WARNING!

Information has reached us that certain dealers, when asked for Zam-Buk, try to sell something else on which they make a larger profit. They do not give this as their reason, but say: "I can sell you so and so at half the price and it is just as good."

Don't be fooled! The "cheap" preparation is not just as good as Zam-Buk—not in the same class! Most of the cheap salves are made from animal fats and oils. Zam-Buk is made from pure herbal essences and juices. There is as little similarity between the two as between a horse and an automobile.

Imitation of Zam-Buk and cheap substitutes may give the dealer a little more profit, but they won't cure your skin disease, or stop the pain of your burn or ease the agony of piles, or cure the rash on your baby. Don't be misled. Get the real Zam-Buk. See the legally protected name on the packet before paying for it.

THE ROMAN ROADS.

Great Britain's Legacy From the Days of Long Ago.

Of the many useful arts which Britons owe to Rome, that of road-making certainly is the most important. That Rome learned from Carthage is possible, but the Romans must have enjoyed the credit for their roads to-day still challenge to speed the panting motor, while those of Carthage lie beneath the dust. The Roman plan of construction was fairly uniform, and every road was laid with a view to durability whether it were an Appian or Flaminian Way, a Tarring Street or a route through the wilds of Gaul or Macedonia. The famous Appian Way, called Regina Viarum, the queen of roads, is at present the oldest and most celebrated of all the highways laid down by the Romans. It linked the capital of the Caesars with all the important cities of Southern Italy, and was constructed, or partially constructed, under the Censor Appianus Claudius Cæcilius, in 312 B. C.

In view of the natural obstacles presented by the route, the cost of the enterprise must have been enormous. In a deep foundation from which all the loose soil had been cleared, were laid several strata strongly cemented, and above these was placed the pavement of large hexagonal blocks of basaltic lava, fitted together with such precision as to give the appearance of a smooth continuous surface. Next in importance to the roads of ancient Italy was the Flaminian Way, constructed by Flaminius in 220 B. C., linking Rome with Ariminum on the Adriatic. The Emperor Augustus repaired the Flaminian Way when in 27 B. C. he was appointing road surveyors for other highways.

A modern eye, used to Paved-ways, a Roman road would have appeared but a lane, though a well-laid lane. They were rarely broader than 16 feet, and often as narrow as 8 feet. Usually they had raised footpaths at the side, as in the case with all modern thoroughfares, and some blocks of pavement were so laid that the wheels of the heavy carts of the ancients could be driven on them. At Pompeii such stone pavements may still be seen intact; but from the fall of Rome up to the beginning of the 13th century, medieval cities were innocent of pavements and the art of road-making seems to have been lost. As late as 1628, the writer in the London Globe, the roads in the vicinity of London were so bad that in wet weather a carriage could not be driven from Kensington to St. James' in less than two hours, and it not infrequently foundered in the mud altogether.

AFTER EFFECTS OF LONG ILLNESS

Speedily Vanish When You Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Loren G. Ladd only found complete relief after using the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

LADD'S MILLS, Stanstead Co., Que., Jan. 13 (Special)—That the seeds of disease left in the body after an illness are sure to cause trouble is the experience of Loren G. Ladd, a well known young man in this community. Mr. Ladd has also learned that those seeds can be cleared out of the body and perfect health restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"At the age of six I had Scarlet Fever," Mr. Ladd states. "At twelve I had Typhoid Fever, and at fourteen I had Measles. About a year later I began to be troubled by swellings of the face feet and hands. The doctor told me I had Kidney trouble. He gave me medicine but the swellings continued to come at intervals of a week to a month.

"Two years ago one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills stopped the swellings. Last winter the swellings returned and again told me I had Kidney trouble. He gave me medicine but the swellings continued to come at intervals of a week to a month.

"Healthy Kidneys strain the seeds of disease out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys

PRIMITIVE LIFE IN EGYPT.

Egyptian village life is quaint and interesting. The houses are crude, one-story affairs of sun-baked mud, with possibly a couple of tiny square holes out in the wall for ventilation. Each home consists of a single room, absolutely devoid of furniture, save one or two drinking jars and cooking utensils being usually the only articles to be seen. The roofs of these hovels are thatched with sorn bundles of reeds, for some unaccountable reason, all the household rubbish is dumped on the roof. For this purpose a ladder may frequently be seen leaning against the side of the house. From a distance a village is apt to look like an immense rubbish heap, the roofs of the hovels being so high and so close together that the women folk spend most of the day squatting outside in the sun at the threshold of their homes—to which, by the way, the pigs and chickens have free access. At night the whole family sleeps on the hard earth floor of the wretched dwelling, except during the summer, when, it is said, they adjourn to the roof, sleeping peacefully amid the accumulation of rotten rubbish which is thrown there from time to time. A sanitary inspection would speedily die of overwork or a broken heart in one of these villages.

Red Rain.

Red rain is fairly common and in May, 1886, there was a heavy fall of blood-red hail in Castlewain, County Down, Ireland. The red hue was not merely on the surface. When one squeezed the pellets the fingers were deeply stained.

A remarkable red rain fell at The Hague in the year 1678. The low was in an uproar one morning upon finding lakes and ditches which had contained water overnight now full of "blood." A physician, however, took some of it from one of the canals, put it under his microscope and found that it was due to tiny red animals, all in a state of lively commotion. This however, by no means reassured the population, who thought such a prodigy no less awful than actual blood.—London Mirror.

Value of Statistics.

Even the most accurate of statistics may tell lies. The late Sir Wilfrid Lawson used to tell a story of a regiment stationed in India, whose monthly returns had been quoted as proof that local principles united their own for life in the tropics. The figures showed that fifty per cent. of the total abstinents in the regiment died within one year. They had, but the whole number had been only two, all told. The fifty per cent. had vanished through meeting a tiger, when, taking, unarmed, his morning walk on the edge of the jungle.—London Chronicle.

Something Coming to a Boy.

King Solomon's views on the training of the young are still publicly professed in Anglo-India, if we may judge from the following advertisement lately appearing in The Pioneer of Allahabad:

"Wanted, as nurse, a strong, God-fearing Scotch woman capable of teaching the children of the house a working knowledge of the business side—a slipper to look after a boy aged 5, who is endowed with a double dose of original sin. Apply, stating salary required, to L 304 Pioneer Press."

HOW BLOOD IS MADE.

The health and the digested foods in the alimentary canal pass through the wall of the small intestine. This process is called absorption and takes place chiefly from the small intestine. After absorption the blood carries the food through the body, and each cell takes from the blood the food it needs. A pure glyceric extract made from bloodroot, mandarin, stone, queen's root and golden seal and sold by druggists for the past forty years under the name of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, gives uniformly excellent results as a tonic to help in the assimilation of the food and in the absorption by the blood of the food it requires. Eradicates the poisons from the blood with this alternative extract which does not shrink the white blood corpuscles, because containing no alcohol or other injurious ingredients. Thus the body can be built up—strong to resist disease. This is a tonic taken from Nature's garden that builds up those weakened by disease. Dr. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel at Buffalo, N.Y., has received many letters similar to the following:

Mr. Frank E. Hiram, of Paradise, N. H., writes: "I take great pleasure in writing you my remarks on your case and the cure. In September I was taken with Typhoid Fever, which put me in a dreadful condition. I was weak, ran down, nervous and was reduced to a skeleton. I had tried more everything I could get but nothing did me any good until I had I was advised by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and 'Pleasant Pills,' which I did. Before I had used one bottle I saw a great improvement and when I had used this treatment two months, using only a few vials of 'Pleasant Pills,' I returned to perfect health. I cannot find words to express my thankfulness for this wonderful medicine. I advise all sufferers to write to Dr. E. V. Pierce, so he can cure when others fail."

A Magnificent Meeting of Ryerson is the New Confidence in B

There was a magnificent rally at the annual meeting of the South Brant Conservative Association last evening. City and County alike were splendidly represented, and confidence reigned supreme.

Mr. W. B. Seace occupied the chair in an able manner. He announced his withdrawal from the position, which he thought should be occupied only one year.

The Officers:

There were many nominations for the various offices, but finally the following were installed by acclamation:

President—Geo. H. Ryerson.
First Vice-President—Alex. McEwen.
Second Vice-President—William Charlton.
Secretary—A. W. Robinson.
Treasurer—L. A. Baird.
Auditors—Sam Seagle and J. C. Spence.

New President.

In retiring from the chair after a year of hard and unceasing work Mr. W. B. Seace in a few words congratulated the new president on his election to the presidency, stating that he felt sure that the new head of the Conservative Association of South Brant would be the best yet.

The new president, Mr. George H. Ryerson in a neat speech, accepted the most important office and started toward the good work shown by the previous holders of the post. Mr. Ryerson made a graphic appeal to the members of the Borden club for their cooperation in making the club membership reach the thousand mark, as the enthusiasm of the younger members had taught them that the young men of the country are the real power. The Conservative party was never so strong as at the present time and notwithstanding the fact that the four Brants were for many years represented by Liberal members, the present representatives of Brant County have done more for the county in the past few months than the Liberal members ever did. (Applause). The Conservative party fought and fought most successfully for Hydro-Electric Power and against reciprocity. He was sure that they were all proud of the record of the Borden government, and the national policy of the government had appealed to the feelings of the Canadian people. Mr. Ryerson concluded by wishing every one a happy new year.

Mr. W. S. Brewster, M.P.P. was the next speaker and his remarks which were brief, but to the point, were loudly applauded by those present. Mr. Brewster congratulated Mr. Ryerson on his election to the presidency, stating that the name of Ryerson was an honorable one in the county, city and party. Touching briefly on the new question, Mr. Brewster said he was aware that every one could not agree but he felt sure that every loyal Canadian, was in accord with the Borden's policy of supplying the Dreadnoughts to the Motherland. So far Canada had never contributed $1 to the defence of the Empire, but the time had come for us to do our part in helping the Old Land. The proposed expenditure of thirty-five millions can be paid out of the year's revenue and still leave a surplus.

TROUBLES NEVER COME SINGLY

The Fire Brigade had an other run at 8.45 last night. Mr. A. Quinlan and his son and daughter-in-law who reside on Alfred street were away at the time. Mrs. O'Neill, who met death recently in a house of mourning by falling off a chair while adjusting a curtain, was a sister of Mrs. Quinlan and they were at her late residence. The blaze started from a swinging gas jet which had fired to a door frame. It had a good start before being noticed and as it was a frame residence there was a merry blaze. The firemen finally subdued the trouble. The loss is between $300 and $500.

A brass cap was lost off one of the wheels of the horse wagon and the Chief would than anyone kind enough to return same.
