KITCHENER'S ENERGY.

The Sirdar Has Been Astonishing London People.

WANTED 500,000 DOLLARS

And Lost No Time in Getting to Work to Secure It.

Has Got Over Half the Amount Needed Already for the Gordon Memorial College—He Tackled Bankers and Merchants, Actors and Society Men—Told Them He Wanted Money, and He Has Got It.

London, Dec. 4.—Lord Kitchener has been astonishing London this week by an exhibition of the most extraordinary energy on behalf of his pet project, the founding of a Gordon memorial college at Khartoum.

On Tuesday he said he wanted $500,000 for carrying out the scheme. Being a man of action, he immediately started out to get it. He spent days and nights addressing all sorts of gatherings, from bankers, brokers and merchants in the city, to actors and society men in the West End. Every where he has stated frankly and plainly that he wanted money, and he has got it.

On to-day considerably more than half the sum required has been subscribed, and the fund is still growing.

So great is the enthusiasm that it is not hard to believe the sum asked for will be made up many times over.

As one Londoner put it, the appeal so far has only been made to the wealthy classes for their pounds. Wait till the poor are asked for their shillings.

Some of the Subscribers.
Among the subscribers are William Waldorf Astor £5000, Lord Rosebery £1000, Col. Gouraud £1000, J. S. Morgan & Co. £1000, Sir Thomas Linton £500 and Cecil Rhodes £500.

An amusing feature of the contribution is that £500 of the money came from Ernest Terah Hooley, the bankrupt promoter, who had such a startling experience with "Guineapigs."

Lord Kitchener, on being pressed to write an account of his campaign, replied: "No, let us have at least one general who has not written a book." He sits at his desk to-day writing his memoirs in a book to be called "Caton Woodville for his portrait in a painting of the memorial service held in Khartoum, on the spot where Gordon was murdered, which the Queen has commissioned. He then returns to Khartoum to hunt for the Mahdi's treasure, which is understood to be buried somewhere in the vicinity of the city.

When the memorial college is established and in working order, the children of scholars will be taught English and such elementary subjects as geography. Later on, other classes will be admitted and technical education will be included in the curriculum.

The Grumblers, of Course.
Of course, there is the inevitable outcry from a section of Englishmen that the college must be made dogmatically Christian, but in the Sudan, as in India, England's first business will be to make good Mohammedans and not bad Christians. Some even boldly urge that the new college be purely a Mohammedan university, or, at any rate, a college of the great Mohammedan university, which one day may have its seat in Cairo or India.

TRAINWRECKING IN ENGLAND.
Many Bold Attempts, Which Happily Failed of Their Purpose.

London, Dec. 4.—The train-wrecking mania seems alarmingly on the increase in England. Dozens of attempts have been made lately, though fortunately they have been unsuccessful. The perpetrators seem to be organized, as from all parts of the Kingdom come stories of obstacles being found on railroads. Last week's royal train had a narrow escape. Last week the most sensational case occurred near Marchmont, Wales. A heavy lorry, or flat car, was taken from a shed and placed across the line at a most dangerous curve. The railway men, who fortunately discovered it, had great difficulty in removing it, so firmly was the car fixed. They had just succeeded in removing the obstruction when the express flew past.

SHOT IN ROSSLAND.
John Kirkland of Geolph Township the Victim of a Wrathful Neighbor.

Geolph, Dec. 4.—John Morris, Geolph Township, has received word stating that John Kirkland, a former resident of the same township, had been shot dead in Rossland, B.C., by an irate neighbor, about two weeks ago.

Deceased was well known in the city and surrounding townships. He was a powerfully built, athletic fellow, and a genial, good-hearted man. He sold his farm to John Morris last spring, and went to Rossland in company with his wife, who kept house for him until the time of his death. He was about 35 years old.

The letter received by Mr. Morris states that the sister is on her way home.

MAD MULLAH MOVEMENT.

March Checked by the British Troops

London, Dec. 4.—Assant news from the Indian frontier, the "Mad Mullah" is again on the warpath, has caused considerable apprehension among the Indian authorities, though the latest advices show that his victorious march has been partly checked by the friendly Khan of Robat, who by a timely snipe has saved the British lines of communication with the garrison at Chitral, which the Mad Mullah endeavored to cut. The fanatical movement, however, has taken a strong hold among the Gwatis, and there is a prospect of another "little frontier war." A British force of nearly seven thousand men is now held in readiness for movement to the front. The followers of the Mullah are variously estimated to number from three thousand to six thousand, and their numbers are growing daily. The outcome of the rising will probably be an effective British occupation of the whole of the Swat valley and another big hole in the Indian budget.

FASHODA AFFAIR SETTLED.

France Has Gracefully Backed Down, as Practically Admitted by Her Foreign Minister.

Paris, Dec. 4.—M. Delcasse, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the course of conversation the other day, admitted that Major Marchand had been ordered to retire from Fashoda by a long and tortuous route, because the French Government was afraid he would be made too much of should he return to France within six months. Marchand, it seems, is too terribly in earnest and too vain or too simple to understand that he is only a subordinate officer in the army and that his business is to see, not to think. He has exacted his terms, and doubtless will get out as quickly as possible.

It is understood that Capt. Barnter will travel with his chief. His orders are to tramp back through the Bahr-el-Ghazel province, gathering up French flags and other insignia of his retreat, finally halting within the frontier of Upper Ubangi. That is to say the French Government has taken the hint, and has graciously backed down. In the course of one of his memorable conversations with Baron de C. de C. as recorded in the "Historical Blue Book," it may be assumed, therefore, that the Anglo-French Sudan difficulty has been settled.

AS GERMANS SEE IT.

A Prediction That England Will Find in America Her Chief Competitor in Asia.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—The Lokal Anzeiger says that the American Government will probably receive compulsory general military service in America, but that its hired forces will come largely from Cuba, the Philippine Islands, Central and South America and East Asia, "thus reviving the medieval system of mercenary troops." His orders are to tramp back through the Bahr-el-Ghazel province, gathering up French flags and other insignia of his retreat, finally halting within the frontier of Upper Ubangi. That is to say the French Government has taken the hint, and has graciously backed down. In the course of one of his memorable conversations with Baron de C. de C. as recorded in the "Historical Blue Book," it may be assumed, therefore, that the Anglo-French Sudan difficulty has been settled.

OLD LIFEBOAT WRECKED.

Friend of All Nations Had Saved 400 Lives, and Was Lost on a Wild-Goose Chase.

London, Dec. 3.—The famous old lifeboat, Friend of All Nations, of Margate, which, during a service of 22 years, saved about 400 lives, has had her career brought to a pathetic close, being wrecked going out to a vessel in apparent distress.

It is remarkable that the boat was lost on the anniversary of a catastrophe last year, when Friend of All Nations capsized and 400 lives were drowned.

On this occasion the boat broke in two, but none were drowned, the crew being rescued by a tug. They got ashore, then gallantly manned another boat and went out to sea again, when it was found that after all the trouble, they had been on a wild goose chase, the vessel supposed to have been in trouble having passed on her way.

SUICIDE MANIA IN GERMANY.

Hundreds of School Children Under the Knife of the Mad Phenomenon.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—Das Echo, in an article, drawing attention to the statistics of German suicides for the ten years from 1887 to 1896, shows that 407 school children committed suicide. All these cases occurred in state schools; 331 were boys and 76 girls, each under 15 years of age. Whether or not Germany is more productive than other nations of this horrible modern symptom of child suicide, it certainly, as Das Echo remarks, may be regarded as one of the saddest and most startling of the phenomena of modern social life.

MACKIE GETS 10 YEARS.

The Jury Disagreed as to the Guilt of W. H. Ponton.

Ex-Bank Clerk is Now Out on $10,000 Bail to Stand Another Trial.

Venue May Be Changed to Cobourg—Considerable Dissatisfaction Expressed With the Verdict Against Mackie—Pare's and Holden's Cases Go Over Till After the Next Trial—Mackie to Be Taken to Kingston To-Day.

Napanee, Ont., Dec. 3.—(Special.)—At 9 o'clock this morning the doors of the Court House were besieged by the eager crowds of citizens, who would hardly care a way for the judge and the counsellors. The judge took his place upon the bench at 9.05. The room was jammed. Crier Black gave his last cry, and sank back, relieved.

The judge called the sheriff to him and asked if the jury had arrived at a decision.

In the meantime Holden, Pare, Ponton and Mackie were brought into the dock. The court was still.

It was 9.10. "Billie" Ponton looked anxious, and sat beside his mother. They talked in low whispers.

Mr. Mackie, father of the prisoner Mackie, was also present.

The sheriff brought a message, and the judge said: "Very well; bring them in."

In filed the jury, looking careworn and weary, as if they had not slept a wink. The names were called.

It was 9.15. "Gentlemen, have you agreed upon a verdict?" asked Mr. De-roche.

The foreman, James McCaughey, said: "Robert Mackie is guilty of the charge. Five recommend to mercy."

"What of Ponton?" asked Clerk De-roche.

"Ten are for acquittal; two are for conviction."

"Is there any hope of their agreeing?" asked His Lordship.

The foreman asked that the judge would go over the story again, as in the midst of so much evidence they had lost the thread.

While the judge conned his notes the jury sat, impressive.

"Verdict as to Robert Mackie, guilty, so you all," read Clerk De-roche, and every juror nodded his head in acquiescence.

James Mackie, sr., the father, looked weighted down with care.

The judge, in speaking to the jury, said

TWO CASES OF SMALLPOX.

Medical Health Officer Sheard, Traces One to Cobourg, But the Source of the Other is Not Given. Out—Both Patients Young Women.

Two Toronto homes are under the rigid surveillance of the Health Department today, and had been all day yesterday. Ingress and egress have been stopped by quarantine, for smallpox, the authorities are prone to believe, has entered there, to the exclusion necessarily of everything else.

By a coincidence unparalleled in the health annals of this city the symptoms were discovered in the cases of Miss Barton, 32 Phoebe-street, and of Miss Boyce, visiting at 16 Garden-avenue, on the one day, yesterday.

Yesterday they were both removed with the utmost alacrity and care to the small-pox hospital.

The coincidence is the more enhanced, because of the fact that the two houses are far removed; their respective inmates are practically unacquainted, and the others' existence and the contagion seems to be untraceable to the same source.

In fact in only one case, that of Miss Barton, is there any clue to origination. The young lady is a daughter of Mr. Thos. W. Barton, and has recently, it is understood, returned from a visit to Cobourg, the scene of the outbreak of some weeks ago.

In the case of Miss Boyce, the link of contagion is known only, if to anybody, to Medical Health Officer Sheard, Miss Boyce, a young lady of 20 or thereabouts, is from Montreal. She has been for the past month or so the guest of Mr. Alfred R. Symons of Garden-avenue, assistant librarian at Osgoode Hall. A physician was summoned yesterday and, not being positive in his diagnosis, summoned Dr. Sheard, who confirmed him in his suspicion that it was a case of smallpox in the earlier stages of development and had Miss Boyce removed to isolation as above stated.

Neither of the presumed cases has as yet shown the characteristic lesions, but she is seemingly well. Every precaution has been taken by Dr. Sheard, and the possibility of an epidemic or even of any further outbreak is minimized.

Both houses have been thoroughly fumigated and there is not the least cause for any apprehension.

The Medical Health Officer declines to say anything upon the subject, but will make an official statement at the meeting of the Local Board of Health on Wednesday.

To Close the Hospital.
Cobourg, Dec. 4.—Arrangements have been completed for the closing of the Smallpox Hospital. Five weeks ago Cobourg was threatened with serious danger, but the vigilance of the authorities has been rewarded. The patient will probably go to her home near Deseronto. It is a subject for congratulation that the second strain did not contract the disease, and she has simply to thank her prompt vaccination and the disinfecting regulations for her good fortune.

Called Him "Boodler Blair."
And That Was More Than the Minister of Railways Would Stand.

Halifax, Dec. 4.—Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways, last week instructed counsel to institute proceedings against the New Glasgow Enterprise and its editor for criminal libel, on account of an article published entitled "Boodler Blair."

The article accused the Minister of profiting personally by an order given to an American firm for locomotives for the I.C.R. The Enterprise, in its last issue, published an apology, and it is understood that the threatened prosecution has been dropped.

SNOW AND SLUSH AND ICY MUSH.

Curbstones Flush, Gutters Gush and Trolley Wheels Send Show-

Toronto had a variety of weather yesterday, the most of it of a very unpleasant character. The early morning was dull and mild, not unpleasant enough to materially affect the ordinary church attendance. Shortly after noon the leaden, lowering clouds commenced a steady rain, which, as the daylight faded, turned into sleet. The temperature falling, and a stiff breeze from the east springing up, the drizzle developed into a snowstorm and a miniature blizzard. Those who were abroad were glad of the street car accommodation, but this was not without some little difficulty, for the signboards of the cars were covered with snow and the street crossings with slush. The electric lights often failed, and a car journey was a matter of discomfort. As the night advanced there was no abatement of the storm, and the street car service was a matter of uncertainty.

The storm, which was unexpected, was central over Kentucky yesterday morning, and moved quickly north-east towards the Maritime Provinces. The Meteorological Department had night before last the storm was a severe one in the west, as the wires were evidently down in that district. No news could be obtained in that direction further west than Detroit. The storm is general over Ontario.

Train Delayed From Hamilton.
The Canadian Pacific train, No. 86, from Hamilton, due at the Union Station at 10 o'clock last night, was completely paralyzed by the big snowstorm. She reached Burlington a few minutes ago, but no attempt was made to bring her into Toronto. She will be delayed at Burlington until the snow is cleared. A large number of local people are on board and the passengers for the city will not be able to make connections until this morning.

Settled Their Differences.
The Cummings Brothers Meet Again and Vote to Continue Their Business Relations.

Thanksgiving Day last week saw a very pleasant little party seated around a privately supplied table in one of the private dining rooms of the Roscoe House. In the party were Mr. Robert Cummings, Mr. Ralph Cummings, Miss Nettie Marshall and Miss Blanche Douglas. The party was of significance to local theatre-goers, because it brought together Messrs. Robert and Ralph Cummings, who at once advised their differences and voted to continue their business relations. No story of any business differences has ever appeared in the newspapers, and it is generally known and generally known in many circles.

That Missing $82,000 Said to Have Been Recovered by the Molsens Bank at Winnipeg—A Queer Story.

From The Sunday World.
I have just heard that the secret of the robbery of $82,000 from Molsens Bank in Winnipeg has been revealed. The story of the revelation as given me is as follows: It was reported to the manager that one of the clerks in the bank had gone crazy in consequence of the continued and perpetual espionage of the detectives. He was always of a religious and cranky turn of mind. On Wednesday he was found praying in the snow in his night shirt by command of the Lord Jesus."

Business men of Toronto severely criticized the story, but there was a good big screw loose. Finally the man was persuaded that the Lord commanded him to fully clothe himself. Having got this in his mind, he was experienced in convincing him that the Lord further insisted on his disclosing the hiding place of the money. There he up and told the story, and the $82,000 was recovered. Such is the yarn that has reached me, and I believe is correct.

The Captious One.
The World telegraphed to its Montreal correspondent on Saturday night a story that from the headquarters of Molsens Bank what truth there was in the foregoing story. The correspondent replied: "General Manager Wolfertan Thomas says story refers to young Jack, who is now in the asylum at Geolph, but there is nothing in the statement that he took the money or returned it."

It has been reported among prominent business men of Toronto that several days ago the missing money had been discovered and returned to the bank. Mr. Thomas' statement, however, qualifies the story, which apparently still surrounded in mystery.

What is It?
The World heard a rumor yesterday that something sensational would be sprung before long in connection with the bank burglary case at Napanee.

Colder After the Storm.
Meteorological Office, Toronto, Dec. 4.—(4 p.m.)—An important storm, which was central over Kentucky this morning, is moving quickly northward to the Maritime Provinces, and is at present causing high winds and snow in the Lower Lake district.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Victoria, 35-44; Kamloops, 6-34; Port Arthur, 2-10; Parry Sound, 34-38; Toronto, 28-35; Ottawa, 18-32; Montreal, 22-28; Quebec, 21-32; Halifax, 32-44.

Prohibitions.
Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay—Strong winds and gales from the northeast and northwest; snow or rain at first, clearing by night, with decreasing winds and lower temperature.

Ottawa Valley—Strong winds and gales from east to north, with snow or rain at first, clearing by night, with decreasing winds and lower temperature.

Lake Superior—Fair and cold. Manitoba—Fair, with higher temperature and light local snowfalls.

TRAGEDY IN MONTREAL.

The Terrible Demon Jealousy Was in This Man.

GIRL WOULDN'T HAVE HIM

When She Married Another He Killed Her and Then Suicided.

Pierre Lauson Meets the 19-Year-Old Wife of Adelaire Richot on St. James-Street, and Without a Moment's Warning Shot Her Dead at His Feet—When Pursued, the Coward Shot Himself, Dying Three Hours Later.

Montreal, Dec. 4.—(Special.)—Less than a month ago Montreal was startled by a foul murder and suicide, and now just such another double crime has been perpetrated.

Early last evening the 19-year-old wife of Adelaire Richot was coming east on St. James-street, and when opposite the Queen's Hotel and quite near the Grand Trunk Depot, she was murdered in cold blood.

Richot, who is a workman, had married the girl only a month before, and they had gone to housekeeping on McCord-street. Previous to her marriage she had an admirer named Pierre Lauson, who was greatly smitten with the young woman's exceedingly pretty face, and when she married he swore that she would not live long with her husband, and it is even said that Lauson threatened to kill her on sight, and in fact this is exactly what he did last evening.

Mrs. Richot, accompanied by a little girl living next door, was coming down town to meet her husband, and when at the place above indicated she suddenly met Lauson, who immediately caught the poor woman by the wrists, and, whipping out a revolver, he shot her dead at his feet.

It does not appear to have been the cowardly murderer's first intention to commit suicide after shooting Madame Richot, for he made off up a side street as soon as she fell. There were men near at hand, however, who saw the deed committed, and they were soon hotly pursuing the author of the terrible crime, and, in fact, Lauson had not run far when he saw the game was up, and once more he drew the revolver and sent a ball crashing into his own crazy criminal brain. Mrs. Richot died instantly and, although her ex-lover never regained consciousness, he did not expire until about three hours after the double tragedy was enacted, and both bodies were placed side by side in an ambulance and driven to the hospital, where an inquest will be held some time to-morrow.

All Europe Watching.
Another Territorial Dispute Has Cropped Up Now.

Paris, Dec. 4.—All Europe is breathlessly watching for the outcome of yet another territorial dispute, in which the question of effective occupation will probably soon loom up. This large quarrel, however, is not international, but intermunicipal. The three municipalities of Chamouilly, Salanches and St. Jarvix have referred their serious question to the Government. Who owns the top of Mont Blanc? The leasing to enterprising prospectors of various spots at different altitudes on Mont Blanc has been most profitable. Chamouilly having proclaimed that the entire summit is under its sphere of influence, the other municipalities have protested. A mass of old maps and documents comparable to the Venezuelan dossier have now been submitted to the Government.

Half a Million Dollars to Be Spent in Reclaiming Half a Million Acres of Land.

Winnipeg, Dec. 4.—The Alberta Irrigation Company, of which Mr. E. T. Galt of Lethbridge is president, has commenced work on a mammoth scheme to reclaim lands between Cardston and Lethbridge, in Southern Alberta. Sixty miles of canal will be built, and 40 miles are at work thereon. The sum of $500,000 will be expended, and 500,000 acres of land irrigated. The main canal is to be finished next year, and the lateral following season. It is proposed to sell the lands on low terms, the settlement of district being of primary importance.

The intake of the canal will be at a point on St. Mary's river, some miles above Cardston and five miles north of the international boundary line, and its course will be as nearly direct as possible to Stirling, a distance of 60 miles, a point 20 miles from Lethbridge on the line of railroad between Lethbridge and Great Falls. There will also be 20 miles of lateral canals connecting various points along the main canal, so as to secure the reclamation of as much land as possible.
