

bring the souls of men "under the government of Christ." This is our "Holy Grail," for whose blessed vision we are content to become "as strangers and pilgrims on the earth," to toil and suffer the loss of all things. We live for the salvation of all, but seek chiefly the great non church-going class, comprising the roughest elements of society, the lowest, the vilest, the thief, the drunkard, and the outcast. Ordinary methods failed to reach these social outlaws; therefore, we have tried, under God's direction, extraordinary methods which have been crowned with success in countless instances. When the Army forgets its raison d'être—the compulsion of the highways and hedges into the Christ King-
