Shooting at a Ghost.
A private in the Coldstream Guards was sentenced to three days' confinement to barracks at Windsor, England, for firing without proper cause.
He was on sentry on the east terrace of Windsor Castle early in the morning, when, he stated, he saw a man climb the terrace steps and advance towards him.
The sentry challenged the man, and receiving no reply, fired the five rounds of ball cartridge with which he had been supplied. He did not hit anybody. The castle guard turned out and the sentry was placed under arrest, and was taken before the commanding officer.
It is popularly supposed in Windsor that the man thought he saw a ghost.

Truly Rural.
The seventeen-year-old daughter of a certain Wall street man recently visited for the first time the fine farm in Dutchess county for the past year owned by her father. The girl immediately became greatly interested in the prize cattle that are the special pride of her parent, and she asked many questions relative to their breeding, etc.
One evening just at dusk as the girl was standing on the veranda of the farmhouse talking to the manager there came the low, mournful note of a cow.
"Just listen to that poor cow said the girl to the manager, 'mewing for her colt.'"—Harper's Weekly.

He was surprised at how the sores healed—I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of medicines, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itches of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 3 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any blood disease had returned. I am now sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish.

THE VESUVIUS TERROR

Added to by the Collapse of the Market at Naples.

Twelve Dead and Over 100 Seriously Injured—Gay Spectacle in Market Place Suddenly Turned Into Scene of Horror—Volcanic Disturbances on the Increase—Fate of Children in Doubt—Brave Soldiers.

Naples, April 11.—As a result of the terrible collapse of the Mount Oliveto market yesterday morning 12 are dead, 24 are mortally wounded, and over 100 are seriously injured.
When morning broke yesterday, the outlook was promising for an amelioration of the conditions consequent upon the activity of Mount Vesuvius. The hopefulness of the populace, however, was short-lived, and the Neapolitans were plunged into a condition bordering on frenzy by the collapse of the Mount Oliveto market, from the weight of cinders from Mount Vesuvius.

From Life to Death.
The courtyard covers 100 feet square and was roofed. The space within was unusually crowded with buyers and their children, the accident happening at the hour of the day when trade is liveliest. Displays of flowers, fruits and vegetable, contended for buyers, while market-women screamed their wares and joked with their customers. Little children played about the stands, adding gaiety to the scene, the line of which was not to be witnessed outside of Naples.
Suddenly, with scarcely a tremor of warning, there was a terrifying crash and the brilliant sight disappeared in a cloud of dust, while shrieks of agony rent the air.

Identification Impossible.
The identification of the bodies of a number of those killed by the collapse of the market roof was found to be impossible, owing to their being absolutely unrecognizable, in some cases being reduced to pulp, while others were horribly mutilated, giving rise to scenes which are better undescribed. Among the dead are many children who had been sent by their parents to do the morning's marketing.

Indignation of the people as a result of the disaster increased as each additional body was taken out, and disturbances approaching a riot in importance occurred. The people loudly insisted that the authorities were aware that the roof of the market was unsafe, and that they were so aggressively economical that they would not appropriate the funds necessary to repair the building.
Terrifying news reached the city yesterday morning from points throughout the district surrounding Ottajano. The reports indicate that an enormous number of bodies had been buried beneath ashes and cinders. The present disaster is looked upon as a repetition of the catastrophes to Pompeii and Herculaneum, except in this instance the loss of life is less.

Efforts on the part of the press representatives and the authorities to ascertain the exact number of those who have already fallen victims to the eruptions of Vesuvius are almost fruitless, from the fact that the buried villages are impossible of access, and, further, because the people who fled when their houses began to fall have scattered throughout the country districts.

Fate of Children Unknown.
The fate of many children at Ottajano is unknown. When the military carts arrived at the scene of the disaster Monday night the soldiers arranged to have the children, and aged people, get into the carts, but when the vehicles had gone a few hundred feet it was found that, although there were four horses harnessed to each wagon, they could not pull their loads through the deep ashes. This caused a panic among the children, who expected to be buried in the ashes from the volcano, and they fled in all directions in the darkness and blinding rain, and have not since been heard of.
Several lads in Boscoreale, who were unharmed when the danger following the eruptions of Mount Vesuvius seemed most imminent, subsequently ventured to which the cooling lava. They went too far and the crust broke under their weight. They were swallowed up before the helpless onlookers. Lava Flows Again.

The flow of lava from the volcano which had ceased during the night, recommenced early today, and the fall of volcanic ejecta in the Vesuvian communes has been enormous. It is feared that the weight of ashes on roofs will cause the collapse of many more buildings, both here and in the towns and villages near the volcano.

Director Matteucci, who continues at his post in the observatory, telegraphed last night that the volcano was generally calm Monday night, with occasional sharp explosions, these becoming more violent towards morning. Director Matteucci says his seismic instruments indicate great subterranean agitation.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena have forwarded to Premier Sonnino, who is here, $20,000 to be applied towards the relief of the sufferers by the volcano.
Finding the Victims.
The scenes at Ottajano when the first victims were unearthed there were most horrible. The positions of the bodies showed that the victims had died while in a state of great terror, the faces being convulsed with fear. Many tales are told of heroic rescues on the part of the soldiers sent to the assistance of the sufferers at Ottajano and elsewhere. One man rode his horse through the ashes, reaching up to its flanks, at Ottajano, calling out, "Who wants help? Who wants help?" He was rewarded by hearing a woman's voice reply in weak tones, and, springing from his horse, found her in a ruined house, with three children dead beside her. The soldier picked the woman up in his arms and carried her to a place of safety, where it was found that both her legs were broken and that she had been badly crushed about the body.
The number of dead taken from the church at San Giuseppe, which collapsed Monday, while a congregation of about 200 persons were attending mass, is 26. There were 79 severely injured.
