to give the public a good line on his form."

Berger further said that the promoter warts to pit big Jim Flynn and another heavy against Jeffries in the one ring, each man to face Jeffries for three rounds with a brief intermission between. The Californian tried, it will be remembered, this experiment at the Lenox Athletic Club, this city, just prior to his match with Bob Fitzsimmons, over ten years ago, but was unsuccessful. He contracted to tackle two men for ten rounds each. His first opponent was Bob Armstrong, and the negro went the limit. When it was time for the next man, Steve O'Donnell, to put on the gloves with Jeffries, the latter was unable to proceed because of a broken hand. Berger promises to let the public know what Jeffries' immediate plans are in a few days.
