The appointment will meet with general favor, Mr. Dowling having won his spurs by hard, conscientious work, and during his association with the Burlington, demonstrating his peculiar fitness to handle the passenger business. In point of fact, Dowling is one of the huskiest passenger men in the business, and is a terror when he gets started after a party of tourists.' The Mr. Dowling above mentoned is an old Hamilton boy and a brother of the Kight Rev. T. J. Dowling, Bishop of Hamilton."

RICHMOND HILL.

In the cavity of the corner stone of St. Mary's church at Richmond Hill, recently laid by Archbishop Walsh, was deposited an iron box containing the following records of the present time: — A copy of the Liberal, the CATHOLIC REGISTER of London, the Catholic Register, the Globe, the Empire, the Mail, Voters' List of Richmond for 1893, List of Magistrates for the County of York, and a copy of the list of subscribers to St. Mary's old frame church, dated 1853, with other records, On the front face of the stone is engraved a cross and a Latin inscription, of which the following is a translation: "The Most Rev. John Walsh, Archbishop of Toronto, blessed and laid this corner-stone of the Church of the Most Blessed Virgin, on the 17th of June, 1894."

The oldest postmaster in Canada to-day is Mathew Teefy, Esq., Richmond Hill, who received his appointment on 3rd December, 1850, nearly forty four years ago. At that time there were no postage stamps in use: postage on each letter was rated according to distances. To send a letter 1500 miles, 67 cents had to be paid in cash.

We sincerely hope the postmaster of Richmond Hill, one of the most respected gentlemen in that part of the country, will be given many more years to attend to the duties of his office.

In words of burning eloquence, we have heard of the way, the truth and the life, while deep into our hearts has sunk the lesson of noble example. We have seen before us ideal souls, who are filling their sphere of usefulness, perseveringly, cheerfully and triumphantly.

Vast is your labor, far beyond our realization, a work that can be adequately estimated only when in the Eternal City the multitude shall be gathered around the great, the venerable St. Paul of the Cross.

Mothers Take Warning

A particularly bright brakeman often comes and talks with me on the train, writes Amber. He is quite a philosopher in his way and keeps his eyes and ears open pretty effectively. Not long since he called my attention to some school girls who were riding in the same car with us.

"I wonder what those young girls' nothers are thinking of!" said he. Why, if you could see the goings on do you would wonder that there was any such a thing left as an old-fashioned, modest girl. They write notes to the train hands, they flirt with the conductor, they make appointments with the brakemen, and all the time their mothers think, I suppose, that We are pleased to notice by the Mendocino, California, Beacon that the Rev. Father Ferguson delivered the oration at the 12th July celebration. That paper adds that the oration was a masterful effort, and that Father Ferguson's speech showed much eloquent thought and patriotic sentiment. Father Ferguson is a native of Port Dalhousie and was a student at Assumption College, Sandwich.

ing. You might as well expect an untrained colt to win the Derby!"

I think the brakeman expressed lot of good, hard common sense. It's asking too much of a girl to trundle her out into a world of temptation and expect her to go scot free from taints that fly in the air. Mothers put on your thinking caps and give more at-tention to your daughters. Concern yourself with the knowledge of what they are doing when they are out of your sight.

A SPUNKY IRISH GIRL.

Eimira Catholics Are Justly Proud of Miss Kittie Ryan.

Elmira, N. Y., has at least one brave young Irish girl who has the courage of her convictions and will stand up for her faith even in the very camp of the enemy.

Thursday evening of last week one of Elmira's prominent churches had a lecturer from out of the city, and a large audience had assembled to listen to the eloquence he was to impart. Miss Kittie Ryan, one of our most talented and charming young ladies, had been invited to give two vocal solos during the evening. The lec-turer of the evening was introduced and spoke at some length, and in the course of his remarks gave some alleged information on Catholicity to they worshipped holy pictures, were idolators, etc. It all passed off very well until Miss Ryan rendered her econd solo, after which she gave vent to her true Irish spunk, and asking permission to make a few remarks, then and there said she was a Catholic and knowing the remarks just made by the speaker were false and unjust thought it a duty to defend her faith, and that such remarks in this en-lightened age were sadly out of place. The worthy (?) gentleman must have felt as if cold water had dashed his frame, as the applause of the audience rang out to cheer the brave girl. God bless her! Would that there were many more like her.—Catholic Faith doesn't come to all by hearing. With many seeing is believing. Many when they read of what has been effected in other parts of the country may shake their heads with an incredulous air. To satisfy such people it is necessary to bring the matter home; to show it to them at their own doors. The people of this country may not have heard, or only know little about the places where good has been effected by the use of the medicine, the name of which is on everybody's lips, but they have heard of Westville, the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second most populous town in the country may not have the second may not have not have the second may not have not have not have the seco heard, or only know little about the places where good has been effected by the use of the medicine, the name of which is on everybody's lips, but they have heard of Westville, he second most populous town in the country, and people far and near have heard of the mining town where in '73, twenty years ago, over fifty lives were lost by an explosion in a mine, and the people of these provinces know it to-day as the place from which they draw their supply of fuel. Hearing of a cure that had been effected in Westville through the agency of Dr. William's Pink Pills, a Journal reporter thought it might be of general interest to ascertain the particulars. So to Westville he went, and called at the home of Mr. Thos. McMillan, who is known to every man, woman and child in the place, having taken up his home there twenty years ago. Mr. McMillan was not to be seen at the time, unless our reporter sought him at a distance of between three and four thousand feet underground, in one of the deepest coal mines on the continent, where he was at work. Mrs. McMillan was at home, however, and when informed of the object of the reporter's visit, said she could give all the information necessary—and she gave it freely. "Yes," said she, "Tom was a very sick man, so sick that he was unable to work for eight mouths—a long time wasn't it?" she said by of question. "He had been sick more or less for about a year.
