Curious Bits of News.

There is some talk of establishing women's college of matrimony, to be located in Chelsea, England, where the luties of a wife will become the subject duties of a wire will become the sudy. The curriculum will embrace not only the usual branches of housewifery, such as cooking, serving and laundry work, but is intended to deal with physiology and medicine as well.

English is the language of the Japanese Foreign Office, both in its interourse with foreign diplomatists and its telegraphic correspondence with its own representatives abroad. All telegrams from Tokyo to the foreign agents f Japan are written and ciphered in English, and the replies are in the same language. The "Yankees of the East" evidently want their Western ation in the original packages.

The so-called respiration of plants is a well-known botanical phenomenon. Now, if we may credit "La Science pour Tous," a Chilian botanist has discovered a plant that not only breathes, but also coughs and sneezes. "The least grain of dust that alights on the surface of one of its leaves will pro-voke a cough. The leaf becomes red and a spasmodic movement passes over it several times in succession, while it gives out a sound exactly like that of

"We now know that all the theses which the first class in Harvard College defended in 1642 are false," says Edward Everett Hale; "their astronomy was all wrong, their logic was all wrong, their metaphysics were all wrong, and their theology was all wrong." While we are priding ourselves upon the intellectual successes with which this century opens, it will be wholesome to reflect that the men of light and leading in 1642 were as sure that they had the right of things as we are to-day of our own science.

As a result of the Japanese Buddhist mission to America, instituted a year or so ago, a church called the "Dharma-Sangha of Buddha" has been established in San Francisco, with three branches in other Californian towns. In the San Francisco temple there is a membership of three hundred in the Young Men's Buddhist Association, mostly of Japanese. At an English service on Sundays twenty or more "Americans" are present, of whom eleven have already been converted to Buddhism, and have openly professed that they "take their refuge in Buddha, in his gospel and in his order." Rebecca Wampler, said to be a hundred years old, who died the other day in Dublin, Ind., had met with many accidents during her life. At the age of six years she fell from a picket fence and broke her finger. In 1852 she broke her ankle, in 1865 she fell down ellar and broke her collar-bone and three ribs, in 1885 in a runaway while returning from church she was thrown from a vehicle and her right hip brok-en, in 1688 she slipped and fell on the pavement, breaking her left hip; in 1892 she broke her left leg at the knee, in 1896 she fell from a tree, breaking her left arm; in 1898 she fell out of bed, breaking her right arm, and in 1900 she broke her right hip for the second time. The Baptist Church of Janesville, Wis., has established what is called a "Children's Church," the object of which is to give the parents of children an opportunity to attend hour the children who are too young to attend church service have a se vice of their own, conducted by the young women in the Sunday school rooms. They volunteer for the work, and a different committee takes charge of the little ones each Sunday. The babies are amused with dolls and play-things, while the work of interesting the older children is conducted along kindergarten lines. A large number of children attend, and the children's church is proving popular, many of the little ones being unwilling to leave when their mothern call for them at the close of church. Portable churches have followed the portable schoolhouse. The Dutch Re-formed Church of Pennsylvania is considering the advisability of adopting them in communities too poor and too thinly settled to afford a permanent house of worship. The buildings are made of corrugated, galvanized iron fastened to a wooden framework. The inside is sheathed with matched boards, between which and the iron walls is a light of the control of the walls is a lining of heavy felt, which keeps the building warm in winter and cool in the summer. Each piece is so marked and the whole so planned that any ordinary mechanic can put the building together. Such a church, with a seating capacity of three hundred, can be built for fifteen hundred dollars. The portable church, however, is not an automobile. It is like other churches in that it will not "go" unless people pull together.

The Restlessness of Women.

N the July "Cosmopolitan" Ella Wheeler Wilcox, with characteristic force and directness, deals with what she regards as a very serious and growing evil now prevalent among her sex in this country, at least among those who belong to the well-to-do and upper classes of society. She says:

"One who studies American womanhood with any care must be alarmed at the growing restlessness of the sex.
"My mountain of mail is often a volof seething unrest. It seems a relief to many women—women, doubt-less, whom the world supposes to be happy wives and mothers-to write to one they believe to be sympathetic, of the discontent that surges in their hearts. "To turn from these letters to a so cial function is to encounter the same elements in another form. Beneath jeweled corsages beat restless hearts; from under the flower-laden brims of the modish hats look unhappy eyes gazing out into the world with longing for an indefinable something—a happi-ness imagined but unattained. "While I believe the tendency of humanity is constantly upward toward a higher plane, it is an indisputable fact that this restlessness of woman is a giant evil, and one of serious growth." Mrs. Wilcox says it is puzzling trace this great wave of feminine restness to its source. She speaks of the present false standards of wealth, desire for splendid social station, and for villas at the seaside and cas-tles in Europe, but closes by saying that "after all, a lack of good, everycommon sense 's at the bottom of" While this restlessness is baleful sign of the times, rendered all the more mischievous by the almost equal restlessness of men, it is com-forting to reflect that there is a largea very large-class of women who have and who use constantly good, everyday common sense. But of course they do not belong to that growing class of women who desire to lead in society, and who dream of villas, castles and () 本理社会等发展 foreign titles.

Dr. Agnew's Ointment will re lieve and cure any skin dis ease just as surely as it cured this soldier's Erysipelas—the first application kills the "sting."

Lieut. Bucknam, National Soldiers' Home, in Grant County, Indiana, had a very acute attack of Erysipelas. His face and head were in torment with burning and itching sensations. A druggist recommended Dr. Agnew's Ointment as the quickest relief and cure. He bought a box and found it as good as it promised, and a few applications, to use his own words, "put out the fire and less than a box entirely cured me." Price 35 cts.
