It isn't worth while to fret, dear, To walk as behind a hearse, No matter how vexing things may be, They easily might be worse:

And the time you spent complaining
And groaning about the load,
Would better be given to geing on, And pressing along the road

I've trodden the hill myself, dear, "Tis the tripping tongue can preach, But though silence is sometimes golden, child And I see, from my higher level,
"Tis less the path than the pace
That wearies the back, and dims the eye,

There are vexing cares enough, dear, And love must mourn its losses,
And the cheeks soft bloom grow old But the spell of the craven spirit Turns blessings into curse, While the bold heart meets the trouble

So smile at each disaster That will presently pass away.

And believe a bright to-morrow

Will follow the dark day to-day. There's nothing gained by fretting Gather your strength anew, And step by step go onward, dear, Let the sky be grey or blue.

MILE AS MEDICINE. - Milk is one of MILK AS MEDICINE.—Milk is one of the best medicines in the pharmacopoeia or out of it. Beef tea 'rarely contains more than a fourth of the nutriment of milk, and raw beef juice is only equal to it in the nutritive scale. In disease of the patient finds it too heavy, lime, soda, er patass water may be added, or he may take skim milk, which is deprived of the fat, of whey, which has no curd, and is very easily absorbed. In consumption, milk is an essential article of diet, and in Bright's disease it forms an important part of the treatment. In fact,

The father of the best disciplined boy the writer has ever seen says: "I never struck the little fellow, and should hate very much to see any one else strike him. I want him to feel that I am the best friend he has, and yet that he must mind instantly because we are good friends. I think children are nagged at top much, and told not to do too many things. If they disobey in some trifling thing nothing is said, and so they learn disobedience. A shild should be made to obey every command, the small and the great alike, but should not receive good offense, or for the assumption that they are uncivil, when they do not mean to be guilty of such an offense. Such persons are usually understood and excited hy their intimate acquaintances, but it is misfortune to yield to the habit of even apparent rudeness. Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMI-TATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the Head has irportant part of the treatment. In fact, we may almost say with the country minister, who took it as an injunct to chicken grill, "Milk's guid wi' a things" the remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the Head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it.
