Bad Days.

The greatest poets had their days when they wrote punk and painful lays. In vain their lyres they'd wildly jerk; the old adage wouldn't work. I often read the stately bards, and they though loaded to the guards with inspiration, smoking hot, quite frequently would turn out rot. A Shakespeare had his balky times, when it was hard to dig up rhymes. A Milton often walked the floor, and beat his head against the door, and tried his best to toot his lute, which wouldn't answer, worth a hoot. But when a man is labeled great, this thing will not his fame abate. The worse he writes, the more the crowd will say how richly he's endowed; they'll take his halting, bad-day rhyme, and show just why it is sublime. When Browning had an evil day, he'd often write a crazy lay, that had no sense, and he'd confess that what it meant he couldn't guess. And Browning fans would organize, and try to look profound and wise, and wrestle with each dippy line, and call it noble and divine. Which filled the gifted Bob with mirth, while he was dwelling on this earth.

Weak, Nervous Children Quickly Gain Strength Under Following Plan

Nervousness, just like weakness, is a family predisposition. We inherit tendencies to disease just as we inherit physical resemblances. The strain of study, social duties, work at home—these all tend to make nervous troubles among children. No wonder that St. Vitus Dance, Epilepsy, and constant headaches have become alarmingly common. Pale, nervous, listless young people are met everywhere.

It is nothing short of criminal for parents to neglect signs of weakness in their children. By ignoring the slightest symptom of nervous or mental strain, you may condemn your child to life-long invalidism. If any member of your family complains of headaches, fear of going into dark places, give them that wonderful tonic, "Ferrozone." Strength of body and mind, hardy nerves, ability to study with comfort, all the attributes of health quickly follow the use of Ferrozone. It establishes strength, color, endurance, vim—does this by filling the whole system with nourishment and tissue-forming materials. It's because we know the enormous good that Ferrozone will do, because we are sure every child and even grown folks, will be permanently benefited, that we urge you to give it a trial. All dealers sell Ferrozone in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50, or direct by mail from The Catarhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Obituary.

MR. MICHAEL O'CONNOR.
After a brief but severe illness, the death occurred on Saturday afternoon of Michael O'Connor, printer, at his late residence in William Street. Deceased, who was one of the eye of the allotted span of life, was virtually the oldest printer in Newfoundland, and was in harness up to a few weeks before his death. He was a member of the staff of the Evening Telegram for more than 20 years past. In his early days he held the positions of foreman of the "North Star," "Mercury" and "Herald." Michael O'Connor was a genial soul, highly respected and esteemed, particularly for his strong religious principles. He is survived by three daughters, to whom we extend our deepest sympathy.

Powerful Discourses

BY MISSION FATHERS.
Two orators were heard at the R. C. Cathedral yesterday. At 11 a.m. Rev. Fr. Conway sang a Mass. Cantata and Rev. Fr. Lynch, of the Vincentian Order, preached an able and powerful discourse, appropriate to the penitential season. During Vespers last evening an oration, as eloquent as it was powerful and convincing, was heard, delivered by Rev. Fr. Conroy, also a Vincentian missionary, who took for his text: "I must work the works of Him that sent me." Rev. Dr. Greene imparted Benediction.

Hockey Notes.

Some of the "has-beens" were at the Prince's Rink Saturday night trying to get in trim to meet the "presents." The "old fellows" have lost none of their classical stunts and the opinion of the fans is that they will put it all over the "youngsters." The League game set down for this evening between the Pelidians and Victorias will not come off, we are given to understand, until to-morrow evening. The postponement is asked for at the request of the Vics.

RESERVISTS GET INDEFINITE EXTENSION OF LEAVE.—Upwards of one hundred Royal Naval Reservists, who returned on furlough shortly after the commencing of the year, and whose leave has since been extended, were notified by wire yesterday that they were not to report till called on.

The announcement from army headquarters this evening says no important events are reported.

SUNK BY COLLISION.
LONDON, Feb. 25.
The Norwegian steamer Geira, 961 tons, has been sunk in collision with another Norwegian steamer, according to Lloyds. The second vessel proceeded on her voyage with fifteen members of the Geira's crew.

A GERMAN CONFERENCE.
LONDON, Feb. 25.
The German Chancellor, Bethmann-Hollweg, is reported by the Exchange Telegraph's correspondent at Copenhagen to have invited ambassadors and ministers of neutral countries to a conference yesterday at the Foreign Office, in which Foreign Secretary Zimmerman took part.

NAVAL ENGAGEMENT REVIVED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.
According to an officer in the British naval reserve who arrived in New York to-day from St. Lucia, the German raider Vineta was sunk four weeks ago by the British cruiser Glasgow, following a fight between the German ships Vineta and St. Theodore and the cruiser Amethyst off the Island of Fernando De Nerenha, 125 miles from the coast of Brazil. The report was given him by an officer of the Glasgow who said that there were three vessels cruising in company when the Amethyst approached and only two appeared to take part in the fight. The third vessel did not fire but sheered off. The smaller of the raiders, probably the St. Theodore, was reported by the officers of the Amethyst to have been in a sinking condition when night fell and hid the vessels from the view of the cruiser. After getting a wireless report from the Amethyst describing the direction in which the raiders were steering, the captain of the Glasgow went after them steaming twenty-two knots to the sixteen knots speed of the Vineta which he overhauled in the morning of January 25th when the weather was clear and calm. The account given to me of the fight between the raider and the Glasgow, the naval reserve officer said, that firing commenced at a range of seven miles or more and the cruiser outranged the Vineta for a time with her six inch guns. Later the two vessels got close together and firing grew hotter on both sides as the raider had two big guns forward. The Vineta being unarmed the shells of the Glasgow smashed through her hull as if it were matchwood. She soon began to collapse and was on the point of foundering when a shell from one of the Glasgow's six inch guns hit her magazine and she blew up with a report that was heard many miles away and caused the rumor that a naval engagement had taken place off the Brazilian coast considerably further north than Fernando De Nerenha. I was also informed that the Vineta had been destroyed with all her crew and that no one had been saved from the raider. Incidentally I heard at St. Lucia that the Admiralty in London had cabled to Rear-Admiral Montague Trawling, in command of the Naval station at Bermuda, to relieve the captain of the Glasgow and send him to London to give a description of the fight with the Vineta. The reports of the naval encounter off Cartagena, Spain, on Sunday between armed merchant vessels and German submarines have been fully confirmed according to a despatch to Prenza from Barcelona, filed on Tuesday and received to-day. The engagement began at 8 o'clock in the morning less than eight miles from the coast, between six or seven submarines and nine armed merchantmen, mostly flying neutral flags, and was so near Cartagena that residents there observed the battle from the house tops by the means of binoculars. When the submarines first began firing the merchant vessels attempted to approach the land, but were cut off from refuge by an encircling movement by the Germans. With escape made impossible the commanders of the merchantmen began firing with their light guns. It was estimated that at least six hundred shots were fired by both sides. The Swedish steamship Skogland was the first vessel sunk by the submarines which then sank the Gulseppe. The submarines then centered their attention on the British steamship Janeta. The latter vessel probably would have been worried in the unequal battle but for the approach of five or six British destroyers rushing towards the scene at full speed. The submarines fired about 20 shots at the destroyers before they submerged and fled in the midst of a fusillade from the latter's rapid firing guns. One submarine was said to have been sunk. All the merchant ships in addition to the two sunk were more or less damaged; they proceeded to Marseilles and Gibraltar under the protection of the destroyers.

ARMY AND NAVY ESTIMATES.

LONDON, Feb. 23.
The army estimates issued to-day provide for an army of 5,000,000 men, exclusive of India, and the additional navy estimate calls for 50,000 officers and men, bringing the total of the navy personnel up to 450,000.

BRITISH-DUTCH DIFFERENCE.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 24.
The stoppage of a considerable number of neutral sailings to British and Allied ports has raised an issue between Great Britain and Holland, according to the Gazette De Holland. The paper says we can hardly expect Great Britain to rest content while Germany secures such advantages by illegal threats and pressure. Great Britain has made counter demands amounting to a compulsory resumption of traffic with herself. The situation can only be temporary. Dutch shipping must be resumed in due course, as the nation's life depends on its overseas commerce. Dutch merchants are sensible to the loss that would accrue if connection with Great Britain was more or less severed, but it is the one thing for a fleet of British merchantmen to cross the North Sea with a convoy of destroyers and another for Dutch ships to cross alone and unarmed. Both countries have large interests in solving the problem set by German ruthlessness and the solution will not be found in hasty demands and angry words.

Had Chronic Indigestion Thought She Would Die.

After Years of Suffering Attributes Cure to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
Eating too much or using foods that do not agree are the usual causes of indigestion. The trouble usually begins not in the stomach, but in the liver, since it devolves on this organ to filter the excess waste matter from the system. Now, since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest of liver regulators, it naturally follows that they are unexcelled as a cure for chronic indigestion. With the liver, kidneys and bowels active the poisonous waste matter is quickly removed from the system and there is nothing to interfere with the natural and healthful working of the organs of digestion. In this way only can lasting cure be effected. Mrs. Rebecca Elliott, Magnetawan, Ont., writes:—"I feel it my duty to write you in regard to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had gastritis of the stomach for three years, and could get nothing to stop it until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I would have an attack of this trouble with my stomach every three or four weeks, and was so bad at times that my friends thought I would surely die. Thanks to these pills, I have not had an attack for six months, and believe that the cure is thorough. My husband has had very satisfactory experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. He was much run down, and very pale and weak. I persuaded him to use the Nerve Food, and after having taken five boxes he looks and feels real well. It is such experiences as these that have made a place for Dr. Chase's medicines in the great majority of homes. They do not fail, even in the most complicated cases. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box. 6 for $2.50. All dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
