The Peasant Girl Who Became an Empress.

Few women in history have so deeply engraved their name on the roll of fame as Martha Robe, the Swedish peasant girl, who rose from the very humblest rank of life to the great and dazzling splendor of a throne; from abject poverty to the dignity and all-powerful position of wife to Peter the Great, the Czar of all the Russias. Her childhood was a pitiful record of suffering. Born November 21, 1671, her father died three months previous to her birth, and her grief stricken mother was left without any means of support. At the age of twelve Martha began to show promise of developing into a superb and perfect beauty, and there were indications that she would be possessed of a brilliant intellect. An old Lutheran clergyman took her into his family as nurse, and instructed her in the higher branches of education. By the time she was sixteen she had become an exquisitely beautiful woman. About this time Sweden was plunged into war and Marienburg was filled with troops. She fell in love with a handsome young private, and married him, but in less than a year she found herself a widow. The Russians then entered Marienburg, and the Russian Commander, General Bauer, struck by her peerless beauty, offered her safe escort from Marienburg to Moscow. The general provided himself a true friend indeed, and through his influence she became a guest in the house of Prince Menchikov, the Czar's most powerful minister. Peter the Great soon learned of the existence of Martha, and her great beauty, and, out of curiosity, sought a meeting. The mighty ruler of all the Russias was enchanted, and Martha realized at once that the Emperor had become her slave. She seized her chance, joined the Greek Church, of which the Czar was the nominal head, and slowly and skillfully cleared away all difficulties that it was likely the State might raise. The result was that finally Peter led her to the altar where they were legally married, according to the rites of the Greek Church. At the end of four years Peter raised her to his throne, the coronation ceremony being one of the most gorgeous in the whole history of Russia. Thus on the early age of thirty-five, the wait-child of Marienburg was proclaimed absolute ruler of all the Russias, and she who had cried in the streets for bread became known in history as Catherine the Great.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DANDRUFF.

Pat's Strategy.

An Irishman had to go to law and in consultation with his counsel he was told that he had a good fighting chance. Paddy, who was anxious to win the case, was meditative for a moment, then he said: "Do you think it would be any good to send the judge a pair of ducks?" "No, no, you mustn't do that," said the lawyer. "If you send him a pair of ducks he will be sure to decide the case against you." A day or so later the case was heard and Paddy won with flying colours. In the course of the congratulations, Paddy remarked: "It was just as well I sent the judge them ducks." "What!" exclaimed the lawyer, "did you send the ducks?" "Yes," said Paddy quite pleased with himself, "but after what you said I sent them from the man on the other side."

In a Nutshell.

Like the sun, the modern gas flame warms solid objects—such as the furniture of a room or its occupants—without appreciably raising the temperature of the intervening air. At the same time the products of combustion in their passage up the chimney flue keep the atmosphere in healthy motion. That is gas fire science and gas fire hygiene in a nutshell.
