTHER CAR BLAMED FOR THE ACCIDENT

John Prooth, Who Was Injured Near Temple, Develops Illness From Exposure.

John Prooth, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident last week when his car went over the Patterson bridge, just above Temple on the Fredericton-Woodstock highway, while he and Mrs. Prooth were driving to Woodstock, has developed bronchitis at Victoria Hospital as a result of the exposure from which he suffered and his condition is regarded as quite serious although not critical. Mr. Prooth has a fractured leg and multiple other injuries.

The accident, it has since been explained, was not caused by the slippery road but caused by Mr. Prooth having to pull his car suddenly to the side of the road, just as he went on the bridge, to avoid collision with a car coming in the opposite direction at a terrific rate of speed. Before he could get the car back on the snowy road again, it crashed through the flimsy railing of the bridge and, as previously reported, turned three complete somersaults before it landed at the bottom of the ravine. The two men who were in the other car, and who, according to Mr. Prooth and his wife, were really responsible for the accident, went back to assist the injured, but left soon afterwards without conveying Mr. Prooth to a doctor or giving any information as to their identity.

Mr. Prooth is a returned soldier and has five medals for overseas service—two for gallantry on the field—with the British forces. Mrs. Prooth, who escaped from the wrecked car without anything more serious than painful bruises, has suffered severely from shock as a result of her experiences. Mr. and Mrs. Prooth have three sons and came to Canada recently intending to take up dairy farming.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

Suited to the Subject. A bachelor minister was in the habit of publishing his subject for the Sunday evening service by means of a large poster. One week he went to a young lady member of the choir and told her that he would like her to sing next Sunday evening. "I have given my subject to the printer," said he, "Will you call and tell him the title of your solo? Please choose something appropriate."

The minister's subject was "Waiting for the Wedding," based, of course, on the parable of the ten virgins. During the week the poster appeared. It read thus: Sermon: "Waiting for the Wedding." Solo: "Why do you wait, dear brother?" Miss Broadcaster.

Mrs. Torker (sighing)—Alf, one half of the world doesn't know how the other half suffers.

Mrs. Cassie—Well cheer up, my dear; it isn't your fault.

A Missfire. A little girl, on arriving late at school for the third time, was scolded by her teacher and told to write a composition on "Punctuality."

After a strenuous quarter of an hour she produced the following: "Punctuality is knowing where to make stops."

His mother tucked 4-year-old Johnny away in the top berth of the sleeping car. Hearing him stirring in the middle of the night, she called softly: "Johnny, do you know where you are?"

"Tours I do," he returned, sturdily. "I'm in the top drawer."

The couples who go to Glaston, Mo., to be married are of all sorts, but not until now a couple so playful as to bring along a pair of dogs to act as "best man" and "bridesmaid." The bride, Miss Lillie Erdman, of Chicago, introduced Justice of the Peace Werremer to Fung Chow and Ho Lung, Chinese chow dogs who were nominated by her for best man and bridesmaid, respectively.
