The Cross at the Front

FRAGMENTS FROM THE TRENCHES

By

CHAPLAIN THOMAS TIPLADY, B.E.F.

12mo. Cloth. Net $1.00

☞ Shows us the soldier at the front, as the author knows and loves him, "not scarlet—nor yet white—but just Khaki."

☞ "Sincere faith, unflagging courage, thorough manliness—an interesting book by a chaplain greatly loved."—Providence Journal.

☞ "One of the best of the war books. The author, a field chaplain, was in Flanders in the thick of the fight for many months. He pictures the real soldier at the front—his heroism, his sacrifice, his reverence for all sacred things as few writers have been able to picture him."—The Pittsburgh Post.

☞ "It is a first-hand account of heroism and self sacrifice. Here are stories which none can read dry-eyed, but, nevertheless, are contagious of hope and honor and courage. Of all the war literature issued in the last three years none follows the lines or parallels the purpose of THE CROSS AT THE FRONT."

—The Nashville Banner.

☞ "'Vivid' is too dim a word to express the living pictures which this chaplain has seen in France. Some of the chapters are among the finest pieces of pathos we have read anywhere. Read the book and you will be a better man for all your tasks."—Chicago Standard.

☞ "Marked by a vividness which shows it to have been written within range or sound of the guns, full of that humanness which will cause answering echo in the heart of every reader."—Episcopal Recorder.
