FROM SELLER TO BUYER

Christ Triumphant

O'er Judean plain, where watchful shepherds keep
Unceasing vigil o'er God's trusting sheep,
A rosy glow of golden promise breaks;
And Earth's acclaim to joyous anthem wakes;
While hearts attuned to angel's natal song,
In rapture hail again the Heavenly throng.

Again the Heaven-wise seers behold His star,
And westward following, tireless, from afar,
Rich gifts of myrrh and incense gladly bring,
To hail the reappearing of their King.
Again Love's single impulse leads God's own
The Might of Christian Science to enthroned.

And Herod ("carnal mind," in subtle pose),
Failing, in purblind self-will, to disclose
The Christ-child (Spirit-born), to sensuous gaze—
Headless love's pleading—, ruthless slays
Each new-born hope, and, with consternation bows
Wherever Christian dares his sway oppose.

Each cloistering home, his edict would imbue—
Compelling Church and State his will to do—;
Unholy Fear implanting far and wide—
Faith's holy impulse 'e'en its healing calm denied.
Sated, his envious lust of greed and power,
If sensuous will Love's Offspring shall devour.

But see! The glorious dawn. Aglow, the plain.
Sweeter and clearer still the glad refrain:
The low-hung, sullen, clouds, athwart the night,
Give way like billowy gold anent the Light.
No mortal edict dark can stay the Orb of Day,
Nor 'gainst the rule of Love, divine, inveigh.

Now do the sons of God, in joy attend—
The Sacred Word, for unclean hands defend—
And lifting high His Standard, 'bove the cloud,
Find healing calm—in-dwelling reign of God.
A present Savior risen above Earth's din
Of creed and dogma, and vaunting claims of sin.

No work of God can "carnal mind" destroy,
Though subtle guise of "wisdom" sin employ:
And subtler mask of "human weel" may claim,
While using sensuous will—power in His name.
No poisoned potion—human will condoned—
May match the Holy Word,—the Christ, enthroned.

—Chas. S. Van Auker.
