FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT PROFITS

THE GROWING OF GRAPEFRUIT is an honored and honorable enterprise, less hazardous than mining, more profitable than a profession. It offers you independence, old-age insurance, and is a valuable legacy to one's family, assuring them a large Annual Income.

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT GROVES are not speculative and do not entail more risk than any other form of agriculture, while the returns are much greater. During the past winter the fruit growers in the small town of Winter Haven (only 2,000 population), near Lakeland Highlands, received over $2,000,000.00 net profit for the season's crop, after deducting the cost of picking, packing, shipping and marketing. Many of the grove owners realizing as high as $1,000 per acre net profit on their fruit. Our Company conservatively estimates the profits on a basis of only $5 per tree, or $240 per acre net profit, which is only one-fourth of the maximum returns on good groves. Even $5 per tree will net 40% on the investment.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF INDIVIDUAL PROFITS at Lakeland and Lakeland Highlands: The Swinkell Grove, thirty acres; fruit sold on the trees last season for $15,000; the buyer is said to have paid $10,000—$5,000 was refused for the crop this year. The Seward Lake Grove, fifteen acres; fruit sold on trees this season for $10,000. The Schmidt Grove, four and one-half acres, only 319 trees; gross return last season was $2,000. The Palmer Grove, four acres, brought total return of $17,100 two years ago, and $18,400 last year, clear of all picking expenses. There is only a few instances, showing the profits made. I will gladly give names and particulars of many others who have done well as well. YOU ARE INVITED TO JOIN my personally conducted party leaving Toronto on November 14th. If you join us, you will be entertained at Lakeland Highlands Country Club while making your investigation. Call or write for full particulars.

BASIS FOR MOTHERS' ALLOWANCES BILL

and for a period of two years previous; that the family must continue to reside in Ontario while in receipt of allowance.

That the mother and dependent children do not own property valued at more than $2,000; that they do not own more than $500 cash or securities convertible into cash, other than household goods; and that the children are dependent upon the mother for support and that their condition is such that they will not be properly provided for without government aid.

As to the amount of the allowance the commissioner states that this should be determined in each case by the commission after receiving the recommendation of their investigators.

Share Financial Burden
Dr. Riddell recommends that half of the cost of paying the allowances should be borne by the province, and half by the county in which those in receipt of assistance reside. Amplifying this recommendation, he suggests that the administration of the act be carried by a provincial commission, or five members appointed by the lieutenant-governor in council, two of the number being women.

It is pointed out by the commissioner that his recommendations show a certain conservatism, as he eliminated from those who should be paid allowances, all classes of mothers but three; all families with only one child; all children over 14 years of age; all non-British families. The reason for this conservatism," he states, "is that we believe a sound foundation, well laid, is the best assurance of a really adequate administration, after some experience recommendations will doubtless be forthcoming which will lead toward more liberal application of the fund. Ultimately, when experienced workers are assured, we believe strongly that such flexibility is desirable."

Dr. Riddell refers to his instructions to hold an investigation, the general process of which included communication with the various countries, states and provinces where such legislation was already in force in order to secure facts. Those inquiries brought information from 23 states of America, from Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan. In order that there might be no duplication of effort the pensions
