War in the East. The Eastern Question, that fruitful breeder of discord, again occupying the attention of European statesmen.

War has been declared between Montenegro and Turkey, hostile forces are preparing for the conflict, and foreigners are leaving before the strike of battle.

The countries between which war has been declared are not so important that their strife will cause any serious inconvenience to the commerce of any country.

The Ottoman Empire, Germany, Russia, England and France exercise an informal protectorate over both, and Russia and Austria are known to have designs on their territory.

Europe of this kind arouses suspicions and hopes that threaten the peace of Europe. Montenegro is an insignificant state on the western frontier of Turkey.

The Turks have twice invaded the country in 1853, when they retired after gaining a few trifling successes in the field, and in 1862, when they defeated the Montenegrins in several engagements and concluded a treaty which affirmed the sovereignty of the Sultan.

The Montenegrins belong to the Greek Church, and Russia's probable interference on the pretext of preserving her co-religionists from Mohammedan oppression is looked forward to with alarm.

The principalities have preserved the independence of their territory, and the nations that have agreed to preserve the Principalities from her clutches. Immediate interference, on the part of the nations most interested in preventing the re-opening of the Eastern Question, for the purpose of effecting a reasonable settlement of the quarrel between Turkey and Montenegro, seems to be the only safe solution of the problem.

Turkey could not very well refuse the good offices of her national guardians, and Montenegro, unless her rulers have lately fallen too much under the influence of Russian agents, would not be likely to refuse to follow the advice of England, France, Austria and Germany.

Uruguay, which has just indulged in that South American necessary of life, a revolution, is one of those Republics that are usually the victims of despotic power. It lies on the Atlantic coast of South America, south of Brazil, and has an area of 66,176 square miles, nearly three times that of New Brunswick, and a population of 550,000.

It is now a matter of territorial dispute between the British and the Spaniards, and its inhabitants are chiefly Creoles of Spanish descent, the Indians and negroes being few. Uruguay gained its freedom when the power of Spain was broken in South America, and set up as an independent power. It was annexed by Brazil in 1821, and was restored to self government in 1828, after a bloody struggle which was terminated by the interference of Great Britain.

Several civil wars of its own, and a war with the Argentine Confederation, have been indulged in since then.

The Government of Canada, now that the Ontario election is over, hastens to announce the death sentence that was pronounced against Lepine for murder and imprisonment for two years and the forfeiture of the right to vote and hold office. Mr. Mackenzie is the man who used to be so anxious, in opposition, to get hold of Lepine, but how tender he is with him now.

The Mowat Government would have been defeated if this order had been published before the Ontario elections. Riel, who has been declared an outlaw, may surrender now and stand his trial. Two years for a murderer! This is the punishment provided for petty thefts.

The action of the Spanish Government, in promising prompt payment for the Carlisle seizure of a German vessel, brings the new King into favor with maritime powers. The talk about obtaining an indemnity from the Carlisle, however, is rather mysterious. The Government must either shoulder the full responsibility of outrages by Carlisle on foreign powers, or admit that the Carlisle should be recognized as the ruler of a portion of Spain.

The Freeman credits the Hon. Robert Young with the authorship of the Gloucester dispatches. Ours are received from the gentleman whom we always depend on for news from that quarter, and are paid for by THE TRIBUNE, and are published as a portion of the news of the day.

President Grant seems to scent the battle afar off, and he is recommending the further fortification of the coast. Disraeli's prophecy looks nearer fulfillment than it did when it was made, and a warlike feeling pervades the atmosphere.

The following is a sample of letters that are coming in with reference to the municipality question: Your editorial referring to Municipalities is causing quite a discussion here, and I, I think, quite agree with you, and should like to see your suggestions acted on.

Westminster Circuit Court. $1,000 DAMAGES AWARDED IN A BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT. DORCHESTER, Jan. 20.

The cause of Mary E. Palmer vs Samuel Dinmore, which has occupied the attention of the Court since Thursday last, was finished this evening (Wednesday). It is an action for breach of promise of marriage.

The plaintiff, who is now twenty-eight years of age and a resident of Dorchester, alleges that in the spring of 1863 she became acquainted with the defendant, who boarded at her father's house, that he held her attention during the whole of that year, and in July, 1864, he became engaged. In the following December, under color of contemplated marriage, he seduced her. The defendant then went to Nova Scotia, and did not return permanently till the spring of 1865, but never called on the plaintiff, and no written correspondence took place between them in the meantime. Exertions were then made by plaintiff's father to induce defendant to carry out his promise, but all of no avail, and fearing an action he transferred his property and went to the United States and did not return till 1872, supposing that the action was barred by the Statute of Limitations; but writs had been issued in the interim and he was arrested in St. John in the summer of that year. The defendant denied that he ever promised to marry plaintiff, and supported by his corroborative evidence endeavored to prove by his own ipse dixit that she was loose in character; but he was entirely failed. He also alleged that plaintiff made advances to him, but the weight of testimony on the other side went to disprove this.

The case excited considerable interest in the community, the Court House being filled with spectators every day. The counsel indulged in alterations which were not very edifying to the Court, and his Honor the Judge had frequently to interpose to save to preserve order.

The counsel for the defendant occupied three hours in his address to the Jury. It was a speech freighted with high flow transcendental language, but did not deal to the point. The counsel for the plaintiff spoke two hours, making an unanswerable argument, expatiating on the diabolical act of the defendant, and at times speaking with such vehemence that it brought tears to the eyes of many in the Court House.

The Jury brought in a verdict of $1600 for the plaintiff. A. L. Palmer, Q. C. and D. L. Hingston, Esq., for the plaintiff; A. J. H. Hingston, Esq., and P. A. Landry, Esq., for the defendant.

The trial of Manship, the boy murderer, takes place to-morrow.

A Glimpse at the Hab. BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT. BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 17.

Representing you, as I have the honor to do, in a large and respectable body of facts for publication concerning the great protest meeting of Boston and other matters.

At Faneuil Hall, "the Cradle of Liberty," as it is called, a large and respectable body of men convened on Friday. The meeting was called for the purpose of giving expression to the views of the people upon the Louisiana trouble. Many leading men were present and participated in the proceedings. John Q. Adams, Col. Saltonstall, and a host of others spoke in strong condemnation of Grant and "Fighting Phil," and for a time "all went merry as a marriage bell," but finally some who, like your humble servant, felt like bearing both sides, made a call upon "the silver-tongued orator of America," Wendell Phillips. After repeated and emphatic calls Mr. Phillips took the platform and with wild bursts of applause, and then for the first time I hear a full, perfect and satisfactory account of proceedings in Louisiana. Mr. Phillips first desired to call attention to the fact that while the meeting professed to give expression to the public feeling of Boston, the leading men of Boston were notably absent, and he warned them to be careful in their expressions, so far as it was supposed to be the expression of Boston.

Having dealt with this side of the subject, he proceeded to deal with the other, and in a most forcible and original manner he pointed out the fact that while the meeting professed to give expression to the public feeling of Boston, the leading men of Boston were notably absent, and he warned them to be careful in their expressions, so far as it was supposed to be the expression of Boston.

When he commenced to expose the actions of the Democrats may in the hall began to hiss and shout, but he of all was the coolest simply waited for a cessation of the noise, and then in his bland manner continued in the same style.

His speech was clear, comprehensive and sound, and although Mr. Hamilton and others chose to make a personal attack on his motives and political principles, no one dared (even the force of his arguments).

The resolution was declared passed, although full as many voted against as for it.

It is generally believed here that Grant's course will meet the approval of Congress, and the President's course will meet the approval of the people. The report of the sub-committee of Congress is that the action of the Returning Board of Louisiana was illegal in rejecting the Democrats, but they should the matter to view it from another point of view, I, e., whether the private members of the House can put a question before a Speaker is elected, or whether that prerogative is vested entirely in the Clerk.

The Democratic portion of the Legislature were acting illegally and unconstitutionally; their supporters were shooting and driving away the negroes from the polls. The Judges were compelled to flee. Civil Justice was at an end. The outraged citizens, the suffering negroes, and the Republicans generally looked for assistance and protection to the President. They had a right to expect it, and they had a right to receive it. The only way open was to use the military power of the country. It was used, and life is now safe in New Orleans. But politics will no doubt clog upon your readers, and therefore I will say but little more, and that shall be concerning Boston.

Boston is looking up since the late fire. The new Post Office is a magnificent building, but is already said to be too small. The Providence Depot, opened a few days ago near Boston Common, is said to be the finest building of the kind in America. It is elaborately finished and will afford ample accommodation to all passengers by that line. I am now en route for Ottawa, where my next will reach you.

Common Council. The Council met yesterday afternoon every member being present except Coun. Nannary. Fifteen strangers were in the room. What's up? was the inquiry.

The Market Committee recommended that the Bill Committee be authorized to prepare a bill to provide for the erection of a Market House, and for the purchase of the additional land required in accordance with a former report; and that a number of accounts be paid. Adopted.

The Lancaster Lands and Navy Island Committee recommended the payment of Highway and School taxes; and that the Recorder proceed, by action of ejectment, to obtain possession of certain lots of land on Navy Island. Adopted.

The Special Committee on Accounts recommended the payment of a number of bills; and that the bills of the Telegraph and Freeman be cut down, as no order appeared for said papers copying some of the advertisements.

The Street Committee recommended that a number of bills be paid. They further recommended that an insurance be effected on the Corporation boiler. The report was accepted after Ald. Peters had asked whether the boiler should be insured against bursting, rust, frost, or dry rot.

The Eastern Lands Committee recommended that the lot at present under lease to D. H. Hill be sold to him for $1,000. Adopted.

The Police Committee reported that they had had under consideration the petition of E. H. Lester in reference to a fine imposed on him, for drunkenness in the Police Court. They could not deal with any appeal from that Court to the Council, and, therefore, declined interfering. They further could not see why the Chief of Police should not admit to bail, and refuse to discharge a citizen when sufficient and good sureties were offered for his appearance. The report was adopted without any member asking what right the Chief of Police has to admit any one to bail.

The Harbor Committee submitted a report recommending a number of bills, and considered it advisable that the Board should again assess the advisability of putting the harbor in the hands of a commission, according to a report submitted by a sub-committee.

Section first was adopted and Ald. Duffell moved that the second section be referred back to a committee, whose duty it should be to consider the whole question.

Ald. Peters thought Ald. Duffell's motion was an evasion of the question. It was putting it off instead of coming to a square vote.

Ald. Lockhart favored the motion. A vote had passed this Board unanimously (except the venerable West Side) approving of the commission, and he was surprised to find the Alderman for Sydney taking the position he did.

Ald. Duffell—Don't be surprised at anything that happens at this Board. Ald. McCordock opposed the motion. He commenced at the first time—in 1853—when a Harbor Commission was mooted. He claimed that the revenues were worth much more than the sum set down by the Committee. At one of the meetings of the Committee he had asked for the revenue in detail of every lock, wharf, pier, breakwater, pier, the anchorage, slippage, fisheries, revenue from ballast ground, &c., &c. He had been appointed to ascertain that for the Committee, and had spent many hours working until midnight. The Alderman produced a plan of the Harbor, showing the number of acres—122—of the public lands of the West Side that were to be given away. This was the only reference to the different wharves, piers, and the Arab from Newfoundland laden.
