BIG DECLINE IN VISIBLE WHEAT

TUESDAY MORNING

Reports From Argentina Indicate That Wet Weather is Retarding Harvesting.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 .- Wheat rose in price today, influenced to some extent by decrease in the visible supply. Closing figures were steady, at 1/3c to 1/4c net advance. Other grain showed a decline compared with Saturday night—corn %c to %c, and oats a shade to %c. In progain.
Special attention by wheat speculators was given to the visible supply, as the decrease of 217,000 bushels made a decided contrast with 3,334,000 bushels enlargement at the corresponding time twelve months back. The total is now only 4,500,000 bushels more than last year's aggregate. It was also pointed out that the Canadian visible had fallen off and had become smaller than last year's aggregate. available store.

Argentine Harvesting Checked. Argentine Harvesting Checked.

Excessive moisture in Argentine, where harvesting is in progress, gave wheat bulls the advantage from the start. It was said the yield was disappointing, and that black rust was on the spread, Sales of hard winter grades here to exporters tended likewise to discourage attempts in the direction of forcing a down-turn Rumors were current, too, that millers were liberal buyers.

Corn ranged lower, on account of larger prospective receipts here. Fine weather was predicted, and advices from Missouri River centres told of free marketing by farmers, Oats suffered owing to reports of heavy Canadian shipments on the way to Chicago. Trading, however, was of scanty volume.

Judging from the large number of entries that have been and are being made in the different classes, the fat stock show to be held on the 6th and 7th of December at the Union Stock Yards will collipse anything hitherto held in the Dominion. The judging will be done on Saturday, and the selling on Monday, giving those who cannot go to see them on either of these days a chance to see them on Sunday, as there is no charge made to see them. Go and see the winners.
