HIGGINS AND GOODSPEED.

A Scientific Study.

The following article on the characteristics of Higgins and Goodspeed has been written for the Star by Palma Prof. Brown of Montreal. Prof. Brown is an authority on phrenology and is the author of several works on this subject. He is one of the best known of Upper Canadian phrenologists.

Frof. Brown is not closely acquainted with the story of the Doherty murder, and knew nothing of the part taken by each of the boys. His remarks were made solely from a study of the two faces as shown in the published plotares.

boy murderer, Higgins, the other of his accomplice, Goodspeed, I summarize their make-up as follows: Higgins possesses a brain measurement of about the average in size, but it is much below the average in quality, due to pre-natal influences; after conditions, such as food, training, environment, associations, etc. The form of his head shows wherein lie his other shortcomings. First he is large in the lower frontal lobes and small in, the superior frontal organs, which developments, coupled with the great width of head between and immediately above the ears (Destructiveness) causes him to act with but little reasoning and upon first conclusions.

Goodspeed's face and cranium is to me of a much more criminal type than that of Higgins, and unless this boy is at once trained in the proper manner, he will be heard from again in perhaps a worse position. His head shows a shrewd, scheming, underhand, mean, unprincipled individual. His cars, chin, mouth, width and form of head are all indicative of a class of irregularity in mental development which will be a constant cause for watchfulness upon the community. Goodspeed has an intelligence and underhand cunning which Higgins lacks, backed by principles which Higgins would be unlikely to exercise. Goodspeed would urge on but keep at a safe datance, he is cowardly in danger, but would show much of his braggadocio when in safety. He is a good judge of human nature and knows how to obtain sympathy, his large cautiousness, large selfishness and secretiveness as well as destructiveness, a full compliment of the reasoning faculties and a very large development of the cerebellum,

THE RING.

THE RING.

CORBETT WILL FIGHT IN JUNE.

ALBANY, Jan. 21.—James J. Corbett is in this city and says he will accept the offer of the Fort Erie Club of Buffalo of a purse of $25,000 for a fight between him and Jeffries. He says he will fight Jeffries in June and is anxious to have the champion sign articles at once. Corbett appears to be in excellent condition.

"I do not want a split purse," said Corbett, "for I will fight him with the understanding that the winner take 75 per cent. and the loser 25 per cent. He has crawled out of making a match with me after promising my representatives he would meet them and sign articles. I understand the Fort Erie Club says it will put up a forfeit for the fight, so I do not see what Jeffries means in not hurrying up and signing the articles."

The recent flurry among the heavy-weight puglilists caused chiefly by the failure of Champion James J. Jeffries to stop Jack Munroe, the miner, in four rounds and also his refusal to meet "Mexican Pete" Everett in a similar bout, has brought old John L. Sullivan to the surface with a series of comments to Fistiana which are characteristic of the former "Boston Strong Boy." Mr. Sullivan, incidentally, has been travelling at such a rapid gait recently that it is a wonder that he has been able to find enough time to give vent to his feelings.

of the variable of the denough time to give vent to his feelings.

"These fighters, big and little," said Mr. Sullivan, tippling back in his chair in a Boston barroom, "make me sick! They are a lot o' four flushers and no-Aney are a lot o' four flushers and no-body knows it better than John L., Sullivan. Why, if they'd a' been in the ring in my time they'd a' been glad ter fight for $500 purses. For that rea-son when they talk about $10,000 side bets they make me feel like lickin' the whole bunch.

"They say Jeffries was scared when he tackled Munnoe! What fer? What did Munroe ever do? Who dealt him a band, the big chump? I'll bet he was frightened to death when he saw Jeffries get into the ring. No, Jeffries wasn't scared at all. He was just overconfident and was out o' condition'! But he oughter nailed that dub anyway. The trouble with Jeffries is he ain't fierce enough. When I was meetin' all comers I had 'em whipped before I put up me hands! I just give 'em the eye and they wanted to go home to mother. Why, I had Jim Corbett's knees knockin' together when he saw me get into the ring at New Orleans ten years ago and if I'd a' been John L right I'd a' put him away along with Paddy Ryan, Jake Kilrain and the others.

"I always insisted that Corbett was no account and I was right, too, for Fitzslmones found the yellow steels.

with Paddy Ryan, Jake Kilrain and the others.

"I always insisted that Corbett was no account and I was right, too, for Fitzslimmons found the yellow streak when he got to the solar plexus out in Carson. Corbett is a good boxer, but that lets him out without further comment. He never could fight. Fitzsimmons, in my estimation, is the best of them all. But he talks too much and tries to play the baby act when he's licked. That stuff he fanned into the public's cars that he was doped during the first fight with Jeffries was the worst I ever heard.

"Jeffries is so big and strong that it will take some fellow his size to beat him, unless some guy comes along with a sneaker over on the jaw what will do the trick and win a wagon of dough. All of the big fellows have felt his firsts, but I wish to say that he never could hit me a minute. Could I have beaten Jeffries? Well, I'd like to bet that I could have made him turn his toes up in a couple o' rounds. I'd a'rushed him to the ropes right off the reel and sent in a couple of rights that would have made a first-class astronomer out of him.

"What do I think of Kid McCoy? Why, he's no fighter and never ought to have been taken seriously. Who did he ever light? A whole lot o' guys with his mouth, but that was all. I'll bet Tommy Ryan can whip him now to a finish, and then there's Joe Walcott that the Kid always dodged. Peter Maher was a counterfeit. He wasn't game enough to have a tooth pulled. I never saw such a quitter in my life and I've seen many. Then there's another on account-that Choynski. He's been getting the public's money for what? Did he ever lick anybody worth lickin'?

what? Did he ever lick anybody worth lickin?

"Tom Sharkey's a gentleman and a scholar, in my opinion, and always willing to fight anybody, but I never did do. He wasn't fily enough to suit me. His head wasn't filled with quick wheels like Sullivan's. But at that I'll give him credit for standing Jeffries off longer than any other heavy.

"Gus Ruhlin? A big slob. Marden taught him all he knows, and that ain't much, you can bet. He's a first-class punching bag, however, and that in't much, you can bet. He's a first-class punching bag, however, and that's something. They tell /ne that young feller, 'Philadelphia Jáck' O'Brien, is a coming man, but I fall to see it. What did he ever do? Kid Carter and George Gardner are second-raters, or I don't know a thing.

"The little fellers? Well, 'Young Corbett' whipped Terry McGovern once, but whether Terry can turn the tables or not is a grave question in my mind. Terry is the only fighter I've ever seen what followed Sullivan in style and if he continues to follow Sullivan he'll win. Outside of these two boys I don't see a little fighter what is worth tallin' about.

"It's a shame the way people frown on boxin,' There ain't a thing wrong with it and it ought ter be permitted in all the States of the Union. They allow football with its broken legs and arms and heads, but they won't have boxin,' That's because the goody-goody people are on top. Give me a 16-foot ring, two strong men and a fair referee for mine. But if they're fakirs, it othe jall. Fakin' in the prize ring has killed a great sport and the fakirs were the guys what couldn't win on the level. Now they're eatin' free lunch the few freinds they have left give them the shake.

"Sullivan is broke today, but he's never been called a fakir and he's never eaten free lunch, that's a cinch. When John L wants a bed he'll find it ready for him and that reminds me. I guess I'll go ter bed now."

WANDERERS SURPRISED.

The Wanderers of Halifax surprised themselves and their friends at the Dartmouth rink Tuesday evening playing all round the Chebuctos and defeating them by a score of 13 goals to 2. The ice was in splendid condition and the rink well lighted, but the attendance of spectators was not more than 250. The game was a fast one, the rubber was kept well on the move, and Referee Campbell allowed no fooling. Add Skating.

PREPARING FOR CHAMPIONSHIPS Mr. Rubenstein is authority for the statement that Harley Davidson will have a, big string of skaters here for the championships. ASSAULTED AND STABBED.

Daniel Steeves of Alma was assaulted and stabbed at Robertson's wharf

Daniel Steeves of Alma was assaulted and stabbed at Robertson's wharf about noon yesterday by two men who were strangers to him, but who had been treated by him in a bar on Mill street a few minutes before.

Mr. Steeves arrived in St. John on Tuesday with his brother, who is now in the General Public Hospital of this city suffering from liver trouble. About 11 o'clock yesterday morning he left his boarding house for the depot, purposing to take the train to Petit-codiac, where a team was waiting to convey him to his home at Alma.

Thinking that he would like to have a drink before leaving the city, he entered a Mill street bar. There he met two other men, who asked him to treat. He did so. After the drinking was over, Mr. Steeves took out his wallet an' threw down a bill to pay for the drinks. He then left the bar and walked toward the new I. C. R. pier to learn something of the manner in which the winter port business of St. John is carried on. The two fellows whom he treated followed, and assaulted him on Robertson's wharf, knocking him down and stabbing him in one of his wrists and hands.

He believes that he would have lost his pocketbook and ossibly would have been killed had there not been some one near to render assistance. On reaching the depot Mr. Steeves was bleeding profusely and was well nigh exhausted. To Officer Collins he told his story in detail, and was urged to remain in the city to identify those who committed the assault. But he said that he must go to Petitocdiae on the noon train to meet the team which was there waiting to take him to his home. He would return in a day or two. On being asked to describe the two who assaulted him, he did so, and from the description given the police believe that they know who did the deed. Mr. Steeves said that he could easily identify them, for he distinctly remembered the appearance of each. He heard one call the other Davie.
