Rev. Alphonse Bellesheim, Canon of Alx-Ia-Chapelle Cathedral, in his little known "History of the Catholic Church in Ireland," published at Magence in 1890, recalls the story of a famous Irish Bishop of other days who ruled over an Austrian Sec. It runs as follows:

Memorles of the Hungarian Church are awakened by the name of Bishop Walter Lynch of Clonfut. He was born in Galway, received his theological education in the Irish College at Lisbon, was at the ead of a higher school at Limeted for several years in spite of persecution, after which he went of the University of Paris, where so obtained the degree of Doctory of the University of Paris, where so obtained the degree of Doctory of Paris, where so obtained the degree of Doctory he attracted universal attention on account of his pulpit discourses. "He is learned," thus Rinucini depicts him, "a splendid pulpit orator, active and induential, an enthusiastic defender of the Catholic cause, and desired and recommended by many among the regular clergy and also by laymen for the bishopric." His lova for science induced him to college, and extensive library, which, the was a spiritual father to his flock for five years only. In actier written on the Sist of August 1622, he describes his trais to Innesont X. After the taking of Galway he she would have fallen to the first of the summent of the sand of Innishodic Here he would have fallen to the first of Lynch where he still resided at that title. Here he would have fallen to coval fleet landed there with grain, being afterwards followed by two frigates of the Duke of Lorr-inc, bearing armunition. The annual report of the Prison Commissioners for Scotland for last year discloses rather an appailing prospect. It shows that while the number of convicts having sentences of three years and upwards has decreased, the number of ordinary prisoners has greatly increased, amounting to no less than 33,264, which shows a rise of 6,703, or more than 12 per cent, as compared with the average of the five years than 12 per cent, as compared with the average has risen that the same time more than 13 per cent, as compared with the average has risen that the same time more than 13 per cent, as compared to the control of the

A Pleasant Forecast.

Mere money cannot wake warm love, That slumbers oft belated In these sad days, nor millions move Two hearts once sweetly mated.

My Lady flaunts in sliken gown, Or paints, it little matters. True love will go in russet blown To court true love in tatters.

Not sliken sheen nor prudent paint, Nor modish styles of fashion, Nor all the virtues of a saint, Can stir one spark of passion.

Mistress or maid—what matters it?
As mistress so the maid is.
Blue blood and birth count not a whit
Where love the only trade is.

One woman with another vies ('Tis so throughout all ages); One at a marquis casts her eyes, Another at his pages.

But if his lordship should prefer
The meaner rustic beauty,
And if his looks should light on her,
What hinders love? Not duty.

The difference 'twixt that haughty

dame,

Tom every ill exempted,

And that poor girl without a name,

1s this—that one was tempted.
